Rivard May Be in B.C. Letter to Wife Hints

In Our HOUSE

By Arthur Mayse

Among members of what the premier likes to describe as the most exciting club in British Columbia, pink and sturdy Leo Thomas Nimsick often hears himself referred to as "Leo the Lion."

This title the sometimes verbose MLA for Cranbrook shrugs off with an amiable smile; but on Wednesday evening and Thursday afternoon, Leo Nimsick fully justified his nickname in the House.

Since 1961, a royal commission has been snailing its ponderous way through the entanglements of barbed wire and red tape which, according to opposition members, have kept industrial accident victims from a fair shake.

On Wednesday, Mr. Nimsick took it into his sparsely-thatched head that workmen's widows ($90 a month pension) and orphans ($35 each) have waited long enough for redress.

Batting aside government arguments that a matter in the hands of a commission shouldn't be tampered with, Leo the Lion roared to the attack.

Thursday afternoon found the House still in labor, and with ire unquenched by a night and a morning, Mr. Nimsick struck out for the widows and orphans again.

Backing him, he now had a veritable dragon's brood of tough fighters. Also, he had roused sympathy on the government side which independent minded Socreds Ernie LeCours for Delta and backbencher Don Robinson for Lillooet demonstrated by hearty slaps on their desks.

Booming boss-logger Gordon Gibson, North Vancouver Liberal, threatened to withdraw earlier kind works about Premier Bennett if Labor Minister Peterson failed to guarantee speedy action.

Opposition Leader Strachan declared himself tired of waiting in hope and optimism for the Workmen's Compensation Board to catch up with the cost of living index and raise the pensions of industrial casualties.

"Now," he told the House, "we've waited long enough!"

Then stubborn Socred LeCours added his say:

"A temporary increase would be in order. I suggest that anyone trying to exist on $90 a month is in dire need right now."

Final lick was delivered by Macdonald, who urged that pensions be increased by the minister through order-in-council until the commission reports, which will likely be in May.

Mr. Peterson: "I'd be pleased to give that consideration."

So the battle was won—or half won—for B.C.'s widows and orphans who have lost a breadwinner to industrial mishap.

The epilogue was delivered by John Squire, NDP for Alberni, who has fought for the underprivileged times aplenty in this same legislative chamber.

"My friend from Cranbrook," said Johnny Squire of Leo the Lion, "has carried the ball. . . I sat back and watched him . . . and, by golly, he's done a real good job."

Amen to that! But let no one jump to the conclusion that Minister Peterson is the villain of this piece. These industrial pensions are essentially industry's pigeon through the WCB.

I think government would do

LET FREEDOM RING, is the rallying cry of these students staging sit-down protest around Liberty Bell in Philadelphia's Independence Hall as guards continue to conduct tours around them. Students wore armbands in memory of Rev. James J. Reeb, slain in racial violence at Selma. (AP Wirephoto.)

IN VOTE DRIVE

Death Sparks New Protests

NEW YORK (AP)—A swelling chorus rang out across the U.S. today in support of the Negro voter registration campaign in Alabama.

Students, civil rights leaders, clergymen and government officials joined in demonstrations Thursday over the racial strife that has gripped Alabama in the past week. Most of the demonstrations took the form of sympathy marches for the cause of the Negroes.

Many memorial prayer services are being planned for the weekend for Rev. James J. Reeb, 38, a white minister from Boston who died Thursday night after being clubbed three days ago in Selma, Ala.

Bitter words were directed against Alabama Governor George Wallace Thursday by two other Democratic governors.

North Dakota's Governor William Guy sent a telegram to Wallace saying he was "appalled at the treatment that Alabama law allows one American to give to another American."

BLAMES WALLACE

Alaska's Governor William A. Egan said in a telegram from Washington:

"From the depths of my heart, George Wallace, I consider you to be even more guilty than those who wielded the actual weapons that murdered James J. Reeb.

"When your judgment day comes, I hope that God, in his infinite grace, can find some way to lend mercy for your soul."

Republican Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York said Thursday night that civil rights demonstrators in Selma have been treated with "inhuman brutality."

He said at Albany that "it is hard to believe that this is taking place in our country."

Protest demonstrations Thursday were in Los Angeles, Philadelphia, Newark, N.J.; Iowa City, Springfield, Ill., St. Paul, Greensboro, N.C.; Syracuse, N.Y.; Gary, Ind., and Toronto. Many also were planned for today.

RACE VIGIL CONTINUES IN TORONTO

TORONTO (CP)—About 100 demonstrators sat on the sidewalk in front of the United States consulate here today, watched by a dozen policemen, as their protest against anti-Negro violence in Alabama continued.

About 60 demonstrators maintained an overnight vigil in front of the building. It was their third day of demonstrating.

About half of the demonstrators were students from Toronto and Hamilton. The others were from Toronto's Bohemian community.

REEB DIES AFTER CLUBBING

Minister 'Martyred Hero' In Race Struggle — King

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A white Boston minister who came to Alabama to join the drive for Negro civil rights died Thursday night, 48 hours after he was beaten by a group of white men.

The death of Rev. James J. Reeb, 38, brought telephone calls of sympathy from the president and the vice-president of the United States and messages from well wishers across the continent.

Selma has been the centre of a Negro voter registration drive for more than a month, a drive led by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

King said Reeb "now joins the ranks of those martyred heroes who have died in the struggle for freedom and human dignity."

The Unitarian minister and father of four children died at University Hospital where he had been in a coma since brain surgery Tuesday night. Mrs. Reeb was by the bedside.

The body of Rev. Reeb was cremated and the ashes flown to his home town at Casper, Wyo., today for burial.

Reeb and two other Unitarian clergymen were beaten when they were attacked by a group of white men on a Selma street. The other ministers were not hurt seriously. Reeb was driven 90 miles to Birmingham, where he underwent emergency surgery.

Wilson Baker, Selma's public safety director, said four Selma men had been arrested and charged with murder. They were released later on $25,000 bail each. Baker said Alabama law permits bail on a murder charge if there is any indication a jury will not return the death penalty.

Reeb was working for the American Friends Service Committee at the time he died.

March in Memory Fades Before Police

SELMA, Ala. (AP)—A memorial march by Negroes for a white minister slain in Alabama's bitter civil rights struggle fizzled today.

Nearly 100 Negroes stood before a police blockade in this rain-lashed racial battleground but they were undecided on what to do in the face of a stern order from the mayor not to march.

"I'll stay here in the best interest of the city to see that there is no march," Mayor Joseph T. Smitherman told reporters at the scene.

Smitherman, standing under an umbrella against the driving rain, denied reports from Negro leaders of an agreement to let the memorial march be held.

Huddling beneath a huge transparent plastic covering, the Negroes waited uncertainly in the rain.

Tensions and tempers edged upward.

PM Asked For Tribute

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson was asked today to convey to President Johnson a tribute to Rev. James J. Reeb, Boston cleric who died in Birmingham, Ala., of injuries arising from a civil rights disturbance.

Tom Barnett (NDP—Comox-Alberni) said in making the request in the Commons that Mr. Reeb died a martyr to the cause of human rights and freedoms.

2-Man Flight Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. space agency said today the first orbital flight of two astronauts in a Gemini spacecraft may be attempted Monday, March 22.

40 Students Protest

BOSTON (UPI)—About 40 college students staged a sit-in at a justice department office today and vowed to stay there until President Johnson sends troops into Alabama.

Go To Selma Churchmen Tell Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four thousand churchmen from across the United States heard an appeal today for a visit by President Johnson to strife-torn Selma, Ala., and a call for a "strong" bill to guarantee Negroes voting rights in the U.S. south.

Clergymen jammed the Lutheran Church of the Reformation in an inter-faith rally called by the commission on religion and race of the National Council of Churches.

The meeting was preparatory to sending a delegation to the White House and visits to members of Congress, seeking guarantees against a repetition of the beating of voting rights marchers and the slaying in Selma of Rev. James Reeb of Boston.

Methodist Bishop John Wesley Lord of Washington told them many whites and Negroes in the south are "disenchanted and in great despair" over the turn of events and that the president's presence would do much.

LAUNCH FUND DRIVE

Simultaneously, three religious groups announced the launching of a joint campaign to raise funds to lessen the hardships of families of civil rights marchers, including the family of Reeb, a white minister of the Unitarian Universalist Church.

WITNESS in the Dorion inquiry, Eddy Lechasseur, was picked up by police in Montreal today for questioning as officers continued their search for escaped Lucien Rivard. Lechasseur, 33, is a self-described "importer" and friend of Rivard.

Note Was Mailed From Vancouver

MONTREAL (CP)—Mrs. Lucien Rivard said today she has received a letter from her husband dated March 6 and sent from Vancouver.

Mrs. Rivard said the four-page letter told her not to worry.

She also quoted it as saying: "I love you. Forgive me."

The letter said another such communication will follow in two weeks, Mrs. Rivard said.

Interviewed at her home in north-end Montreal, she said Rivard "told me he'd be in another place when next I heard from him."

Mrs. Rivard said the envelope containing the letter was "glued together" when she received it.

She said a representative of the weekly newspaper Dimanche-Matin had obtained the letter but she declined to say under what conditions. She added, however, that it would be returned to her Sunday.

Earlier, Jacques Francoeur, publisher of Dimanche-Matin, said his paper had received a copy of a letter.

NEWS TO WAGNER

In Quebec City, Attorney-General Claude Wagner told reporters he knew nothing of the letter and that their questions about it were the first time it had been brought to his attention.

Mrs. Rivard, dressed in a turquoise two-piece suit, looked a little tired during the interview but said she was fine.

Asked if life was continuing the same as before her husband escaped, she said: "It's not quite the same."

The hurried interview was conducted in the front hall of her modest looking brick two-storey home, with only a glass door between the visiting reporter and a large dog she keeps for protection.

After five minutes she excused herself to tend to lunch for a guest.

Cowlishaw Questioned On Rivard

"Blood Bomber" David Cowlishaw was picked up by RCMP officers in Vancouver today for questioning about the whereabout of Lucien Rivard.

Questioned after his police interview, Cowlishaw told the Times he is aware of Rivard's hiding place but said he refused to make it known to the police.

Asked why he was not arrested for aiding and abetting a fugitive, Cowlishaw said he did not think it was so much a case that police didn't believe him as that they knew he would not tell.

"What could they gain by holding me if I wouldn't tell them where he was?" said Cowlishaw.

Cowlishaw best known in recent years for his organization "Underdog" which claims to assist persons wrongfully accused or punished, last year gained notoriety by throwing a carton of blood onto the floor of the House of Commons at Ottawa.

NDP QUERY

U.S. Raids Supported By Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Martin again came to the support of the United States today in a sharp Commons exchange with T. C. Douglas, New Democratic Party leader, on the Viet Nam situation.

Mr. Douglas asked whether Canada has suggested to the U.S. that it discontinue bombing North Viet Nam, a country with which the U.S. is not at war, as a prelude to a peace conference.

While the U.S. was coming in for much criticism, it was trying to resist a form of pressure from North Viet Nam which involved a precedent which could affect other countries in Asia and the free world generally.

Mr. Martin said nothing would please Canada more than a ceasefire. But it took two to bring about a truce.

TOKYO (AP) — Twelve U.S. and South Vietnamese warplanes strafed North Viet Nam Thursday morning, Hanoi radio charged today.

Soviet Raps Peking

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union accused Communist China tonight of stirring an "extensive slander campaign" against Russia. It said Peking had organized the anti-American demonstration at the U.S. embassy in Moscow last week.

Pension Plan Study Ends

OTTAWA (CP)—The House of Commons completed clause-by-clause study of the Canada Pension Plan bill today.

The bill, subject to one last general debate, needs third and final reading before being sent to the Senate for concurrence.

The Commons immediately took up study of amendments to the existing Old Age Security Act, incorporated as part of the Canada Pension Plan.

The plan itself emerged from clause-by-clause study in substantially the same form as introduced by the government.

TWO CHAMPION CANADIANS were honored in winner's circle at Santa Anita, Calif., racetrack Thursday afternoon. B.C.'s George Royal had just won the $125,000 San Juan Capistrano Handicap with jockey Johnny Longden (native of Alberta) aboard. It was Longden's 5,935th winner. (AP Wirephoto.)

B.C.'S 'BEST-EVER' MANTLE FOR SPEEDY GEORGE ROYAL

By HAL MALONE

George Royal, a four-year-old B.C.-bred, stunned the North American racing world Thursday by capturing the $125,000 San Juan Capistrano Handicap at Santa Anita. (See story of the race on page 12.)

(Times racing editor Hal Malone describes the success story of the $2,000 colt whose earnings total $155,000; the impact on B.C. breeding, George's stature as the best horse ever bred in Western Canada, and how he caught the fancy of B.C. fans.)

On parental lineage, George Royal should have had to buy a ticket to watch the San Juan Capistrano, let alone run in it.

There was Hill Rise, a son of Hilary, conqueror a week ago in the $100,000 added Santa Anita Handicap of Gun Bow and Candy Spots.

There was Niarkos, the Argentine aristocrat.

And Batteur, a daughter of Bold Ruler, the dominant sire in North America. And a host of others in the San Juan, members of the equine set's Who's Who.

And there was George Royal.

He was nine months old when Bobby Hall and Ernie Hammond first saw him, a son of Dark Hawk, now dead, and Polly Bashaw. The family tree was considered solid but not spectacular.

Hall remembers him as a "rather unimpressive looking yearing, quite a bit smaller than horses of his age."

Wilson Dunn offered them another horse, Nyet Nyet.

"We paid $3,000 for both of them," Hall recalls. "We figured George was worth $2,000 and the filly a thousand."

Nyet Nyet was a twin, a thoroughbred rarity. She was not expected to amount to much. She lived up to expectations.

But George grew like Topsy. at slightly over 16 hands he is average size but his conformation is eye-catching.

Why did Hall and Hammond buy him?

"I've always liked Dark Hawk offspring," Hall says. "And the dam, Polly Bashaw had thrown a filly named Polly Royal. She was quick — very quick — but couldn't carry her speed far.

"I reasoned that George might be better and if there was a chance, I wanted a piece of him,

Pearson, 'The Unhappy Warrior' Featured in New Times Series

Two important series of articles will begin in Saturday's Times.

They are "MUST" reading for Canadians at the present juncture in the nation's affairs.

On the front page will be launched a ten-part series by the brilliant Ottawa writer Peter Newman on Prime Minister Lester Pearson. They will appear daily.

Mr. Newman has entitled his articles "The Unhappy Warrior," in which he deals particularly with the period since Mr. Pearson took charge at the head of a minority government.

Mr. Newman, whose biting biography of John Diefenbaker, "Renegade in Power," became the country's best selling book, has been researching the Pearson series directly for the past two months and indirectly throughout his years as an inside observer of the Ottawa scene.

Hugh MacLennan, distinguished Canadian novelist, called Renegade in Power "certainly the most remarkable biography I have ever read of any Canadian. The clarity, the completeness and cohesion of the portrait give 'Renegade' the great internal authority of a work of art."

This authority is carried through into Newman's examination of Pearson's performance as Canada's fourteenth Prime Minister—the performance in which he appears as an unhappy warrior.

★ ★ ★

In the same issue Gerald Clark, associate editor of The Montreal Star, begins in Weekend Magazine a penetrating series on Canada's problem in Quebec—the quiet revolution, the separatists and the difficulties allied with them.

Mr. Clark's articles will appear each Saturday for four weeks.

Margaret and the Beetles

THIS WORLD OF OURS

People and Things

(Times News Services)

LONDON—Princess Margaret went out Thursday in a pair of black mesh stockings with dozens of artificial beetles—not beatles—crawling up them. A fashion writer accused her of being out of style.

"The Royal Family in kinky stockings at last," writes Jean Rook in The Sun. "But it's a bit late. Frankly, those stockings are old hat now. Are Margaret's new, or were they hidden away in her bottom drawer?"

In London slang, kinky roughly means deviating from the normal.

Miss Rook adds: "The princess' stockings cost six shillings 11 pence (94 cents). Selfridge's, a big department store, stopped selling them a year ago."

Margaret, 34, wore her fancy stockings to a rehearsal for the royal ballet school's production of Prince Igor.

TORONTO — Somebody stole a car belonging to Leonard (Red) Kelly from a parking lot outside Maple Leaf Gardens Thursday. The Liberal member of Parliament for York West and centre for Toronto Maple Leafs promptly reported the theft to police.

Late Thursday night, Kelly was still carless.

A reporter telephoned police headquarters to ask how the search was progressing.

"Who's Red Kelly?" he was asked by the constable on duty.

TORONTO—Wayne Marshall, 15, had his hair cut and then he went to school resembling an old English sheep dog.

The haircut had been cooked up between Wayne's mother and principal Eric Runacres of St. Andrew's Junior High School in suburban North York.

Mr. Runacres had two staff members hold Wayne while he cropped the hair that dangled over the Grade 8 student's eyes.

Mrs. Marshall later thanked Mr. Runacres.

Mr. Runacres said he cut the boy's hair because of his "flagrant and insolent refusal" to have it cut himself.

Mr. Runacres said he allows boys to wear their hair any way they like, but not in a way that covers "ears, collars or eyes."

Saul Cowan, chairman of the school board, said he will investigate.

BAY CITY, Mich. — Last spring, John McKay and Lewis Seward, both 8, were playing at school during a recess.

They accidentally bumped heads and John lost most of a front tooth. He couldn't put it under his pillow for the good fairy, however, because it was lost.

Last week, Lewis bumped his head again on a corner of his desk at school and it began to swell.

He was taken to the doctor and x-rays showed that John's tooth was imbedded under Lewis' scalp.

The tooth was removed after a 25-minute operation.

. . . COWLISHAW

At that time he was protesting an alleged injustice perpetrated against a man who said he had been an RCMP undercover man but had been disowned by the force.

Cowlishaw, a former Times reporter, says his current interest is in investigation of claims by Rivard, object of an international manhunt, that he is innocent of drug smuggling charges.

Cowlishaw would not discuss Rivard's location, but related this story in the course of Times questioning:

"Last Sunday Underdog had a visit from a man who knew Rivard in prison. The man was from Montreal and he had been helped by Underdog a couple of years ago.

"He said he was representing Rivard and he told me where he was."

Cowlishaw said Rivard wanted Underdog to ask Ottawa officials "to ease up on the manhunt" now underway so that Rivard could have time to contact people who could clear his name.

Cowlishaw sent a wire March 7 to his lawyer in Toronto, John Weingust, asking him to approach Ottawa on Rivard's behalf. He used the false name Vardri in the wire but the lawyer understood, said Cowlishaw.

Cowlishaw also wired a private detective on Long Island, N.Y. asking him to assist by investigating persons in that area, who could possibly clear Rivard's name.

The lawyer wired that he would help. At the same time Cowishaw wired Arnold Peters (NDP — Temiskaming) asking him to negotiate with the federal government also. Later Weingust wrote that he doubted Ottawa could ease the manhunt and suggested Rivard give himself up. The lawyer suggested Underdog should contact the people who could possibly clear Rivard's name.

There the matter stood up to the time Cowlishaw was apprehended by Sgt. Steve Bunyk and Cpl. Frank Kilner of the RCMP in downtown Vancouver today.

Cowlishaw refused to reply when asked whether he would get in touch with Rivard urging his surrender or whether he would reveal the wanted man's whereabouts at a later time.

Cowlishaw recently attended sittings of the B.C. legislature here and it was reported he was under surveillance by police at that time.

REEB FUND SET UP HERE

A Victoria collection point has been set up to accept donations to a fund for the family of a U.S. minister killed by racial segregationists in Alabama.

Rev. Marvin Evans, Unitarian Church, said he will accept contributions at Box 43, Victoria.

He told the Times the fund was established today by his church in conjunction with the American Friends Service Community (Quakers) and Southern Christian Leadership Conference, Dr. Martin Luther King's organization.

Cheques or money orders should be made out to Unitarian Universalist Association, James Reeb Fund.

. . . GEORGE

"He looked . . . you could see something there."

Since then Hall and Hammond have been seeing winner's circles and dollar signs.

FINE RECORD

George won $8,000 as a two-year-old, $48,000 as a sophomore, almost $24,000 in California up to the San Juan. Thursday the payday was $75,000.

Students of arithmetic will agree that $155,000 for a $2,000 risk speaks well for prudent investing. He has won 11 of 16 starts in the last 12 months.

B.G. (Before George) there was little unanimity on the best horse weaned on B.C. grass.

Cum Laude was the first to poke his nose significantly into classy California company.

Others won pockets of admiration for feats at home and abroad. . . Oshodry, Eddie's Boy, Quality Quest, Galindo, Major Turley.

The Major was Don Carley's baby, a grey ghost by Grey Skies and sold for a reported $22,000 to a prairie sportsman.

They say you never know what it's like to experience the joy of winning a major stake until it happens to you.

HE KNOWS FEELING

But out at 8325 Patricia Bay Highway there is a man who knows what it is like to stand in the sun at Santa Anita.

Precisely seven days and 12 years ago when racetracks weren't throwing out money as if it was going out of style, John D. "Speed" Kermode wore the broadest smile at Santa Anita.

His Eddie's Bo., bred in Cloverdale, was a galloping five-length winner of the $25,000 added Christopher Fitzgerald Stake.

Kermode still has the winner's circle picture on his mantel.

"Rogelio Trejos rode him—that was his first major stakes win. Merv Peters (the presid-it., steward of the B.C. Jockey Club, then a reporter) was there.

"We received a gold plate from Alan G. Potter, chairman of the Australian Jockey Club. And a cheque for $15,200."

"Yes," Speed Kermode said late Thursday, "I know how Bobby Hall and Ernie Hammond felt."

George Royal's fan club came into existence last summer. He reeled off six stakes successes, treating three-year-olds and older horses with equal disdain.

In the McLennan Plate, the form read: "George Royal appeared to be hopelessly beaten in first three-quarters but came with tremendous burst of speed around top turn and through the stretch to get to front in final few yards . . ."

QUIRK OF FATE

Toronto wanted a look at B.C.'s wonder horse. A quirk of fate intervened. The night before George Royal was to be shipped to E. P. Taylor's plush Woodbine for rich autumn stakes, his groom died of a heart attack. Owners Hall and Hammond decided on the spot to ship to California where reliable, knowledgeable George Dunn would be in charge.

B.C. racing fans expressed their feelings in writing. Six hundred sent him a telegram before the Santa Anita 'Cap. There were also "good luck" wires from Vancouver Mayor Bill Rathie and Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

Premier Bennett set history of sorts Wednesday night in the Legislature.

A few hours after George crossed the finish line, the Premier opened the night sitting of the House by announcing the colt's victory.

"A B.C. horse, George Royal," said the premier, "has won a major victory over some of the finest thoroughbreds in North America." MLAs cheered, echoing the pleasure of thousands of British Columbians who had listened to announcer Jack Short's telephone broadcast from the grandstand.

What will George Royal's success mean to B.C. breeding and racing? What does a winning sweep ticket mean to a pedlar?

Polly Bashaw, George's mother, has been sold or leased for a reported contract of $5,000 per live foal produced.

UNKNOWN PLATEAU

And George's brother has been sold for $15,000, the highest sum ever paid for an unraced two-year-old bred in B.C.

George Royal raised the stature of B.C.-breds to a hitherto unknown plateau Thursday. He knocked the best in California for a loop.

But California may get even. Both Polly Bashaw and George Royal's brother were snapped up even before Gorgeous George left his imprint in the San Juan.

By whom?

By Californians.

Naturally.

RHODA ROGERS

SEE REAL THING, STRIPPERS URGE

By EDDIE GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — "Any girl can take her clothes off. It's how she does it that counts."

The speaker, Sheila Sands, 25, a member of the striptease dancers' union, demanded Thursday that a movie studio fire three actresses hired to impersonate strippers.

The blonde stripper and red-haired Rhoda Rogers, 23, said they plan to take their case to American film producer Stanley Rubin. He hired the actresses for the movie, Promise Her Anything.

"These actresses may be able to act," Sheila continued. "But striptease requires great skill and a definite art."

Actresses asked to portray strippers are Vivienne Ventura, 19, Asa Maynor, 25, and Margaret Nolan, 21.

Speaking for them, Vivienne said:

"We are not playing professional strippers in the film. We are playing girls who are just getting started in the business. The scenes we're in also require acting ability. That's why we were chosen."

The strippers are members of the British Association of Strip Tease Artists.

"We shall be calling on the producer," said Rhoda.

Said producer Rubin:

"If this delegation arrives, I'll have to give an audience. I can't fire the actresses, though. That would not be fair."

Rubin said he would try to work out a compromise by writing in parts for one or two girls from the strippers' union.

"My problem is—do I want stripping or acting?" Rubin added. "As I need the acting, I had hoped to get acting and stripping."

well to consider reducing Mr. Peterson's very heavy workload by some juggling of portfolios. Either education or labor is task enough for one minister to handle; and each is a key department.

Needling, But Still No Rivard

MONTREAL (CP) — Lucien Rivard has provoked a full-scale debate in the Quebec legislature and more needling questions in the Commons, but police appear to be no closer to catching the suspected narcotics smuggler 10 days after his escape.

Claude Wagner, Quebec attorney-general, reiterated his position that there was no conspiracy in the case.

"I state on my honor and with all sincerity," he told the legislature Thursday night, "that there was no conspiracy on the part of any one in general or politicians in particular which would have aided the escape."

He termed the escape "regrettable, unfortunate and the fault of the stupidity of some guards."

He did not reply when seven opposition speakers asked him whether Rivard had received special favors while he was in the Bordeaux provincial jail in Montreal.

GORDON JOKES

In the Commons, Finance Minister Gordon suggested jokingly that it may take "an act of God" to find Rivard.

Replying to a question asking him whether the $15,000 federal reward for information leading to Rivard's capture would be classed as a capital gain or taxable, Mr. Gordon replied:

"It would depend on whether it came as earned income or an act of God."

Earlier, an opposition member suggested that Liberal members of Parliament and organizers be made ineligible for collecting the reward, a remark that provoked laughter.

Neither Canadian nor U.S. police reported any success in their search.

The Union Nationale party used a money bill as the excuse for opening debate on the escape after lengthy efforts to bring up the issue in the Quebec legislature were thwarted earlier in the week.

WANTS CENSURE

Opposition member Paul Dozois introduced a motion of censure criticizing the government for "failing to take the necessary steps to prevent Rivard's escape" and for "not having given the legislature essential information about the escape."

Rivard escaped with Andre Durocher, who was appealing an armed robbery conviction, after obtaining permission to flood the Bordeaux hockey rink—in 40 - degree weather—at about 6 p.m. March 2.

Mr. Dozois wanted to know why Rivard was allowed out when prisoners were supposed to be in their cells for the night at 4 p.m. He also wanted to know how Durocher obtained permission to water the rink.

Mr. Dozois also asked "why no alarm was given during the hour-long escape?"

These questions and others will be asked during the debate which continues today.

"We have nothing to hide," Mr. Wagner said. "There is nothing mysterious in this incident, nothing which can give rise to suspicions and nothing that allows insinuations."

Jean - Jacques Bertrand, a Union Nationale member, noted that Mr. Wagner did not reply when asked if Rivard received jail favors.

"The refusal of the attorney-general to answer questions ensures that rumors, speculation and insinuations about the escape will continue to circulate throughout the province," he said.

Purchasing Dep't Lauded By Gaglardi

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan Thursday night drew an admission from Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi that he was entirely satisfied with the past performance of the government purchasing commission.

Neither man mentioned G. E. P. Jones by name but it was obvious that the suspended purchasing commission chairman the government wants to fire was the subject of the exchange of questions and answers in the legislature.

Mr. Gaglardi said that his department has bought virtually all its $35 million-worth of equipment through the purchasing commission.

Mr. Strachan asked if at any time the commission chairman had refused to purchase equipment recommended by the department after a tender call. Mr. Gaglardi said "no."

Mr. Strachan capped a series of further questions with "In your experience as minister, has the purchasing commission done a satisfactory job of protecting the interests of the public?"

"Yes, as far as I'm concerned," responded Mr. Gaglardi.

'WE SHALL OVERCOME'

White House Sit Lasts 7 Hours

WASHINGTON (AP) — A youthful band of civil rights demonstrators spent seven hours sitting in a White House hallway Thursday, demanding a talk with President Johnson. Police took them away at nightfall.

Four boys and eight girls, nine of them Negroes, staged the demonstration after walking into the White House amid a stream of late-morning tourists.

Most of them spent the rest of the day camped in a groundfloor corridor, threatening to stay there and stage a hunger strike until they saw Johnson and presented a demand for federal intervention in Selma, Ala.

Shortly after 6 p.m., unmarked police cars rolled out from the iron-fenced White House grounds, carrying the demonstrators. As they went, two girls in one of the cars stuck their heads out of the window to sing the civil rights anthem We Shall Overcome.

A White House official said the demonstration had ended.

Two girls taken to the police station nearest the White House were charged with unlawful entry at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue.

They were identified as Jessie Winifred McQueen, 22, of Washington, a native of Neptune, N.J., and Marta Carole Kusic, of Howard University, born in Brooklyn, N.Y.

Seven other demonstrators were taken from the White House.

Three youths left of their own accord earlier in the afternoon.

'NOT IN THE WAY'

Six other young women involved in the sit-in also were booked on charges of unlawful entry and released on their own recognizance in lieu of $300 bail each.

The demonstration was halted minutes before the start of a White House reception for more than 50 congressmen.

Shortly before the end came, White House Press Secretary George E. Reedy had said he didn't know how long the demonstrators would camp in the White House.

"They're not in anybody's way where they are," Reedy said.

The demonstrators sat down in a ground-floor corridor near the White House Library. Johnson was said to have been in the living quarters, two floors above, when the demonstration began.

Later, a visitor described Johnson as "concerned, perturbed and frustrated" by the sit-in.

Richard T. Brown, a Washington Negro, took up a post on the sidewalk outside the White House tourist gate and spoke for the demonstrators in the mansion.

Brown said the demonstrators wanted federal intervention in Selma, Ala. He said they planned to stage a hunger strike until they got to see the president. Reedy said Johnson received no request to see them.

Youth Ordered To Live With Parents

A youth was placed on probation today for one year on condition he returns home to his parents.

He placed Ballard on a $500 bond on condition he lives at home in future.

Switchboard 'Censoring'

TORONTO (UPI) — Tape-recorded interviews, destined for a Toronto radio station, were being "censored" by hotel switchboard operators in Selma, Ala., site of the racial demonstrations, it was charged here Thursday.

J. J. Richards, assistant news director of Toronto radio station CHUM, confirmed that its reports from reporter Bill Drylie were continually interrupted by the southern operators.

Mr. Drylie, also a columnist for the Toronto Telegram, arrived in Selma Tuesday and began telephoning taped interviews with marchers and members of the clergy from his hotel room.

Mr. Richards said that during these periods there was a "continuous jiggling" on the lines, then a complete cut-off.

The news director said the trouble grew worse when Mr. Drylie attempted to "feed" a tape interview with one of three clergymen attacked and beaten by a group of whites.

"Drylie was cut off four times during this feed," Mr. Richardson said. "As soon as the clergyman would get to the point of the attack, he would be cut off."

"I finally phoned the desk (of the hotel) to complain, and was told, 'There's no Mr. Drylie registered here'."

Pearson Asks More Use of French

OTTAWA (CP)—The services of government "should be available to citizens in their own language," Prime Minister Pearson said Thursday in advocating wider use of French in civil service.

Mr. Pearson, speaking to a dinner of the Professional Institute of the Public Service of Canada, said the provinces, which hold responsibility for education, should make language teaching available for the young—"the time to learn two languages."

" . . . As a Canadian I hope that every Canadian will have the opportunity to learn Canada's two languages; especially as there are large areas of Canada where such knowledge is essential."

This does not mean that every employee of the civil service must be bilingual, he added. This would be "unrealistic and unreasonable."

But the services of government should be available to a person in his own language.

This aim must be achieved without injustice to advancement prospects for those "who came here to provide the best service that they can to Canada but who only speak one language," the prime minister said.

But English-speaking Canadians must recognize the extent "to which we have failed adequately to provide for the use of the French language."

FRIDAY, MARCH 12, 1965

The Main Issue

THE CONFRONTATION OF THE United States and North Viet Nam in southeast Asia is serious enough, but it really represents only the smoking cone of a volcano whose lower bulk is much more ominous.

The slope of the volcano stands for the relations between the United States and Red China, which could develop into war if retaliation against North Viet Nam were pushed too far. And at the base of the whole situation is the most important element of all—the relationship of the United States to the Soviet Union. This has been encouragingly good until recently; it is now under strain as a result of the Viet Nam struggle; it could, if the United States carried attacks into Red Chinese territory, erupt into open conflict and a global war.

There are obvious indications that Russia does not wish to be pushed into an active anti-American stand over Viet Nam, that Moscow would welcome a negotiated peace as soon as possible. The Russians can be no more complacent about Chinese efforts to extend control over southeast Asia than are the Americans. But Russia has the added complication of having to avoid an open break with its fellow Communist nation, the largest in the world. The big question is, would ideology prevail over the normal big-power interests of the U.S.S.R. if Red China and the United States came to blows over Viet Nam?

That is a question which Washington views with doubts. It is difficult to see how Russia could avoid siding with Red China, even if this preference were expressed only in the provision of supplies or in a technical diplomatic posture. It is to the advantage of the United States — and of all the Western nations — to keep Russia and Red China divided, to nourish the better East-West relations that were achieved in Mr. Khrushchev's later years, and to avoid formation of the colossal Communist power that would be represented in a close partnership of the two Marxist countries.

What the United States may gain in South Viet Nam fighting will be costly if it means a serious deterioration of relations with Russia. There should be no disposition to lose sight of the major consideration: that world peace depends on an amicable and stable arrangement between Moscow and Washington. And this will be particularly so in a world which includes the awakening giant, China: ambitious, recalcitrant, and acknowledging no responsibilities to either friend or foe.

Trade Worth Preserving

TRADE OFFICIALS IN OTTAWA are hearing reports that hard-pressed Britain may be on the verge of abolishing its tariff preferences on Canadian manufactured goods in an effort to cut its balance of trade deficit with this country.

Last year Canadian goods worth $1.35 billions went to Britain while this country received only $561 millions worth of British products. The $797 millions difference in Canada's favor represented fully one-quarter of Britain's international trade deficit for last year.

The alternative to drastic tariff action by Britain, of course, is to increase sales to Canada to offset the current deficit. The British, however, seem almost to have given up hope of this and they claim that they face two almost insuperable barriers to selling in Canada.

The first barrier is contained in the insistent argument that Canadian anti-dumping regulations discriminate against British goods. Trade officials in Ottawa disagree and state that changing the regulations would only subject Canada to dumping of goods from other industrial countries, to the detriment of Canadian industry and without helping Britain.

Obviously the country which is most feared in this respect is the United States where there are many industries which could sell goods in Canada at lower than domestic prices in order to increase production runs and thus lower costs.

This situation leads directly to the second reason why Britain feels it has undue competition in the Canadian market: This country, it is felt, has come so thoroughly into the American economic orbit that the selling effort would not be worth while.

The impact of American advertising on Canadians—at almost no cost to the American producer—is enormous. To counter this, British manufacturers would have to spend large sums of money on advertising which they fear could eat up the profits on the goods they could sell.

But, while this may seem to be a hopeless situation, and so the British apparently regard it, cutting the preferential tariff ties between the two countries would be an unfortunate move. Canada would lose a good share of its more than billion-dollar market in Britain while Britain would lose the hope of eventually having a share in the great potential market in Canada.

The situation would seem to be in need of a thorough review both in London and in Ottawa before any decisions are made. The British complaints against discriminatory application of anti-dumping regulations need to be examined once more. The extent and efficiency of the British selling effort in Canada also needs to be looked into more thoroughly, particularly since it has been the subject of considerable criticism by British trade organizations.

Antigo's Aching Teeth

THE WISCONSIN CITY OF Antigo has added strength to the case for fluoridation of the domestic water supply.

Four years ago, the Associated Press reports, citizens demanded an end to the fluoridation treatment that had been used for the preceding 11 years.

Since 1960, the report notes, the incidence of tooth decay among young school children has risen 92 per cent among kindergarten pupils, still more among second graders and 100 per cent among fourth graders.

On the basis of these findings, the Antigo city council has decided to ask the residents next month if they would like to return to fluoridation.

The figures—and the answer to the question—should be of interest to Greater Victorians who periodically debate the desirability of introducing fluoride, in controlled quantities, into the domestic water supply to raise the natural level to beneficial proportions.

Where Every Prospect Pleases . . .

THE PROPOSAL TO SPEND extra funds on effective screening construction for the police station should receive wide support.

If the full potential of the civic square had been realized from the first, the program might have called for removal of the station and its prisoner cells to an entirely different location. It does not add to the pleasure of the square to have barred jail cell windows in sight.

There is no doubt that Centennial Square is going to be one of the most popular areas in the city, with a heavy traffic of visitors to the theatre, senior citizens' headquarters, parking facility and city hall. Hence it is essential to improve the appearance of the north side of the square by some adequate and attractive type of screen.

This is hardly a frill; it is a visual necessity and money for such an improvement will be well spent.

Indians and the Pension Plan

Western

COMMITTEE examination of the Canada Pension Plan has revealed some gaps in the comprehensive coverage allegedly provided by the legislation. One of the most startling, in the light of the government's other objectives, is the exclusion of Indians earning a living on the reserves. This is not intentional discrimination and Mr. Benson, the minister of national revenue, agreed on Monday to refer the problem to his colleagues in the government. The request was certainly justified because the problem is bound to become more serious if the government's own programs achieve the desired objectives.

It is not difficult to see how the difficulty arose. Indians living on reserves are not subject to income tax. This cannot properly be regarded as special privilege because it results from contracts. The Indians made vast surrenders through the treaties and have every right to hold the government to its side of the bargain.

Parliament is dealing, of course, with contributory pensions and the basis of planning has been that income under this act will be income as defined by the Income Tax Act. This excludes the earnings of Indians on a reserve although Indians may benefit from the plan to the extent that they derive income from occupations off the reserve. There are many who work for part of the year in their communities and for part of it away from them; these people will obviously be limited in their contributions and resultant pension rights. But it is notorious that the economic status of the Indians is already low.

Reserve Policy

There would be much logic to the exclusion if it was government policy to draw the Indians as rapidly as possible away from the reserves. But Mr. Tremblay, the former minister of citizenship and immigration, denied most emphatically last August 4 that the government harbored any such intention. Indeed, in a series of statements last summer, he outlined an intensified community development program, involving an investment over three years of more than $3,500,000.

Among other comments, he said on July 7: "In its application, the proposed community development program is designed to employ to the greatest extent possible, all the available material and human resources in Indian communities and in each province. One of its effects will be to step up mobilization of Indian initiative and to further promote self sufficiency. One of its end results will be to accelerate transfer to Indian communities of responsibility and authority for the management of their affairs with concurrent limitations in government controls."

Again, on August 4, Mr. Tremblay spoke hopefully of a policy "breaking with a long paternalism tradition with respect to Canadian Indians." On August 14, he went into detail about self-help programs and provisions for financial assistance on a repayable basis. He noted the increased use of band funds for economic development purposes. He mentioned 73 projects approved by the department of labor for the winter works incentive program.

"Indians," he explained, "are encouraged to exploit and develop the natural assets of their reserves . . ." The harvesting of forest resources had shown a notable increase. "There is a potential for industrial enterprise on many reserves," he pointed out, "that has scarcely been tapped."

The import of these statements is very clear. If it is the policy of the government to encourage the Indians to develop their reserves, this should logically mean that they will derive steadily increasing incomes within their own communities.

Obviously there will be no overnight transformation. As Mr. Tremblay said: "Despite the progress that is being made under existing programs, it is recognized that additional positive measures of a preventive and remedial nature are needed to accelerate the process of bridging the social and economic gaps which are still all too common between Indians and non-Indians in this country."

One wonders if the government had this aspect of its policy in mind while the planners were busy with pensions policy. People living on the edge of public welfare are not likely to be self-reliant people. But the intention certainly is to encourage them in self-reliance and it might be supposed, therefore, that there was everything to be said for including as many as possible within the scope of a contributory plan.

In its present form the plan, far from bridging a gap, creates a new one. This is plainly undesirable. It will no doubt be difficult, administratively, to devise a remedy but the government has not been deterred by other difficulties from pressing ahead with its plan. Mr. Benson did indicate that a change might be effected without consultation with the provinces. The government, apparently, is to have another look at this matter and, in view of its importance, the results of the reappraisal will be awaited with interest.

FROM WASHINGTON

By JOSEPH ALSOP

'Sustained Pressure' Results

Alsop

IN modern Washington, everything has to have its own shorthand label which is commonly invented by the inner group of policy-makers. "Sustained pressure," it appears, is the label for the president's new approach to the Vietnamese crisis. The pressure on North Viet Nam, it must be admitted, has not been very powerfully sustained, at any rate to date. President Johnson has been carefully spacing and pacing his actions against North Viet Nam. He has been trying to get his message across, while avoiding the creation of an atmosphere of feverish crisis, either here or abroad. And he has been very deft about it.

But the key fact is that the Rubicon has been crossed between mere tit-for-tat reprisals and sustained pressure on North Viet Nam. If the present level of pressure fails to get results—which seems doubtful—stronger and stronger pressure will no doubt be applied.

Rubicon Crossed

Furthermore, this key fact is certainly understood by now in Moscow and Peking and Hanoi, as well as London and Paris and Bonn. Both our allies and the leaders of the Communist world now know that they can no longer hope, as formerly, that the president will go on indefinitely meeting North Vietnamese aggression with ineffectual tit-for-tattery. They, too, have seen the Rubicon being crossed.

It is time, then, to take note of the reactions and to try to recalculate the risks. Among the Western allies, to begin with, the Germans have been sturdy as usual; British Prime Minister Harold Wilson has shown great courage, and the French have been close to hysterical.

But this French near-hysteria has a cause quite unrelated to the risks inherent in the president's new approach. In the last year, Gen. Charles de Gaulle's policy in Europe has been increasingly based on the expectation that President Johnson would NOT find the courage he has now found. A great American defeat in Southeast Asia was therefore expected to diminish the prestige and leverage of the United States, thus leaving the field open for De Gaulle. Hence, the deep chagrin in Paris at the moment.

As for the Soviets and the Chinese, the first returns from both Moscow and Peking are decidedly encouraging. Naturally, the President has been loudly and vociferously denounced. But there has been no sign of any sort, at least as yet, that either Peking or Moscow would respond to the challenge of the policy of sustained pressure in deeds rather than words. And deeds are what matter.

Preparing to Blame Moscow

The Chinese, particularly, have not only failed to make any serious additional military preparations — which could be detected if begun. They have also reopened the polemic against the Russians in such shrill and vicious tones that one suspects Peking is now actually preparing to pin on Moscow the entire future blame for leaving Hanoi in the lurch.

Hence, the odds have changed quite a bit. It used to be somewhere between five and seven to one against the Soviets doing anything more dangerous than supplying arms to North Viet Nam. At a guess, the odds are now between seven and nine to one against.

Again, it used to be somewhere between two and four to one against the Chinese moving ground forces in Southeast Asia, while it was even odds they would give the North Vietnamese air aid in case of urgent need. At a guess, the odds are now between four and six to one against a Chinese ground movement. But if our sustained pressure reaches the Hanoi-Haiphong area of North Viet Nam, the odds on Chinese air aid are still close to even.

If "so far, good!" was the sensible summary at the time when the President made his big decision, "so far, better!" is the right summary now that the returns are beginning to come in. Every finger needs to be crossed. Odds of four to one against do not always prevent the one from coming up on fortune's wheel.

Damping Down Violence

Furthermore, the spaced tempo of the President's actions has not only tended to damp down violent reactions in other capitals. It has to be faced that this tempo has unavoidably much reduced the injury inflicted on the North Vietnamese. They are being given more time to think, but they may be feeling less pain than is required to persuade them to think the right thoughts.

Add to this that there are certain signs of local deterioration in South Viet Nam itself, particularly in the extremely dangerous first corps area in the northern part of the country. For these and other reasons, we are very far indeed from being out of the woods. But at last we are really trying to get out, and that means much.

Looking Back

From The Times of March 12, 1890:

OTTAWA: The House of Commons was informed that 27,000 persons came to Canada last year but about 30,000 left for the United States. The number of immigrants was down 10,000 from 1888. Almost all the immigrants headed for Manitoba. The total amount spent by the government on immigration purposes was $126,000. More than 3,800 settlers came to Canada from the U.S., but more than 2,000 of them were returning Canadians.

Voices Of Quebec

SHERBROOKE TRIBUNE

Quebec and France have concluded an agreement providing for the exchange of specialized teachers in various fields of work. . . . Among provisions of the agreement is that steps must be taken to strengthen the ties between this province and France and that one way of doing this is to organize exchanges of teaching personnel, or researchers, and especially medical and scientific researchers.

Involved will be university teachers, post-graduate students, instructors in teachers' colleges and technical schools —in a word, individuals from the entire educational, scientific and cultural world of Quebec. . . .

For a long time, we've been turning to France as a source of the varieties of know-how we ourselves lacked. Under the new arrangement we shall benefit from the coming here of the French specialists. And our representatives will benefit from their sojourns in France. . . .

The whole scheme begins with excellent prospects. All things being equal, it should give excellent results, with Quebec especially reaping great benefit.

QUEBEC LE SOLEIL

The research director of the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturism, Michael Oliver, has said the methods of the Canadian social scientist have helped create the present crisis of Confederation.

They copy unicultural countries like Britain and the United States too much. As a result commissioners had trouble finding material based on the methods of bicultural countries. He suggests a look at other Western countries such as Belgium, Switzerland, South Africa and Finland.

One could add that the French-speaking Canadian group tends to copy another unicultural country — France. Thus it studies something different from our situation and hardly adaptable.

The language experience of the other countries can help us study Canadian co-existence. . . .

MONTREAL LA PRESSE

A question the Quebec motorist frequently asks himself is why his car insurance rates are so much higher than those in other provinces.

The answer usually given is that rates are highest in places where there are the most traffic accidents. The automobile causes 43 per cent more deaths in Quebec province than anywhere else in Canada.

A resolution adopted at the convention of the Quebec Trucking Association here tends to minimize this factor. "It is false," says the association, "to contend that increases in automobile insurance premiums . . . are due solely to a multiplication of accidents on Quebec roads. . . ."

The truckers' convention pointed to "the exaggerated valuation of damages" and the "tolerance towards certain garage owners."

The truckers' association has called for an enquiry.

An enquiry would lead to a recommendation that all interested parties gather together at the "round table" to discuss a situation which concerns the owners of 1,500,000 vehicles.

Why shouldn't this "round table" be held as soon as possible under the auspices of the provincial department concerned? . . .

OTTAWA LE DROIT

Looking into the future, everyone seems to see Premier Jean Lesage as Prime Minister Pearson's successor. Such a succession seems logical. But Mr. Lesage will have competition for the top post and already a rival is in evidence, a formidable one.

This rival is a man who, for all his quietness, seems to have the qualities of a leader. He is Mitchell Sharp, the present minister of trade and commerce in Mr. Pearson's cabinet.

Like Mr. Pearson and the late prime minister Mackenzie King, Mr. Sharp has served as a deputy minister in his time. Like Mr. Lesage, he's 53. He's a good administrator, and unlike the present prime minister, he's able to face up to Opposition Leader Diefenbaker in the Commons with serenity, and, with quiet ease, to put that gentleman in his place. He's no demagogue but he has made television appearances almost as often as has Mr. Diefenbaker. . . .

Every time he's had the chance, Mr. Sharp has spoken out strongly about the problems of national unity. He's done so all over the country. He's shown himself very sympathetic toward the French-Canadian minority . . . and generally seems to have no other ambition than to be of service to his country. Mr. Sharp is by no means a faultless man but so far the flaws have not been greatly in evidence.

Dangerous Playground

I think someone ought to warn parents, before a tragedy occurs, not to let their children play on the sandy cliff on the southwest face of Mt. Tolmie.

Every weekend we see youngsters climbing about and digging caves right under the overhang where there have been several heavy slides of sand and earth in the last few weeks. Recently, the roof of the largest cave fell in, half filling the cave, only minutes after the children left it. Since then they have been hard at work digging that same cave deeper.

One of these days some child is going to be crushed or suffocated there.

Difficult Exercise

"To define a Communist in the modern age is a difficult exercise," said the newsman who attempted a reply in the "Ask The Times" section on March 8.

Caught in the contradiction between the theoretical principle of common ownership on one hand, and devotion to the doctrine that Russian state capitalism is Communism on the other, he must have needed three cups of coffee after writing the answer to that one.

J. G. JENKINS.

959 Darwin Avenue,

INSIDE POLITICS

With Douglas Fisher, M.P.

(Mr. Fisher is the member for Port Arthur riding for the New Democratic Party.)

Charlotte Whitton suggested that it would be worthwhile for everyone in politics or interested in political standards to review the performance of a former Prime Minister of Canada when several of his MP followers became involved in shady deals.

The Prime Minister was Sir Robert Borden, the time was 1915, the members of Parliament were A. D. Foster, Kings, N.S., and W. J. Garland, Carleton, Ont. The only prompting I give you is this: note how differently Sir Robert Borden handled matters from the methods of our present Prime Minister, Lester B. Pearson, in his dealings with the Hon. Yvon Dupuis (charged with bribery in the criminal courts of Quebec) and Guy Rouleau, Liberal MP for Dolard and former secretary to Mr. Pearson (off on a vacation to recover his health after being a star figure in the Dorion inquiry).

Or you can contrast Borden with Pearson on the Lamontagne-Tremblay furniture deals or the charges developed out of a Quebec provincial inquiry into the unreasonable and illegal profits made by Montreal Liberal MP., Edmund Asselin in real estate transactions.

The Parliament of 1915 met in January and prorogued in mid-April. Its main concern was the prosecution of the war. The terrible strain of conscription was not yet clear.

An active committee of the House, public accounts, had been investigating various rumors and stories regarding the purchase of war supplies, patronage, and inordinate profits taken.

* * *

On the last day of the session the committee brought in its final reports, containing general recommendations to protect the government from future irregularities and frauds, and specific recommendations that the cases involving the two members of Parliament be referred to the department of justice to make further investigations and to institute prosecutions, etc., as might be found necessary.

Once the committee report was tabled Sir Robert got up and gave a long review of the cases, emphasizing why he had insisted on an open investigation despite the unsettling effect of this upon the government's reputation.

He said: "May I say to all members of this House and to the people of this country, that there never has been any such legislation devised and there never can be any such legislation devised as will absolutely prevent fraud so long as there are dishonest people in the world. The only thing that will accomplish this is raising the standard of public opinion and having conduct such as this made so abhorrent to the public sense of the country that it will eventually drive it out."

Sir Robert led up to a painful duty which he felt he had to discharge. "It is one of the penalties of occupying a prominent position in public life that a man may be called upon to perform duties which his every instinct, so far as his personal feelings are concerned, would shrink from.

"In connection with the two members of Parliament to whom I have already alluded . . . I think it is my duty to say a few words. I sent for Mr. A. De Witt Foster and asked him as to his connection with this matter, and why it was he permitted himself to act as purchasing agent for the government of this country. It is only fair that I should give to the House his side of the story, although I am bound to say that it was not satisfactory to me."

* * *

Sir Robert then gave Mr. Foster's version of the deals and reiterated his own dissatisfaction with the explanations. Then he reviewed the case of Mr. Garland, the MP from Carleton who happened to employ a young lad with his drug firm.

This lad on a salary of $75 a month, had come into a government contract to supply drugs which brought him $9,000 profit in a few weeks. Once the affair was examined, almost total restitution of this profit was made to the Crown.

"I cannot, said the Prime Minister, "for one moment give my sanction or approval to a transaction of that character, because, to say the least, it is bound to arouse a very grave suspicion: and a member of Parliament, in respect of contracts with the government, ought to keep himself absolutely above suspicion.

"Therefore, in respect of the Hon. Member from Carleton and in respect of the Hon. Member for Kings, I feel that I owe it as a duty to the government of which I am head, to the party of which, in federal affairs, I am the leader, and to this House and to this country, to express, as I do here express, my very grave disapproval of their conduct in respect of the matters which have been under investigation . . ."

As the Canadian Annual Review for 1915 put it, this statement was "one unusual in Canadian public life, and which forced the retirement of both men from Parliament."

In fact, Foster resigned as an MP within a few days, Garland within a few weeks. Why?

Because the Prime Minister made it clear, even though they were his party men, even though they had not been convicted or even charged in a court that he would not have them in his party or in Parliament.

That's quite a precedent, isn't it?

African Viet Nam Feared in Congo

By JOHN M. GOSHKO

WASHINGTON — After 4½ years of wrestling inconclusively with a succession of crises, the American effort to bring about stability in the Congo is again approaching a critical crossroads.

Increasingly, this pointed question comes up: Is the U.S. involvement in the Congo leading it toward an African Viet Nam?

It is a question of which U.S. officials are acutely aware. They are unequivocal in their insistence that the government has little enthusiasm for ensnaring itself in a large-scale Congo military operation.

Despite the great propaganda furore attaching to the sale and loan of several American planes to Premier Moise Tshombe's central government, U.S. military aid has been carefully limited.

In addition to the planes, Washington has provided trucks, jeeps, communications equipment and a scattering of military personnel to instruct the Congolese in their use.

Military Edge

It has not been enough. The initial military edge given Tshombe by this U.S. aid has since been offset by the arms and supplies provided the rebels by the Chinese, Egyptians, Algerians and assorted lesser mischief makers.

As a result, the United States must:

Wash its hands of the whole mess; shoulder a much bigger share of the military burden, or find someone else to carry the load.

Despite its obvious weariness with the Congo's protracted agonies, the Johnson administration seems determined to shun the first choice. And the continuing spectre of Viet Nam underlies its well-advertised distaste for the second.

This leaves U.S. policy planners clinging tenaciously to the third. Today, as it has ever since the United Nations pulled out of the Congo, the main thrust of American policy has been to emphasize that it is an African problem and should be solved by the Africans.

In this, U.S. officials seem to be proceeding with more wistfulness than optimism. Central to the Congo's problem is the fact that too many African countries have been interfering in its affairs.

Rebel Support

To this, U.S. officials reply that the nations which have taken a hand in the Congo chaos are the wrong ones. They argue that the rebels' support comes not from Africa as a whole but from the group of approximately 10 hard-core radical countries with leftist sympathies or aspirations to African leadership.

As a means of countering their activities, the United States currently is pinning its hopes on the more numerous moderate nations that share the African continent with the radicals. The idea is that these countries can be made to realize that the Congo problem is a threat to all Africa and that they then will pressure the radicals to stop intervening in Congolese affairs.

Many observers regard this as a rather forlorn hope. They point out that the countries favoring non-intervention are, for the most part, geographically remote from the Congo and cannot be expected to involve themselves in the dispute beyond the lip service stage.

Armed Imports

These critics also contend that Tshombe, with his checkered history, his reputation as a puppet of the colonial powers and his use of white mercenaries, can never win firm support from the rest of Africa. Even in the most moderate countries, the critics say, public opinion would act as a checkrein against the government going all out on his behalf.

Their argument is borne out to a certain extent by the fact that three of the countries backing the rebels most strongly are the east African states of Kenya, Tanzania and Uganda.

These nations, which are not normally associated with the radical camp, seem to have chosen sides primarily because of their aversion to Tshombe. And in the process, the once considerable American influence, in all three recently has plummeted to its lowest ebb.

Faced with this anti-Tshombe sentiment, U.S. officials suggest vaguely that he might be induced to bring some of the more respectable leaders into his government as the price for ending outside intervention, but there is no evidence that Tshombe would hold still for such an arrangement or that the rebels would comply in good faith if he did.

All this has the effect of bringing the United States closer and closer to what one official privately calls a "fourth down situation." And on fourth down, the rules of the game are inflexible: Either you make one last desperate try for the missing yardage or you surrender the ball.

Mystery Picket Delays Loading

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—A lone mystery picket Thursday delayed loading of the Alaska train ferry Ss. Alaska at its Fraser River dock.

Longshoremen refused to work the ship in the face of the picket who appeared carrying a sign declaring: "Alaska trainship unfair to labor."

Courtney Agencies Ltd., agents for Alaska Trainship Corporation of Seattle, owners of the vessel which operates between here and Alaska ports, said they knew of no reason why the vessel was picketed.

Day Labor Saved Money For B.C. Says Gaglardi

The legislature approved the $76,968,190 spending estimates of the highways department Thursday night after 4½ hours of debate.

During the debate Highways Minister Gaglardi told the house his department plans to spend nearly $100,000,000 in the 1965-66 fiscal year but some $20,000,000 will be for work in the Columbia River basin to be paid for by B.C. Hydro and Power Authority.

One of the few issues that arose in the discussion was on the relative merits of day labor and formal contracting in highway construction.

SAVE $9 MILLION

Liberal Leader Ray Perrault said contracting all construction might save the government $9,000,000 a year on the basis of the findings of a Saskatchewan inquiry. He said the inquiry showed day labor costs in the Prairie province ran 18 per cent higher than similar costs under contracts.

Mr. Gaglardi replied that only 8 to 10 per cent of the department's budget goes into day labor projects and that the expenditure last year was about $6,000,000.

He defended the day labor system by pointing to Stewart-Cassiar Road, where some stretches had been built for $17,000 a mile on day labor but where construction by contract had run as high as $100,000 a mile.

HANDS TIED

Agreeing with opposition hecklers that building on a contract basis had apparently been a "waste of money," the minister said his department's hands had been tied by a statute requiring major construction to be done by contract. He said the bill had won unanimous support of the house.

Mr. Gaglardi later qualified his remarks by saying some of the sections of the road built by day labor had not been to the standards specified for the contracted sections.

Major Hike In Exports Main Goal

VANCOUVER (CP) — Government and forest industry spokesmen agree that efforts must be intensified to keep a foot in the door of foreign markets and open the door wider.

In a speech to the B.C. Lumber Manufacturers' Association Thursday, J. H. Warren, federal deputy minister of trade and commerce, said superior competitiveness of Canadian lumber products must be buttressed by efforts at the government level.

Reporting that in 1964 Canadian forest industries exported to the value of $2,000,000,000, equal to 25 per cent of the total Canadian commodity export, Mr. Warren warned, however, that food and materials are getting a declining share of export trade compared to manufactured goods.

"The lesson for Canada is clear," he said. "We must increase our share of the world market for traditional exports of basic foodstuffs and resources of foreign income or of manufactured production which will prove attractive in competition with imports."

'We Can't Rest On Laurels' —Fund Raiser

All's well that ends well; but never let well alone.

That was the theme Thursday for a farewell with-a-difference.

The farewell marked the end of the 1964-65 United Appeal.

Attending the event were the men and women who put the appeal over the top.

Guest of honor at the annual meeting was appeal chairman Don Lawson.

Taking priority at the top of his report was a simple precis of the many months work which went into making the campaign a success:

Objective—$410,000.

Raised—$412,118.

RECOGNIZED NEED

Also high in his report were the people of Greater Victoria.

Of them he said: "The job has been done, thanks to thousands of Victorians who recognized the need and gave their time and pledged their money to meet that need."

After further praise for the thousands of people who helped run the campaign and collect money, he said:

"We cannot rest on our laurels.

"Victoria will look next year, and the year after that, and all the years that lie ahead, for the same devotion to the task that has been given in the past."

INADEQUATE

He did not have such kind words for everyone, however.

Speaking of the problems in the future he said the level of giving among teachers and civil servants was inadequate.

He did not expand on this and offered no solution.

He also said the campaign needed more labor groups participating.

Speaking of the planning that has already gone into the 1965-66 campaign, he said:

"The continuing support of thousands of Greater Victoria residents, the press, the radio, television, churches, the labor unions, the armed forces, the Junior Chamber of Commerce and many other made last year's results possible.

". . . I am sure the same high level of co-operation will be forthcoming in future years."

GIVEN PLAQUE

During the meeting Mr. Lawson was presented a plaque from the campaign executive.

The plaque, inscribed "for outstanding service to the people of the Greater Victoria area," was presented by the Community Chest honorary president Mayor R. B. Wilson.

Twenty-two new directors were elected for two-year terms. There are 26 directors with one more year of service.

Also elected were: Graham McCall, first vice-president; Mrs. T. H. Johns, second vice-president; J. C. Melville, treasurer.

Awards were made by Mr. Baker to press, radio and television stations for their support.

15.5 Per Cent Hike

Forest Firms Launch Attack on Rent Hike

The forestry industry Thursday launched an all-out attack on the government's plans to double the annual acreage fees on timber leases and licences.

The move will raise government revenues from $260,000 to $500,000 but the chief objection by the logging firms is the purpose behind the increase.

B. M. Hoffmeister, president of the council of Forest Industries, carried the objections before the legislature's forestry committee.

SPEED-UP CUTTING

He said the proposal was aimed at forcing lease-holders to speed up cutting of trees on crown lands so that the areas revert sooner to the government.

Logging firms are expected to rush operations on the affected crown lands in order to escape the higher annual acreage tax as soon as possible.

Logged-off lands then will return to the forestry service's administration at a time when it already is overloaded with work, Mr. Hoffmeister said.

He claimed the industry is doing a better job of reforestation and management than the short-staffed forestry service.

'FORCE LIQUIDATIONS'

"Yet we now have the situation where the forest service seeks more than twice the present annual rates with the stated objective of forcing liquidations of this timber at the earliest date, accompanied by the threat of further increases if the liquidation is not sufficiently speedy," Mr. Hoffmeister said.

"This will disrupt cutting and supply schedules for logging operations and could pose a serious threat to converting plants which now rely on a combination of private and crown timber for their raw material."

The forestry service, in announcing the higher fees, indicated it wanted the affected lands to be returned to the crown's administration as soon as possible so they could be put on a sustained yield basis of growing timber.

FAMILY RE-UNITED —BY HANDCUFFS

NANTES, France (UPI)—A father and son were re-united here after 25 years Thursday when the two were handcuffed together to be taken into court.

It happened by chance when two men in the same cell-block both answered to the family name "Jarnoux" as police prepared to take a group of prisoners to trial.

Since prisoners here are customarily taken to the courthouse handcuffed in pairs the two named Jarnoux were put together.

Louis Jarnoux, 53, had been arrested after he called police "De Gaulle's choir boys" when they tried to pick him up on a drunk charge. Pierre Jarnoux, 28, was charged with stealing a radio from a parked car.

As they walked to court the older man, who went off to war in 1939 and was subsequently imprisoned by the Germans for five years, learned that the younger man, whose mother had died after her husband went off to the Second World War, was brought up as a ward of the state.

After a further exchange of information they realized they were father and son and were granted permission to share the same cell after their respective trials.

Gov't Names Woman To Specialist Role

A woman becomes the provincial labor department's specialist on female labor-management problems on Monday, Labor Minister Leslie Peterson told the legislature Wednesday.

Answering a reiterated plea by Mrs. Lois Haggen NDP—Grand Forks-Greenwood) for someone to head a women's bureau in the department, Mr. Peterson said Christine Waddell has been appointed to the job.

She is a representative of the Hotel and Restaurant Workers' Union and, Mr. Peterson said, she has the respect of both organized labor and management.

FERRY, FORESTRY CITED

Gov't 'Thumbing Nose' At Labor, Charges MLA

By PETE LOUDON

The government of British Columbia is "thumbing its nose at labor," the legislature was told Thursday.

Opposition speakers considering the estimates of Labor Minister Leslie Peterson charged:

- Firms tendering on janitorial services aboard B.C. Ferries are not required to observe minimum wage and contract provisions of the Public Works and Fair Wages and Conditions of Employment Act.
- The B.C. forestry service works casual employees overtime but pays them only straight time.
- The government - owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway has insufficient safety supervision despite statutes requiring this.
- Men on the Peace River power site are being required to work 14 days without a day of rest.
- Non-union firms are obtaining contracts from crown corporations and a non-union towing firm is doing the work a union firm once did for B.C. Hydro buses.
- The trade unions of B.C. represent only 45 per cent of the work force where it once was 53 per cent.
- A government truck recently crossed a picket line at a legal strike of Mc and Mc employees in Vancouver.

"They know the government is thumbing its nose at labor," said Opposition Leader Robert Strachan, speaking of the strikers.

GET NO REPLY

Liberal Leader Ray Perrault, who broached the case for the ferry workers, said also that when unions write protests to the government, they receive no reply.

He said some ferry employees work four days on and four days off in the winter but in summer they are expected to turn to for 18 days without a break. He knew of one ferry employee with a family of seven whose take-home pay was only $285 a month, he said.

Labor Minister Peterson said ferry employees are within the jurisdiction of the Provincial Secretary W. B. Black and in any event, do not come within the fair employment act.

NO JURISDICTION

When William Hartley (NDP—Yale) asked why a bulldozer operator in the forestry service had to work on July 1 at straight time, Mr. Peterson said his department has no jurisdiction over the forestry department.

Gordon Dowding (NDP—Burnaby) said when ferry employees must work 12 hours daily "they lose all semblance of the enjoyment of life. This is callous indifference and disregard of the workers and the minister of labor must take the responsibility."

The minister told Mr. Strachan that although B.C. organized labor has shrunk in size, this is general across Canada. Mr. Strachan disputed this but neither had statistics to offer.

Leo Nimsick (NDP — Cranbrook) said it was time B.C. adopted the minimum 40-hour work week and this would create employment. Mr. Peterson disputed this.

He said the answer to unemployment is an expansion of industry, adding:

SHORTER HOURS

"I do not think shorter hours makes too great an impact."

The minister said with regard to the picket line incident, "This is a matter of individual conscience.

"In some circumstances some trade union leaders have crossed picket lines. My policy is that it's a matter for individual conscience."

Mr. Strachan ended the debate by calling for Mr. Peterson to resign his labor portfolio and concentrate on his post as minister of education. Then a "full-time" labor minister could be appointed.

SINGLE FAMILY HOMES

Apartments Banned in Rockland

Rockland residential district was reaffirmed Thursday for preferential single family dwellings after a re-evaluation by advisory planning commission.

City council endorsed the commission's recommendation, reaffirming a former stand, that Rockland district remain unchanged "because this is one of our best residential areas."

Council sought the re-evaluation in January, basing the rezoning for apartment use.

Aldermen had considered the possibility of adjustment to keep pace with changing demands.

Mayor R. B. Wilson observed Thursday that older residential areas such as Rockland—once the most prestigious homesite in Greater Victoria—can be restored.

He pointed to the Rosedale district of Toronto and Shaughnessy Heights in Vancouver, both of which are regarded as exclusive after going through a period of decline.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow had argued previously that Rockland would make a suitable high-rise area since buildings would offer no obstruction to other areas having a desirable outlook.

CITY TO GET TRAVEL FILM

A Winnipeg Playhouse audience was enthralled this week at the Canadian debut of Royal England, a travel film in color, presented and narrated by Bill Dalzell.

The film is to be shown in Victoria at the McPherson Playhouse, Saturday afternoon at 2:30 p.m.

Degree Seen as Base for Teacher

The day is coming in this province when all school teachers will be required to have a university degree, Charles D. Ovans, general secretary of the B.C. Teachers' Federation said Thursday.

"It is coming just as sure as I'm standing here and you are sitting there," he told a group of education students at the University of Victoria.

He told the students that a teacher also has an obligation to continue their education after they leave university.

"In order to fulfill our jobs properly we must keep abreast of new developments in teaching."

Mr. Ovans said once the students became teachers they have certain responsibilities to themselves, their pupils, to their employers and to their fellow-teachers.

Pair Charged

VANCOUVER (CP)—Ivan Korosec, 23, and Willie Loeffler, 21, have been charged in the $9,364 armed holdup of a Royal Bank of Canada branch here Feb. 19 and will face robbery charges in court here next Wednesday.

Over 10,000 relatives of DVA hospital patients were overnight guests at eight Canadian Red Cross Lodges across Canada.

Pension Second Look Forced by Opposition

An intensive two-day campaign by several opposition members and backbenchers paid off Thursday in two concessions by Labor Minister Peterson that could bring early increases in workmen's compensation pensions.

The legislature's attack centred on the present $90 widows' pensions—set 11 years ago—that Mr. Peterson said could not be revised until next year's session because a royal commission report on the workmen's compensation act was not completed.

Mr. Peterson gave in to the extent that:

He "will consider" introducing legislation at this session authorizing the cabinet to raise pensions as soon as it receives the report;

He will recommend to cabinet that any increases approved be retroactive to last Jan. 1.

The campaign was sparked by Leo Nimsick (NDP-Cranbrook) Wednesday and saw speakers from all three parties urge an immediate interim increase in the pensions, particularly those for widows and their children.

Mr. Peterson maintained his refusal to introduce interim increases before the report is made but he undertook to recommend the eventual raises be retroactive.

NINE MONTHS

Alex Macdonald (NDP-Vancouver East) pointed out that the commission's report was expected by May and this meant the widows would have to wait another nine months before legislation at this session to authorize cabinet action as soon as the report is received.

"I'll be pleased to consider that," Mr. Peterson said.

John Squire (NDP-Alberni) made one further point before discussion ended. He said the group medical insurance coverage of a worker "dies with him" in an industrial fatality.

He said this was particularly harsh on the surviving family because in one fell swoop it lost an income of up to $150 a week and medicare protection too. The department should study the situation for some solution.

WATER SKI BOAT LANDS U.S. TROOPS

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Lockheed-California Company is developing a troop-landing craft that skims the water at 48 miles an hour on retractable skis.

The 25-foot boat, called Hydro-Ski, was described at a marine systems and anti-submarine warfare conference here.

The flat-bottomed craft has a pair of skis which retract into the hull.

Four Discussions On Education

A series of four panel discussions on education will be held at University of Victoria March 22 to May 3.

Sponsored by the university's Alumni Association the discussions will start at 8 p.m. in the Student Union building on Gordon Head campus every second Monday.

Cost to the public for the whole series will be $2. Remaining seats will be sold at 50 cents per night.

The charge is being made to offset costs.

Subjects to be discussed, in order of sequence, are: Vocational and Technical Education in B.C.; The Role of the Independent School in B.C. Education Today; Education and the Juvenile Delinquent; The Community's Responsibility to the University and the University's Responsibility to the Community.

Experts from each of these fields will sit in on the panels.

Further information can be obtained by phoning 384-9913.

Red Cross Drive Early Returns 'Encouraging'

Early returns of $16,662.59 have been termed encouraging by officials of the Victoria and District Red Cross campaign.

"It is encouraging," a spokesman said, pointing out, "last year at this time we had collected only $8,400."

Target for this area is $82,000. B.C. target is $653,900 and the provincial office reports $223,200 has already been collected.

The money is needed to maintain all Red Cross services, particularly for blood transfusions.

Campaign ends March 31.

Drowning Probed

VANCOUVER (CP) — RCMP are investigating the drowning of a man aged about 34 whose body was recovered Thursday afternoon off Bowen Island, northwest of Vancouver.

The man's body, clad in swimming trunks, was pulled from the water near Cape Roger Curtis. No name has been released.

Half Million In Works Costs Wins Approval

Oak Bay works committee Wednesday night approved maintenance estimates totalling $545,683 for this year.

The sum includes usual public works maintenance and parks, boulevards, garbage collection and water utility maintenance.

Committee also recommended major improvements on Newport between Oak Bay Ave., and Windsor ($39,000) and on Victoria between Central and McNeil ($32,000).

Both streets are bus routes.

Long term improvement was slated for St. David St.

TRAFFIC SIGNALS

Committee also recommended individual lane traffic signals be installed at the Oak Bay Ave.-Foul Bay Rd. intersection at a cost of $2,200.

The streets and traffic committee is studying a plan to provide off-street parking for Oak Bay Village shoppers, but one councillor thinks the project will establish a precedent.

"The homeowner in Oak Bay is being asked to subsidize parking for merchants. What precedent are we establishing?" said Coun. Douglas Watts.

He pointed out that "in most cases store owners pay for their own parking."

The proposal will include five lots located on the south side of Oak Bay Ave. between Hampshire and Monterey and on the north side of the Avenue between Hampshire and Wilmot.

PARKING SCHEME

The scheme will provide parking for 147 autos.

The Oak Bay committee also:

Approved a Salvation Army request to establish drop-booths in shopping centres; and

Approved the 1965 civil defence budget of $5,930 which will be augmented by a $3,900 grant from the provincial government.

Every year, Red Cross volunteer hospital visitors make hundreds of thousands of bedside visits to veterans in hospitals across Canada.

Allan Recommended For Fire Chief Post

Appointment of assistant fire chief James Allan, 57, as deputy Victoria fire chief March 31, was recommended to city council Thursday.

Fire wardens committee recommendation includes appointment of Mr. Allan as fire chief with retirement Oct. 31 of chief John Abbott.

The appointment this month would replace acting deputy chief William Wiggs, who reaches retirement age in three weeks.

Recommendations are part of a master promotion and training agreement reached with firefighters' union last week.

It lays groundwork for appointment of a training officer this year and another new chief in two years, after Mr. Allan reaches retirement age. The next appointment would be for at least eight years and future chiefs would be young enough to serve at least 10 years.

Why is Gold Keg Beer a different colour?

It has to be.

We brew Gold Keg for its flavour. To get that flavour takes a special malt, and a unique strain of hops. These special ingredients make Gold Keg a stronger deeper amber than other beers.

It's another one of the differences that sets Gold Keg Beer apart.

INTERNATIONAL PORTS FOR PANHANDLE URGED

VANCOUVER (CP)—Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing Thursday suggested creation of international ports on the Alaska Panhandle to serve the northern British Columbia area.

In a speech to the Vancouver branch of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy and, in a later interview, he said sooner or later Canada must arrange talks with the United States for tidewater access to northwest B.C. through the panhandle.

He said on a recent visit to the country behind the panhandle he found there was an "awful lot of development going on there, not only in mining but in forest operations."

He did not envisage alteration of the panhandle boundary but believed international ports could be established that would be as much an advantage to the U.S. as Canada.

Pete Gas Field Claimed Biggest

VANCOUVER (CP)—The president of Peace River Petroleum Ltd. says he believes the company has drilled a bigger gas field than any in Alberta.

George Richardson, company president, said drilling on the company's second well in Monkman Pass area was completed Thursday at the 8,556-foot level.

He said the second well has tapped the same natural gas zone as Peace River Pete's first well—which has a rated open flow of 9,300,000 cubic feet a day.

"I think it has the makings of the biggest thing in British Columbia," Mr. Richardson said in an interview.

'CAN'T MATCH THAT'

He said there are probably 15 drill sites in the area, each with 70,000,000,000 cubic feet of gas, "and there's nothing that big in Alberta."

Drilling on the third well is to start immediately, he said.

Mr. Richardson said the wells have tapped the first gas zone, which he says is 2,500 feet thick.

He said it is believed there are two other gas zones beneath the first that may ultimately be drilled.

A well drilled in 1957 tapped the middle zone, he said.

"This area is 35 miles long and 10 to 12 miles wide," he said. "Turner Valley, site of the strike that started the Alberta petroleum boom, is 30 miles long and only a mile wide."

Big Apartment Complex Planned For Coal Harbor

VANCOUVER (CP)—Harbor Park Developments Ltd., formed to take over an ambitious Webb and Knapp project here, has announced it will build about 3,200 suites in an apartment complex at Coal Harbor.

The company announcement was the first indication of the cost of the project. The cost was unofficially estimated at $48,000,000.

Webb and Knapp earlier gained title to the waterfront property near the entrance to Stanley Park and announced plans for an office building-apartment development to cost $55,000,000. They were abandoned when the company ran into difficulty with its continent-wide holdings.

Production Resumed

WINDSOR, Ont. (UPI) — Some 7,000 auto workers were returning to work this week at Chrysler of Canada's Windsor plants after ending their 38-day strike.

The striking United Auto Workers voted 91 per cent in favor of accepting a new three-year contract Sunday, ending the work stoppage which kept the nation's third largest automaker idle since Jan. 28.

The contract will mean a 75 cent hourly increase in wages and fringe benefits over the next three years.

'Sawmill Cut Reaching Limit'

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C. should plough more of its forestry revenue back into stepped up forestry management, the president of the B.C. Lumber Manufacturers Association said Thursday.

R. H. Ellison said in his report to the association's annual convention:

"Failure to invest a great deal more public money in the publicly-owned forest estate is short-sighted and will seriously retard the growth of our industry and the province."

He said the coast log cut on the present saw timber basis is rapidly reaching the maximum allowed.

"If the basis of calculation were realistically amended to meet present conditions and forest management practices were appropriately intensified . . . we could achieve within a few years an optimum considerably in excess of the present allowable cut," he said.

Mr. Ellison said coast sawmills produced more than 3,400,000,000 board feet of lumber in 1964.

He said this is an increase of six per cent over 1963, but had been partially offset by a substantial rise in the costs of logs and labor.

Mr. Ellison said the association will grade stamp all grades of dimension lumber at the mills in an effort to control fraudulent regrading practices in some markets.

Mill grade stamping will not eliminate fraudulent restamping, he said, but will help control it.

6% Increase

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia's coast sawmill output reached a record 3,400,000,000 board feet in 1964, an increase of 6 per cent over the previous year.

The figure was disclosed by R. H. Ellison, president of the B.C. Lumber Manufacturers' Association, at the association's annual meeting Thursday.

The coast figure was slightly less than half the 6,660,000,000 board feet of production for the whole province.

WINDFALL' ASSAY RESULTS

Mine Samples 'Worthless'

TIMMINS (CP) — Two geologists testified at a royal commission hearing here Thursday that samples of earth and sludge taken from the drill site on the property of Windfall Oils and Mines Limited were worthless.

The hearing, which later adjourned until Tuesday, heard Patrick Heenan, an employee of Conwest Explorations Limited, testify that he flew to the Windfall property July 6 and took a sample of sludge and had it assayed. Sludge is the mud-like material which is deposited around a drill hole as the bit enters the earth.

He said he received the report from a laboratory in Kirkland Lake the morning after Windfall stock began its rise on the Toronto Exchange.

The commission has been set up to investigate the circumstances surrounding the rise of the stock on rumors that ore had been found. The property is located near the site of a copper-zinc discovery by Texas Gulf Sulphur valued at about $2,000,000,000.

Shares of Windfall stock increased in price to $5.60 from 56 cents and fell to 80 cents between July 6 and July 31.

The report Mr. Heenan received, he said, revealed that the sludge contained no silver, a trace of copper, one one-hundredth per cent zinc, and about 17 cents worth of gold.

Fenton Scott, also a geologist, and spokesman for a group of 20 geologists called in to view a drill core at the request of the commission, said the group was quite disappointed in what they saw.

The geologists believed the sample "wasn't worth a hoot," said Mr. Scott.

"They had seen this type of core hundreds of times. We would have been surprised if anything worthwhile came out of it."

$38 Million Deficit

OTTAWA (CP)—The CNR had a deficit of $38,700,000 last year, its lowest since 1957, the Senate's transportation committee was told Thursday.

The figure was made public for the first time as CNR executive officers replied to questioning about a bill authorizing the railways' expenditures to next June 30.

Groups 'Missed Boat'

PORTLAND (AP)—The public seems to be increasingly against new power dams, the general manager of the American Public Power Association, said Thursday.

Alex Radin told the Northwest Public Power Association that public power proponents soon may be "classified as anti-wildlife, anti-recreation, anti-conservation and perhaps even anti-beauty."

"Power dams and recreation are entirely compatible, but somehow we have missed the boat in getting this story across to the public," he said.

B.C. COLT REPLACES NORTHERN DANCER . . . . . . AS DARLING OF AMERICAN TURF FANS

George Royal . . . 'A Great One With a Big Heart'

By DOUG PEDEN
Times Sports Editor

Peden

ARCADIA, Calif.—The lean man with the deeply-lined face had been standing alone late Thursday afternoon in front of Barns 26 in the Santa Anita Park stable area. His neatly pressed suit was in sharp contrast to the attire of men working around other barns as he peered down the road leading from the receiving barn, where winning horses are held for tests before being walked back to their stalls.

"He should be along in a few minutes," said George Dunn. "Come along while I change my clothes.

"I'm a one-man stable down here," he explained while quickly switching to working clothes in a small room containing little more than a rupled cot and a collection of racing equipment.

"I'm both stable-hand and trainer." There was no suggestion of complaint and it was obvious there was fondness in his chores as he grabbed a pitchfork and moved fresh straw into an empty stall, spreading it deeply and evenly as if he was preparing for equine royalty.

Despite efforts to appear calm the excitement in Dunn's eyes, the rapid talk and trembling hands were dead giveaways that royalty was indeed expected and that this day had brought perhaps the greatest thrill of his long career in horse racing.

Trainer George Dunn had just returned from greeting B.C.-bred George Royal and Alberta-raised jockey Johnny Longden in the winners' circle after the 26th running of the $125,000 San Juan Capistrano Invitational Handicap at this lavish betting parlor.

"Too bad you weren't around this morning," said Dunn. "I could have told you how to make some money. I predicted a win over a Vancouver radio station this morning. I made no blues about it. I was certain George Royal was going to win.

"He never ran on turf until last Thursday, but he took to it right away. We galloped him Monday and Longden said 'I wish it was Thursday. This horse is the best he's been when I've been on him.'"

Sports columnist Hal Malone of The Daily Times had touted George Royal two weeks ago, following a fast-closing third in the rich Santa Anita Handicap, suggesting the San Juan might be a good spot to drop a bundle on the late - charging, four-year-old son of Dark Hawk-Polly Bashaw.

Handicappers in these parts could see little but Cedar Key and Hill Rise, while giving only a slight chance to the Canadian colt and the entry of Deul and Batteur. But the combination of George Royal, who has taken Northern Dancers' place as the Canadian darling of American turf fans, and the winningest jockey in turf history was too much for the glamor steeds over the mile and three-quarters distance of Santa Anita's grass course which twists down off a hillside and finishes with one circuit inside the regular track.

George Royal did it with his usual late rush to make screaming fanatics of his many Canadian supporters among the 38,000 patrons who braved a shower - sprinkled final day of a record-shattering meeting. Away to a better-than-usual start, George Royal had two of the other 13 horses behind him down the hill and he was running in that position past the grandstand.

He appeared to find some trouble on the first turn but straightened up and started to close ground on the backstretch, where Hill Rise stepped out with leaders and appeared a possible winner.

However, from the time Longden turned him loose going around the final turn and the announcer called, "and here comes George Royal," there was little doubt that the Hill Rise goose was cooked. The Canadian charger was in front coming into the home-stretch and was running so strongly at the wire it seemed he could have gone another six furlongs. Duel staged a late rush to overtake Hill Rise and beat the big handicap winner for the late spot, two lengths back of George Royal.

Polizonte, which had a head in front briefly around the final turn, held on for fourth. Cedar Key, the 2 to 1 favorite packing Willie Shoemaker and high weight of 127 pounds, never could find a path through the heavy traffic and finished well back.

George Royal, clocked in 2:46 4/5 (1 4/5 seconds off the track record), collected $75,000 for owners Ernie Hammond and Bob Hall and rewarded his backers with $13.60, $5.80 and $4.40 across the board. Duel paid $6.60 and $5, and Hill Rise returned $6.20.

"He's a powerhouse," Longden said to Dunn when he dismounted.

"He ran like a champion," grandfather Johnny said later.

"He did everything I asked him. I lost a little ground on the clubhouse turn but he handled the grass well and I knew I had it won on the backstretch.

"He wanted to run but I wouldn't let him. I didn't turn him loose until the three-eights pole."

The happy association of the two Georges is due to end next week.

"We're taking him back to Vancouver Saturday," Dunn said while waiting for his champion, "And then I go back to starting."

Dunn has been a starter for 19 years, the last 16 with the Western Canadian Racing Association of Alberta and Saskatchewan tracks. Next month he'll be schooling two-year-olds at the starting gate.

"I think this is as kind and intelligent horse as I've ever known," he said as a groom finally brought George Royal back to the barn and started him on a cooling-out walk.

Wally Dunn, George's brother, who bred and raised George Royal near Vancouver, came along, took a proud look at the horse and departed. Hall, still excited over the biggest ever victory for a Canadian horse in California, was next to arrive. "When we get back to Vancouver we'll rest him for a couple of months," Hall said in his Irish accent.

"We'll probably bring him back to California in June and I think I'll train him myself. After that, I don't know where we'll run him."

George Dunn almost missed his big day when he considered declining an offer last fall to train last year's B.C. champion.

"They wanted to race him down here but didn't want to send him to a public stable," he explained. "I wasn't eager to take the job, but I liked him the first time I saw him and have taken care of him since November.

"I knew he was good, but when he won an allowance race in December, coming from dead last in mud and rain, I knew we had something special.

"He proved it today. He's been good to me, and I've been good to him.

"He's not a big horse, but he's a great one with a big heart."

CANADA CLOBBERED

Russ, Czechs Are Laughing

TAMPERE, Finland (CP) — Russia and Czechoslovakia are the undefeated giants of the world hockey championships here as the tournament heads into the last three days of action.

Both won their fifth straight games easily Thursday and will take it easy today while the action in the eight-country championship pool is confined to the bottom four teams.

Czechoslovakia extended its string by trouncing Canada 8-0, ending the Canadians' unbeaten record in their fifth game.

The Russians, reigning Olympic and world champions, beat the winless United States 9-2 and are preparing to face Czechoslovakia Saturday in what may be the decisive game of the tournament.

WORST EVER

The drubbing Canada absorbed from the Czechs was the worst it has ever taken in international championship play and virtually ended any hope that this will be the year the world title returns to Canada for the first time since 1961.

The immediate reaction in the Canadian camp was one of quiet gloom. The only comment came from Rev. David Bauer, 1964 Olympic coach and a special consultant to this year's national team, who said the Czechs have quite a good team.

'THEY ARE BETTER'

They won, in fact, because "they are better than we are", he told reporters at the usual post-game press conference.

Although the Czechs were in command of the game, they did not turn it into a rout until the third period, when they rapped home five goals. They scored once in the first period, twice in the second.

Sweden, definitely out of contention, whipped Norway 10-0 in Thursday's only other action in the championship pool.

Frantisek Sevcik was the top Czech scorer against Canada, scoring his team's last two goals in the closing minutes of the game on passing plays with Jaroslav Jirik.

Jirik opened the scoring with the only goal of the first period.

Other Czech marksmen were Jiri Holik, Vaclav Nedomnasky, Frantisek Tika, Josef Capla and Josef Golonka.

HAD BEST RECORD

Before the Canadian debacle, goalie Ken Broderick of the University of British Columbia had the best record in the tournament. He has two shutouts, over Norway and Finland, and he had allowed only three goals in four games.

Broderick had to handle 39 shots, while Czech goalie Vladimir Dzurila blocked 22 in gaining his first shutout.

Previously, Canada's worst defeat had been a 7-2 loss to Russia in the 1954 tournament. The Russians, making their debut in world play, won the title that year. Canada's representatives were Toronto East York.

Canada's remaining games are against Sweden Saturday and Russia Sunday.

The Czech - Canadian game concluded a day of lopsided, lacklustre hockey here.

The Russians fired no fewer then 50 shots at American goalie Tom Haught in the first two periods, then simmered down to nine shots in the third period. The Russians led 2-0 at the end of the first period, 7-0 at the end of the second.

APARICIO, KATT SIGN

Majors' Holdouts Reduced to Four

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The list of unsatisfied major league baseball players has dwindled to four with the signing of veteran shortstop Luis Aparicio by Baltimore Orioles and southpaw Jim Kaat by Minnesota Twins.

Katt signed for an estimated $26,000 Thursday and Aparicio, 30, agreed to a salary of about $40,000.

Still trying to get together with their bosses are Richie Allen, Philadelphia Phillies' sensational third - base rookie last season, veteran outfielder Wes Covington of Philadelphia and Felix Torres, Los Angeles Angels' third baseman. Pittsburgh Pirates' Roberto Clemente is at his Puerto Rico home convalescing from malaria.

Kaat received a raise of some $8,500 over last season, when he posted a 17-11 record and a 3.22 earned run average.

STANDS ON RECORD

Aparicio based his demand for more money on a 1964 record of a career high of 10 homers, a batting average of .266 and finishing No. 1 in the American League in stolen bases for the ninth straight season. He stole 57 last year.

New York whipped Washington Senators 4-3 at Pompano Beach, Fla., Thursday with Mickey Mantle, and Elston Howard cracking Yankee home runs.

Meanwhile Charlie Dressen, 66, manager of Detroit Tigers, was reported in satisfactory condition and improving in a Santa Monica, Calif., hospital.

Dressen is recovering from a slight heart attack suffered last weekend. He is expected to return to the club in an advisory capacity after a few months rest if his condition continues to improve.

DESERVANT CHINOOKS RECOGNIZED

Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee will be asked to consider presenting a suitable memento to Victoria Chinooks, Canadian junior basketball champions.

Ald. A. W. Toone called for recognition Thursday.

"When a group of young men such as this go forth in order to bring benefits to their city there should be some way they could be helped," he said.

Toone made his comments Thursday when city council officially honored the junior champions.

Mexican Driver Enters Big One

TORONTO (CP)—Pedro Rodriguez of Mexico, one of the top racing drivers in the world, will compete in the 1965 Trans-Canada 4,000-mile car rally beginning in Montreal April 24.

He will be teamed with Montreal navigator Bill Leathem in a factory Studebaker.

This year's rally has already attracted 66 cars, 37 owned and driven privately.

All But Two WHL Centres Have a Chance

SEATTLE (AP)—Portland, Seattle, Los Angeles and San Francisco are the likely candidates for berths in the expanding National Hockey League, Al Leader of the Western Hockey League said Thursday.

"Portland has the best minor league franchise in America and Seattle isn't far behind with its new building (Arena)," the WHL president said.

His remarks came on the heels of a NHL announcement of a second six-team division now in the planning stage.

He noted that all four cities mentioned qualified for major status in terms of permanent seating capacities and ice surfaces.

★ ★ ★

Los Angeles can seat 14,300 fans in its luxurious new arena, Seattle handles 12,300 in another new building. San Francisco uses the Cow Palace, which seats 12,000, but a new arena is planned in nearly Oakland. Portland has a sparklingly-modern arena with a seating capacity of about 10,000 but Leader said that possibly it could add some seats.

Leader discounted the other two cities in the WHL, Vancouver and Victoria, which have arenas which seat about 5,000 fans.

He said that Victoria also did not have the population to support major league hockey and that Vancouver, which has, would probably have to be left out because of lack of a suitable arena.

"Even if Vancouver made its move now it's doubtful if a new arena could be constructed in time for Vancouver to join the new division," Leader said.

★ ★ ★

Max McNab, manager-coach of the Vancouver WHL entry, saw more than a ray of hope for Vancouver.

"It all depends on the time element," he said. "If six new teams are accepted next year, Vancouver is dead, and probably for many years to come as far as major league hockey is concerned. But if they wait two or three years, we are in the best position of anyone in the WHL."

McNab also noted that none of the other WHL clubs own their own buildings or have long-term leases, two of the stipulations made by the NHL for acceptance of new franchise-holders.

He said that Vancouver had been reluctant to proceed with a new building until such time as NHL expansion came about.

★ ★ ★

"Now that it's here," he said, "I'm sure they won't waste any time. We could proceed with the best building in Canada."

It was reported last night that a Vancouver group is preparing a bid for an NHL franchise, to be made at the annual NHL meeting in June provided the time limit is enough for construction of the required arena.

In San Francisco, Seals' owner Mel Swig said his team would be in a major league "within two years."

Swig says San Francisco can meet all requirements demanded by the NHL for prospective new teams.

AT 42, WILLIE'S STILL FULL OF PEP

MIAMI (AP)—Former world featherweight champion Willie Pep, who retired from the ring six years ago, won his first comeback attempt Thursday night.

The 42 - year - old former champ ducked, jabbed and foxed his way to a unanimous eight-round decision over Hal McKeever. Pep weighed 137, McKeever 135.

Pep, of Hartford, Conn., was a clear leader until McKeever opened up his left cheekbone in the fifth.

Referee Eddie Eckert had Pep out front 80-74, and two judges made Pep the winner by 78-77 and 78-75.

A member of the boxing Hall of Fame, Pep has won 220 fights, 61 of them by knockouts. He held the featherweight title 15 years ago.

Six Teams Planned In NHL Expansion Probably by 1966

MONTREAL (CP)—In the interest of progress, the rich, powerful National Hockey League has decided to expand by taking in six new teams, creating a two-division setup that would bring big-time hockey to the east-west cities of the United States and Canada.

The face-lifting won't take place right away, probably not until the 1966-67 season, if then. And nobody, not even the NHL, is sure it will pay off.

"But you can't stop progress," said league president Clarence Campbell.

Campbell says the idea of adding six teams to the present six-team NHL setup, and operating all 12 in two divisions playing an interlocking schedule, is a calculated gamble. The calibre of play is going to be lowered, he said, until enough players can be developed to balance both divisions.

"There is no shortage of hockey players but the question is whether or not the dilution of talent will be a disappointment to the public. We don't know."

Announcement Came As a Surprise

League governors announced the expansion proposal after a five-hour meeting in New York Thursday. It came as a surprise, although the league had announced last Feb. 2 that Thursday's meeting was for the purpose of discussing expansion.

First hint that the winds of expansion were blowing came last summer when the league appointed New York consultant Fred Corcoran to promote the NHL to the U.S. news media. Expansion to rich markets such as Los Angeles and San Francisco was considered essential if the NHL hoped to attract the attention of the big U.S. television networks.

The league now is made up of teams from Chicago, New York, Boston, Toronto, Montreal and Detroit.

In its announcement, the NHL said applications for the new division will be accepted from responsible groups representing major-league cities in Canada and the U.S. None has been received so far, Campbell said.

No deadline was set for the expansion.

McNab Says Vancouver Will Apply

Asked to speculate what cities could be in the running for a franchise, Campbell named seven. He said Los Angeles and St. Louis, both with big-league rinks, qualify now. Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Oakland, Calif., San Francisco and Vancouver could support NHL calibre teams, but need bigger rinks. He didn't mention Seattle, which, along with San Francisco and Los Angeles, can meet the 12,000-seat capacity required by the NHL.

He ruled out the possibility of two teams operating in the same city. There were no cities with separate facilities to handle dual entries, he said.

Campbell said to meet the NHL's basic requirements, a city would have to have the ability to draw enough fans to purchase not less than $1,000,000 in tickets annually, a rink controlled by ownership or a long-term lease to ensure continuity, and promoters with necessary resources to operate a team.

Already, Vancouver, on hearing the expansion news, announced it would make a franchise bid at the NHL annual meetings in Montreal in June.

Max McNab, general manager of Vancouver Canucks of the Western League, said the bid would come either from the Canucks or other parties not mentioned.

Campbell said the present NHL teams will sponsor new entries initially by providing them with players until some kind of balance is achieved. It would take time to set up farm systems, but the league would help by creating a player selection pool. This pool could even help the NHL's lower-placed teams like the Boston Bruins, if the situation warranted.

Fans Must Be Patient, Charitable

"Properly distributed on a competitive basis, not on a give-away basis, we feel it is possible in the long run to establish a competitive league which would span the length and breadth of this continent," he said.

But the fan would have to be patient as well as charitable while the shake-up league went through birth pangs.

"I'm quite satisfied that any time you dilute a product by increasing the number of teams, you are bound to weaken the product," Campbell said. "There is no question that the new division will lower the calibre of play.

"How else can we get another 120 players of the calibre we now have in the NHL, except by expanding and development?"

Campbell said the NHL's player draft procedures will be studied and revised, if necessary, to avoid the possibility of exploitation of talent through bonus payments in a money war among teams.

Seattle's Allen Expresses Interest

He said schedule and playoff arrangements in a two-division league haven't yet been considered, and won't be until all the franchises have been determined.

"Anything I say on that phase of it would be pure speculation," he said.

Immediate expressions of interest in the expansion plans came from three United States cities. Keith Allen, general manager and coach of Seattle Totems of the WHL and Emory Jones, vice-president and general manager of St. Louis Braves of the Central League, said they will apply for franchises.

Zanvyl Kreiger, board chairman and one of the two principal owners of Baltimore Clippers of the AHL, said the club is prepared to invest "several million dollars" in expansion of the Baltimore Civic Centre, which now seats 11,000.

Gerald Martineau, general manager of Quebec Aces of the AHL, said his club is interested but that it would be difficult for Quebec to play in a new circuit if all the other teams were located in western cities. The Quebec Coliseum seats 10,000 and can accommodate 4,000 standees.

BETTY ANN and JOHN McKILLIGAN
. . . Champions in a "homecoming"

Pair Champions 'Home' As Skating Headliners

Canada's junior pair skating champions look upon Saturday as a "homecoming day."

Winners of the Canadian championship at Calgary last month, Betty Ann and John McGilligan return to the scene of their earliest triumphs on Saturday.

Now living in North Vancouver, the North Shore Winter Club aces will be the featured guest stars in the Victoria Figure Skating Club's production of "Ice Capers" at Memorial Arena.

The McKilligans first started skating in Victoria and passed their first tests while members of the VFSC.

Saturday's afternoon-evening program will sharply emphasize the boom of figure skating across the country. The club boasts its greatest membership ever and almost 500 will take part in the show.

Junior members (about 400) will dominate the first half of the program with intermediate and senior skaters taking over in the second half.

Solos, pairs and group skating will be included in the two-hour program that starts at 2:30 and 8 p.m.

Also included on the program will be former Ice Capades' professional John Bate of Vancouver.

Three Share Top; Wakeham at 75

DORADO, Puerto Rico (AP)—Al Besselink and Wes Ellis Jr. made determined bids Thursday to over take Art Wall Jr. in the battle for the Caribbean golf tour trophy when each shot three-under-par 69s to tie Joe Jimenez for the first-round lead in the Puerto Rico Open golf tournament.

Wall went into the final of the five tournament comprising the Caribbean tour with a two-point lead over Ellis and five points over Besselink.

Besselink, from Grossinger N.Y., ripped four strokes off par on the back nine after going one over on the front nine. He birdied the last two holes after also getting birdies at the 12th and 13th.

Ellis, from West Caldwell, N.J., came home with a 33 after being even-par going out.

Jimenez, from Jefferson City, Mo., was hot on the front nine with a 33 and then slacked off to even figures coming home.

Wall had a par-72, which left him in a five-man group.

In the 72 contingent with Wall was Wilf Homeniuk of Winnipeg and Al Balding of Toronto.

Bill Wakeham of Victoria shot a three-over-par 75.

Score, Not Defeat, Sore That Rankles

Canadian Press

It was not that Canada lost to Czechoslovakia Thursday in the world hockey tournament at Tampere, Finland, that upset sport columnists across the country, but the lopsided 8-0 score.

Few expected Canada would beat either Czechoslovakia or Russia when they meet Sunday, but almost all were as amazed as Cam McKenzie (Saskatoon Star Phoenix) who said:

"It is hard to believe the Czechs could win by such a score against the current Canadian team, especially when the Canucks did so well against the Czechs in exhibition games in the U.S. and Canada at Christmas."

In two exhibitions in Canada and two tournament games at Colorado Springs, Colo., Canada gained two wins and a tie against one loss.

But sugestions as to what Canadian Amateur Hockey Association officials should learn from the loss were more varied.

Some, like Aubrey Keizer (Cape Breton Post) suggested: "If we can't go to the tournaments and be a top contender, stay home."

But others, like Bob Pennington (Toronto Telegram) suggested: "Canada must continue in international hockey. To pull out for at least the next two years, as had been suggested . . . would result in this country being treated with contempt throughout Europe.

'ARGUMENTS DIED'

"Whatever the provocation, however great the temptation to take time out from Bunny Ahearne's travesty of a tournament, any valid argument for non-participation died on the ice at Tampere.

"If Canada could win the championship or even show well in the final, a national exit could be made with pride and dignity.

"After this mauling, there is no alternative to fighting again . . ."

But most, as they did after Canada lost the 1967 tournament to Austria Wednesday, took the CAHA to task.

Keizer sugested "its about time the CAHA sat together and made sure they were going to send worthy representatives, and if they weren't available, then forget about it until Canada rebuilds itself in the world hockey picture."

Jack Koffman (Ottawa Citizen) says: "I don't know why people are so surprised. When you send boys on a man's errand you've got to settle for anything but the best in return. The amateur hockey situation in this country, as related to international competition, has been utterly ridiculous for years."

". . . . Yesterday's shellacking is the last straw and now we really must do something about it," says Ace Foley (Halifax Chronicle-Herald). "If we're going to send teams into this type of competition they must be stronger than any team we have assembled in the past 10 years. Either beef up the teams or drop out . . . ."

DIDN'T EXPECT WIN

Jack Matheson (Winnipeg Tribune) says: "Nobody in his right mind should have anticipated that the Canadian hockey team, ill - conceived and ill-equipped, could beat the Czechs.

"Canada takes some nice young men out of college around Christmas time, lets them play some games if they can spare the time and sends them into the international meatgrinder in two months. If they win, that's nice; if they lose, it's only a game.

"Indifference is the name of the game in Canada."

Eddie St. Pierre (Moncton Times) suggested some changes in the international rules governing amateurs would be necessary before Canada again could become a power in world hockey.

He said: "The majority of our good players are playing pro and until a good crop of amateurs comes along, or the so - called amateur regulations which have been set up by the International Ice Hockey Federation and the Olympic body are changed, we'll continue to get clobbered by the Czechs, Russians, Swedes and later on by other European countries."

The loss left Canada with the propect of finishing no better than third behind unbeaten Russia and Czechoslovakia. A loss to Sweden Saturday could relegate them to fourth place.

Starry Gymnasts Draw Invitations

If gymnastics are your dish, the University of Victoria's Gordon Head gymnasium is the place to be Saturday from 7 to 10 p.m.

Uvic is sponsoring an invitational gymnastics meet featuring a national and provincial champion among the 40 competitors.

Uvic's sponsorship was inspired by the interest of Victorians in the visit last year of the spectacular Danish gym team.

Heading a lustrous list of competitors will be Takaaki Sueyoshi, Gunter Bohrmann, Joyce Tanac and Linda Scott.

Sueyoshi is the Japanese national champion on rings and the high bar. He makes his home in Seattle.

Bohrmann placed first all-round in the British Columbia and the Pacific Northwest open championships last year.

Miss Tanac, only 14, placed first all-round in the British Columbia senior women's open championship.

Miss Scott, of Spokane, has won 19 gold medals in senior women's competition.

Two top Canadians displaying their talents will be Bonny Dertell, chosen to compete in the world championships in Czechoslovakia in 1962, and Leslie Bird, of Vancouver, senior girls' British Columbia high school champion.

Bonded Stock is in the best shape ever.
Our whisky doesn't come in those old bottles anymore. Those fine old bottles have launched their last sips. We've designed these new containers for Bonded Stock. Plus matching new labels. And we age Bonded Stock longer now as well. This makes every drop just a little more mellow. One thing though. Bonded Stock's smooth lightness we don't change. Our blenders know a good thing when they taste it. Judging from the number of people who buy Bonded Stock, so does the rest of the country.

Going into today's play Oak Bay, Trail, Cranbrook, Victoria, North Surrey and Clearbrook had one victory and one loss. Vancouver John Oliver and Fort St. John had two losses.

Manitoba Ready For Racing Body

WINNIPEG (CP)—Legislation to establish a Manitoba Racing Commission received approval in principle Wednesday when it was given second reading in the legislature on a recorded vote of 41 to 9.

KNUDSON SECOND

Duck Waddles To Doral Lead

MIAMI (UPI)—Doug Sanders, who stands like a duck and swings like a lumberjack, had two strokes on the field today starting the second round of the $70,000 Doral Open golf tournament over the "Blue Monster" course he tamed Thursday with a record 65.

Sanders' seven-under-par tour broke the old record on the 7,028-yard layout by one stroke. The 31-year-old winner of last week's Pensacola Open also broke a record on the back nine holes of the Doral course with a 30.

"I didn't really feel confident until I came off the course," said Sanders, whose Pensacola victory Sunday in a sudden-death playoff with Jack Nicklaus earned him $10,000 and made him this year's leading money-winner. It was also his 12th tournament victory.

In second place with 67s here were Canadian PGA champion George Knudson and Jack McGowan of Largo, Fla.

KNUDSON SECOND

Knudson, a 26-year-old native of Winnipeg and considered Canada's top young pro, carded a 35-32 in the opening round. McGowan, who began winning tournaments late last year after making up his mind "not to get sore every time I miss a shot," shot a 33-34.

Sanders had a good day all around. He made one of the most spectacular shots in his nine years as a pro by holing a 90-foot chip shot on the 13th for a birdie two.

Billy Casper, who won the Doral last year with a 277, had caddy troubles in the first round and finished with a 35-37—72. Casper, who claimed recently to have gained control of his emotions on the course, fired his caddy for refusing to wipe off his clubs and smooth over sand traps the 33-year-old Californian hit.

Cup Playoffs Will Follow Usual Format

MONTREAL (CP) — Stanley Cup semi-final playoffs will open Thursday, April 1, on the home ice of the first and second-place finishers in the final National Hockey League standings, an NHL spokesman said Friday.

The two semi-finals and the final, all best-of-seven series, then will proceed according to last year's format with games on Saturday or Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday until winners are decided.

INTO MAY

The latest possible playing date, should both a semi-final and the final go the full seven games, would be Sunday, May 2.

Under the playoff system, the first-place finisher meets the third-place team in one semi-final, while the runnerup in the final standings takes on the fourth-place team in the other. Winners of these series advance to the final.

Council Plans Phone Rate Submissions

By AB KENT

City council will seek full information on upcoming hearings into B.C. Telephone Co. capital structure with a view to making a brief on rates and tariffs.

The move Thursday follows a decision not to undertake a joint brief on earnings and expenditures as invited by the board of transport commissioners, which will hold hearings in Vancouver.

Council's legislative committee had suggested to the Union of B.C. Municipalities executive that a joint brief be submitted. Later, Vancouver Mayor William Rathie was reported as offering to undertake a brief with Victoria.

Mayor R. B. Wilson pointed out that a similar brief submitted some six years ago had been "ineffectual."

Ald. Austin Curtis said the matter of rates was important and Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow suggested the mayor and city manager should take it up with Mayor Rathie.

Mayor Wilson pointed to the terms of reference excluding rates as subject for discussion.

Ald. A. W. Toone said capital structure has a bearing on rates.

He said council should seek full information on material submitted at the hearings, reserving the right to protest rates later.

* * *

The mayor and manager were authorized to take up the question of a more favorable provincial school grants formula with school district officials, following a request for action by the UBCM.

Mayor Wilson said school salaries particularly have reached the stage where the existing 50-50 formula is no longer effective.

* * *

As many aldermen and their wives as possible—perhaps the whole city council—should plan to take part in the Quebec tour in May, Mayor Wilson told council.

"As we were the prime coast city in the visit (of Quebec mayors in November), I would like to see as many of council as possible take part . . . even the whole council," he said.

Arrangements and financing of the trip were left to him and city manager Dennis Young. The city will pay part of the expenses and a federal grant will assist.

* * *

A sports foundation should be set up in Victoria to honor championship efforts of local teams, especially when they win titles away from home.

The suggestion was made by Ald. Toone, who said teams are ambassadors of Victoria.

"We put many thousands of dollars annually into the visitors' bureau, but I think we are overlooking a worthwhile area," he said.

Council passed a motion of congratulation to Victoria Chinooks Junior Men's Basketball Champions.

* * *

Dedication of Halkett and Colville Islands in the harbor for park purposes has run into a snag—they were never deeded to the city and remain Crown lands.

Solicitor T. P. O'Grady told council application must be made to the provincial government to have the islands deeded, as is being done with the Coffin Islands.

In fact, he said later, there may be a question of whether Coffin Islands still belong to the Indians, who once used them as a burial ground.

* * *

Chamber of Commerce was granted use of Centennial Square to hold an inter-denominational church service April 11 and to assemble a children's parade April 17.

* * *

Special student price of $1.50 during the last hour before curtain time for April repertory productions at McPherson Playhouse was approved by council.

A matinee performance of Twelfth Night April 7 will be held for school children studying Shakespeare, the suggested price being $1 each with the school board making up the other half of the $2 admission.

* * *

Council approved a $400 expenditure to shade the glass roof on the south dance floor at Crystal Garden, necessary during the warmer months to cut glare and heat being experienced early this year.

Morals Term Suspended

A sailor was given one year's suspended sentence Thursday in Saanich magistrate's court on a morals offence involving a 15-year-old girl.

James Lysne, 18, of HMCS Antigonish, last week pleaded guilty to contributing to juvenile delinquency.

The offence occurred Dec. 18, 1964, when Lysne and other youths and girls were having a party in a Saanich home.

Lt. Raymond Sutherland, RCN, his divisional officer testified Thursday Lysne had displayed "exemplary conduct ashore and afloat."

He added he does his work well on ship, has passed his training courses and was selected to a higher trades course.

His mother said "he feels it was a very bad mistake."

Health Official Gains Leave for UBC Study

Fears that Saanich and other parts of Greater Victoria may be without a medical health officer next winter were expressed this week by Reeve Hugh Curtis.

The Saanich delegate to the Metro Health Board was commenting on the proposed leave of absence of deputy health director Dr. G. P. Evans, who wishes to take a year's post-graduate study at University of B.C. starting in September.

Dr. Evans also is Saanich medical health officer.

Reeve Curtis wanted assurance that Saanich would not be without a medical health officer before consenting to the leave of absence.

Metro Health chief Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread was not able to give such assurance, but felt there would be enough time to make a temporary appointment.

Dr. Whitbread said Saanich should appoint its own medical health officer as other areas have done.

"This is not a simple matter," Reeve Curtis said.

"Saanich would have difficulty justifying such an appointment . . . Saanich must have a medical health officer, as Dr. Beatty was prior to his retirement, as Dr. Evans is now—someone clearly defined."

The reeve said he was not opposed to the leave of absence, treating this as separate from the post of Saanich medical health officer.

Dr. Whitbread said a pediatrician should be appointed to the staff in a month or two, and with a part-time assistant the jobs of medical health officer and director of school health services would be covered during the absence of Dr. Evans.

Delegates approved the leave of absence.

PROBE MAN PROMOTED BY RCMP

OTTAWA (CP)—RCMP Inspector Joseph Carriere, 53, one of the central police figures in the Dorion judicial inquiry, has been promoted to superintendent, Commissioner B. McClellan announced today.

Supt. Carriere was the man who took a statement in Montreal last August from lawyer Pierre Lamontagne alleging that Raymond Denis had offered a $20,000 bribe to get Mr. Lamontagne to agree to the release on bail of Lucien Rivard.

6 NEXT SESSION

Uvic Bids For Foreign Students

There will likely be at least six foreign students at the University of Victoria next session, the largest number ever at one time.

Foreign student committee chairman, Alison Hughes, says in addition to the six students "we are bargaining for all we can get."

Arrangements are now being made to sponsor two Japanese students, two students from Chile and two from Africa.

Miss Hughes said the committee is also working through the world University Service for a student exchange with a Communist satellite country for the 1966-67 session.

The committee is also in the preliminary stages of bargaining with Mexico and Spain for an exchange program.

NO EXCHANGE PLAN

Because there is no exchange plan with Japan the affair has been a one-way street up to this time. It has put the University of Victoria in the position of paying for their students and receiving nothing in return.

Applications for students who wish to go to Chile will be accepted by the committee up to March 21.

After that two students will be selected by a committee of the registrar, the president and vice-president of the Alma Mater Society, the chairman of the foreign student committee and one other person.

FILMS RAISE FUND

Funds for the African students are being raised from films at the Fox Theatre. Up to this point the films have raised $1,250 toward the total cost.

A third film, Raisin in the Sun, will be shown this Sunday night. Admission is $1.

Except for the African students the Alma Mater Society has to set aside $1,200 for the expenses of each foreign student. University fees are waived.

Chess Master Retires

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Mikhail Botvinnik, Russia's chess wizard and three times world champion, has retired from competition for the world crown, the Soviet news agency Tass said Thursday. It said that the 53-year-old ex-champion had given up the right to try once again to capture the world title.

Imported Plays to Be Gamble for City

Bringing culture to the civic theatre could cost the city unexpected money, recreation and community services committee heard this week.

Two repertory playhouse companies are asking a financial guarantee for bringing their productions to Victoria in April.

Whether costs and guarantees are covered depends on seat sales of at least 61 per cent for three nights in one case and 64 per cent for five nights in the other.

A third production—the Salt Lake City symphonic choir—needs a $1,140 guarantee and beyond the 64 per cent break-even point, the city will benefit.

First company to play will be the Playhouse Theatre Company of Vancouver, bringing Stop the World, I Want to Get Off, April 2-4, needing $5,100 minimum.

Seattle Repertory Theatre Company will be here April 5-10 with Twelfth Night and Ah, Wilderness. It needs $8,000 guarantee.

The choir will be here one night only, April 26. It is a Mormon group with 130 voices.

"The commitments to the first two companies were made at a time when the stress was on getting good productions for the theatre, and possible profit was not a consideration," city manager Dennis Young said.

"It would seem that we are morally bound to honor them."

The committee previously recommended a $2,000 "float" to cover guarantees of this nature.

City council will be asked to endorse the arrangements for the April productions.

Theatre manager Robert Ellison said later the four nights played by Lights Up in McPherson Playhouse's first week had about 80 per cent seat occupancy.

Director Peter Mannering said the response to the show was regarded by participants as "a kind of miracle."

The production may be asked to become annual, depending upon a city grant, size of the cast and payment for participants in the form of honorarium.

U.S. May Carry War to Chinese

By JOHN G. NORRIS

WASHINGTON — American moves involving southeast Asia during the past few days are a more marked escalation of the war than generally has been realized.

The actions taken and disclosure of steps contemplated have both military and political aims and are particularly important when considered in sum. They include:

● The highly significant commitment of U.S. Marine combat units to South Viet Nam, which government officials, probably for domestic reasons, underplay.

● New unannounced and unacknowledged American air raids of Communist targets in Laos, which Peking described as "heavy."

● Disclosure of Pentagon plans for enlarging the U.S. Seventh Fleet and imposition of an American naval patrol to stop Communist infiltration of the long Vietnamese coastline.

● Indications that the administration has reversed the policy that prevailed during the Korean war, which made Red China a "privileged sanctuary" against U.S. air and ground attacks even though Chinese forces were in combat below the Yalu with American troops.

Though the landing of two Marine battalion landing teams, tanks, helicopters and support units at Da Nang is called a "special case" which does not really mean the "commitment of American land combat forces in an Asia war," such a landing has not been made since Korea.

The Marines—at the start anyway—will be confined to defensive guard duties and will release 4,000 South Vietnamese for fighting in crucial offensive combat.

Da Nang is a vital U.S. base, essential for deep U.S. jet raids to the north. The only other two jet bases are far to the south.

And while there has been Viet Cong infiltration within 40 miles of Da Nang, commitment of the Marines was not militarily necessary to insure its safety.

There seem to have been two clear other reasons for moving in the 3,500 marines. It provides an opening wedge and prepares the way for committing larger U.S. combat forces for a fighting role if necessary later — a step which the administration hopes to avoid but does not rule out.

It will help prepare the American public for such a step and "send a signal" to Hanoi and Peking that Washington is prepared to go the limit in defending South Viet Nam.

BOMBING RAIDS

Last week's U.S. bombing raids on Laos were said by Peking to have hit three points—Communist Pathet Lao headquarters and main communications centre at Khang Khai, and Ban Ban and Xieng Khouang—two other key supply points for the Viet Cong and Pathet Lao.

While the Pentagon would not comment on the Chinese report of the raids, they unquestionably occurred. This is another "signal" of U.S. intentions to Hanoi and Peking. The Viet Cong land supply route to South Viet Nam was hampered, to a degree, at least.

Disclosure of U.S. Navy preparations for an American patrol—possibly a blockade—of the Vietnamese coast—and contemplation of dispatch of additional aircraft carriers to the Far East also puts pressure on the Communists.

POINTED MESSAGE

Similarly, the administration seems to be trying to convey a pointed message to Peking that its territory will not remain a "privileged territory," immune from attack, as was the case in the Korean war. No U.S. official has said that such a "sanctuary" policy would prevail, and questions on this are met with a refusal to comment.

While there has been no positive declaration of U.S. policy in this respect, it seems clear that American planes would exercise the rule of "hot pursuit" and follow Chinese planes back over Hainan Island or the China mainland if they attack U.S. planes over North Viet Nam. And also, it seems to be accepted that Chinese bases and other military targets would be hit if it sends troops into the Vietnamese war.

HINTED MOVES

All of these announced or hinted moves have two evident motives. They represent a further effort to convince the Communist world that the United States will do whatever is necessary to stop aggression in Southeast Asia and has no intention of negotiating on their terms.

But they also are a necessary response to recent Communist advances and bolder action in South Viet Nam, evidenced by the appearance of North Vietnamese troops in uniform and their domination of additional areas in the northern provinces. The recent moves apparently also commit the United States to even further escalation of the war if things continue as they are.

Rabbit Ends Eagle's Fling

LONDON (AP)—Goldie the eagle succumbed to the lure of a succulent rabbit Wednesday and was recaptured in Regent's Park after 12 days of freedom.

As the Finnish golden eagle swooped down on the rabbit, a posse of keepers swooped down on him. After a hasty checkup, he was hustled back to the London Zoo and into his cage where his mate, Regina, was waiting.

The keepers tempted him with the rabbit soon after dawn, before the arrival of the crowds that have been coming to Regent's Park each day to watch Goldie.

Hunger was his undoing. Eagles usually eat every three days. Since quitting his cage, he had taken only a peck at a dog, which survived, and at a duck, which didn't.

Veteran's Body Found In Harbor

A corpse found floating in the water off Pacific Piledriving Wharf in the Inner Harbor Thursday afternoon has been identified as the body of a 37-year-old city man.

He was William Francis MacDonald, who recently underwent treatment at the DVA Hospita.

Mr. MacDonald's body was found by Edward Lumley of Ganges, an employee of Pacific Piledriving.

BRIDGE RESULTS

Winners of a tournament held Thursday by Victoria All-masters' Duplicate Bridge Club were:

East-west: Les Stewart and Harry Brawn, first; Marianne Powell and Bud Waddington, second; Hildagarde Rundquist and Isobel Artlett, third, and Ken Magee and Mike Pazurik, fourth.

Heavenly Honeymoon Arranged by 'Angel'

LONDON (CP)—A factory girl and her miner bridegroom will get a millionaire-style honeymoon in the Bahamas, thanks to a Canadian they never met.

Newspapers here tell the story of Jacqueline Harbottle, 22, and James Brown, 21, who were offered the trip to the sun by Herbert L. Curtlett, identified only as a Canadian property tycoon.

Jacqueline and Jim, a £14-a-week miner, are to be married Saturday. They chose to buy furniture rather than take a honeymoon, because they couldn't afford both.

But instead of honeymooning at home in Peterlee, County Durham, they will enjoy the sun in Nassau, living in a luxury villa, the newspaper reports say.

This is how the dream honeymoon came about:

Jim's uncle, James Dodds, 46, former post office engineer, was in a plane ready to fly from New York to Bermuda, where he was going to settle.

The passenger in the next seat introduced himself as Herbert L. Curtlett, a Canadian property dealer going on holiday to his Nassau villa.

Dodds told him about the young couple and the Canadian offered them two weeks at his villa. Then he purchased two return air tickets at a cost of £350 and gave them to Dodds to send on.

SUBTLE CHANGES to artist's conception of converted Restigouche Class destroyer (above) has produced latest design for RCN's new helicopter destroyer (below). Contracts for components for new ships are now under way, but tenders for the DDHs are not expected to be called until 1966. The new craft's "cleaned-up" design features five-inch gun forward for shore bombardment and surface action, missile defence system, helicopter hangar and aft landing deck with an improved variable-depth sonar at stern. They will carry the CHSS2 Sea King anti-submarine helicopter which is capable of carrying both sonar and armaments. Conversion of the seven Restigouche Class DDEs will begin next year and involves variable-depth sonar installation and rocket-assisted homing torpedo system known as ASROC. New DDHs will be slightly longer than current destroyer-escorts. (DND Photo.)

Dentist Protest Likely On Act Amendments

Cyril Shelford (SC—Omineca) Thursday introduced two bills in the legislature that are expected to raise protests from dentists.

They would amend the Dentistry and Dental Technicians Acts to permit dental mechanics to make original impressions for false teeth and prohibit the dentists' association from boycotting the mechanics.

Mr. Shelford said the effect of dentist-mechanic co-operation sought by his amendments would be to lower the $150-$200 cost for false teeth to about $75.

He also said it would enable people using mechanics to make their dentures to have better false teeth.

Mr. Shelford said at present, a dentist must first extract all the teeth and then issue a certificate 21 days later before a person can go to a mechanic to have an impression made for dentures.

By permitting the mechanics to make the impressions before the teeth are removed, their clients could have a set made duplicating their natural teeth.

Mr. Shelford said the bills also would prevent the dentists' association from forcing any of its members to refuse to deal with dental mechanics. He said a boycott exists now.

The bills are the first introduced for some time by a backbencher to amend existing legislation and there were indications they produced a stormy session in the Socred caucus before introduction in the House.

Mr. Shelford said he would not withdraw the bills even if a cabinet minister brought in similar amendments on the government's behalf.

He said his goal has been sought for some years without bringing government action.

Testimony False, Magistrate Rules

Magistrate William Ostler told a Saanich youth and his companion they lied under oath in police court Thursday when giving evidence to a speeding charge.

Richard Payne, 1840 Grandview, was convicted of being the owner of a car driven at a greater rate of speed than 30 mph.

He told the court he was not the driver of the car. He said it was a hitchhiker he had picked up earlier.

Payne testified he and his companion and witness, Murray Smith, picked up the hitchhiker and went to Smith's house.

Payne said he went into the house and when he returned, the hitchhiker and his friend, who was sleeping in the car, were gone.

When questioned by police after the car had been spotted speeding on Shelbourne he denied being its driver.

Smith also told the court Payne was not the driver of the car. He said it was the hitchhiker who he could not identify.

"Your story is devoid of any semblance of credibility." I am satisfied the defendant lied under oath. They both lied under oath," the magistrate said.

Payne was fined $35 or five days in jail. When he asked for time to pay, he was refused.

Torpedo Given Back

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The Russian trawler Beryll snagged an exercise torpedo in her nets Tuesday and turned it over to the U.S. Navy, Atlantic Fleet headquarters reported Wednesday. The Beryll, one of a fleet of Soviet trawlers fishing about 60 miles southeast of Block Island, R.I., had reported to coast guard headquarters in New York she had a torpedo with U.S. markings lodged in her nets.

Young Hunters Must Take Exams

New powers to punish careless gunhandling and to require examinations for hunters will be added to the Game Act under a bill introduced in the legislature Thursday.

The requirement that loaded firearms not be carried in motor vehicles will be replaced with a wider provision requiring everyone using a gun to "exercise due care for the safety of other persons or property."

In addition, the cabinet will be empowered to make "regulations requiring a person to first pass an examination of proficiency and knowledge in the handling of firearms before obtaining any firearms licence."

Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan said that the "due care" clause will parallel the careless driving section in the motor vehicle act.

'SOUND SHOOTING'

He said it will cover such things as "sound shooting"—firing blind at a noise in the brush—and shooting over person's heads for fun.

He said gunhandling examinations likely will be required "12 months from now" for all those who are applying for a hunting licence for the first time and to those who have been convicted under the "due care" clause.

"I doubt that it will be extended to those who have been hunting a long time," he said.

PREPARE MANUAL

Mr. Kiernan said a manual is being prepared for new hunters similar to the motor vehicle manual for driving licence applicants which provides a short-course on theory.

Both theoretical and practical knowledge of gun handling will be tested by approved experts—in some cases officers of fish and game clubs and in other cases by the department's officers.

He said this program likely will not be put into operation until after next fall's hunting season because of the time needed to make the administrative arrangements.

"We have no illusions we can eliminate all hunting accidents but we do believe we can pinpoint some of the causes and try to deal with them," Mr. Kiernan said.

One of the chief causes of accidents is ignorance among newcomers to the sport.

"We want to make sure people know how lethal a gun is," he said, adding wryly: "After all, it's about as dangerous as an automobile."

Rites Set Saturday For Saanich Pioneer

Mrs. Allan J. Dorman, the daughter of a pioneer Saanich family—died in Tacoma, Washington, Wednesday.

She had resided there with her daughter, Mrs. O. C. (Jean) Swenson, since the death of her husband, Dr. A. J. Dorman, on Jan. 29.

Born in Saanichton, Mrs. Dorman was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander MacKenzie and a grand-daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Thomson, all pioneer residents of Saanich Peninsula.

After their marriage in 1924, Dr. and Mrs. Dorman went to live in Kimberley, B.C., where Dr. Dorman practised dentistry until he joined the Canadian Army in the Second World War.

After the war, Dr. and Mrs. Dorman settled in Ketchikan, Alaska, and continued to reside there until December, 1964.

Mrs. Dorman is survived by her daughter, Mrs. O. C. Swenson, and two grandchildren in Tacoma; three sisters, R. E. Nimmo and Mrs. William Ibbetson of Saanichton, and Mrs. W. E. Kennedy of Sidney; and two brothers, H. W. McKenzie of Langford and Dr. R. M. MacKenzie of Saanichton.

Funeral services will be held in Christ Church Cathedral Chapel, Tacoma, on Saturday at 3 p.m. Flowers are declined, but donations may be made to the Dorman Memorial Fund at St. Stephen's Church, Saanichton.

Mrs. Dorman was planning this memorial, in memory of her husband, at the time of her death.

NEW ISLAND

Late in 1963 cartographers noted a new island, now almost one-square mile in area, spring from the sea-bed following volcanic activity off Iceland.

'OVERTIME PAYMENTS ONLY CURB'

The provincial labor department should deter storekeepers from staying open long hours or seven days a week by strict enforcement of regulations on employees' hours, the legislature was told Thursday.

John Squire (NDP — Alberni), said businessmen's drives for wide open hours was not motivated by public service but profit at the expense of employees who had to work split shifts and awkward hours.

He said this could be accomplished by strict enforcement of overtime payment for all hours beyond a straight five-day week of eight consecutive hours a day.

Government Tender Lowest Bid

REGINA (CP)—An announcement that the Saskatchewan Government Insurance Office had submitted a successful low bid on a tender for a large insurance contract today received table-thumping applause from the legislature's crown corporations committee.

Deputy Premier A. H. McDonald, minister in charge of the SGI, announced as the committee completed a review of the SGI's 1964 operations, that "the SGI has just received word they held low tender on a contract bid for insurance.

"The SGI tender was for $7,920 and the closest competitive bid was $18,504. In fact all three other bids were for identical amounts," Mr. McDonald said.

No details of the contract were announced.

'Farce Ridden' Right to Hilt

By RON SUDLOW

A rustic French farce and an 18th century comedy produced pleasing parallels in style at the Greater Victoria Schools Drama Festival Tuesday evening.

Adjudicator Carl Hare of the University of Victoria drama school was pleased with the students' efforts at Oak Bay Senior High School.

ONE MARRIES THE PROPERTY
By Yves Cabrol
Presented by Oak Bay Senior Secondary School

Jean-Louis Vantard	Brian Fitzpatrick
Simon Boudier	Geoffrey Murray
Augustine Courcelet	Barbara Turner
Hercul Flamarin	John Heisterman
Annette Flamarin	Donna Dyer
Lucie Flamarin	Sherry Parrott
Rosine Courcelet	Barbara Dunn
Charles Flamarin	David Deeks
Student Assistants	Members of the Drama Club and the Stage-Crew Club.

Director, Mrs. P. Dulmage. Stage Managers, Mr. E. Rome; students, Rich Rolfe, John Hall, Jim Perry.

In this effort, Mr. Hare said the cast "rode the farce as it should be ridden," producing "good comic business."

He said the play was designed for French actors—a virtuoso built on the oddities and quirks of his character—and the effect was good.

His main criticism touched on scene painting and set design.

"This is a general criticism of many of the plays I've seen. More care is needed for settings and properties. Style still counts," he said.

SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER
By Oliver Goldsmith
Presented by Oak Bay Senior Secondary School

Mr. Hardcastle	Randy Maze
Mrs. Hardcastle	Sue Moore
Tony Lumpkin	Paul Hooson
Kate Hardcastle	Andrea Rose
Constance Neville	Linda Walton
Diggory	Brian Inglis
Harlow	Geoffrey Murray
Hastings	Philip Dyer
Sir Charles Marlow	Neil Sinclair
Student Assistants	Members of the Drama Club and the Stage-Crew Club.

Director, Mrs. P. Dulmage. Stage Manager, Mrs. E. Orme; Rich Rolfe, John Hall, Jim Perry (students).

Oliver's English comedy came across with enormous vitality and gusto.

"It was a good choice for a high school," Mr. Hare said.

But, he added, the cast had problems in executing their mannerisms to complement the clothing of the period in which the play was set.

He complimented the Oak Bay players on good diction, good style and avoidance of trying to do the production in dialect.

"The difficulty in working the diction was done very nicely in the French farce but "She Stoops to Conquer" had the diction glossed over," he commented.

ROMANCE OF THE WILLOW PATTERN
By Ethel Van Der Veer
Presented by Central Junior Secondary School

The Mandarin	Denis Johnston
Koong-See, his daughter	Mary Ann McCammon
Chang, his secretary	Tom Knoor
Property Man	David McGregor
Incense Barer	Andrew Wharton
Understudies	Pat Connor, Betty Axhorn and John Adams

Directors, Mrs. Hilda Hak, asssted by Mr. Byron H. Barker. Stage Manager: Mr. Byron H. Barker.

Perhaps the highlight of the evening was "Romance of the Willow Pattern" attempted by Central Junior Secondary School.

A good team effort and excellent costuming prompted Mr. Hare to term it an "exquisite production."

He complimented its cast on creating the mood of the sophisticated Chinese.

Two elementary school productions and a junior-senior secondary school effort produced "a very pleasant afternoon" for the adjudicator.

"I enjoyed it thoroughly. The acoustics of the auditorium are best-suited for the voices of children. You could hear them," he said.

ALICE'S ADVENTURES IN WONDERLAND
By Lewis Carroll
Presented by Sir James Douglas

Narrator	Andrew Mortimer
Alice	Kathryn Guthrie
Duchess	Judith Gail Harris
Cook	Wendy Wallace
Cheshire Cat	Andrew Mortimer
White Rabbit	Jane Holmes
King of Hearts	Kenneth Stewart
Queen of Hearts	Ava Rakouic
Knave of Hearts	Jeffrey Finch
Hatter	Michael Wilson
March Hare	Christopher White
Dormouse	Adrian Caster
Four Officers of Court	Mary Johnson, Daniel Wickens, Kathleen Wilson, Alleh Chambers
Guard	Edward Prior
Jurors	Leona Wakeman, Judith Forrest, Walter Gachiel, Katherine Tildesley, Beverley Griffiths, Elizabeth Rayfuse, Melody Murphy, Bonnie Fahey, Nancy Smardon, Marcie Stewart, Douglas Ashmore, Gayle Massie.
Other Birds and Beasts	Judith Ralphs, Raymond Huson, Lindsay Ross, Hilary Scott, Jane Finch, Kathleen Turner.

Director, Mrs. Doris M. Exton.
Stage Manager, Mrs. Barbara Sutherland

He described Alice in Wonderland as "well-mounted and well-performed."

"The actors had a good grasp of the characters they were portraying. They obviously enjoyed what they were doing."

The adaptation of the play for children was also good.

He added the cast supplied excellent diction which was not forced and complimented it on "imaginative and good comic sense."

THE GHOST FROM OUTER SPACE
By Le Roma Eshbach Greth
Presented by North Saanich Jr.-Sr. Secondary School

Laureen Bittle	Marilyn Livingstone
Tracie Bittle	Anne McMartin
Grace Bittle	Heather Lord
Dan Bittle	Tony Schellinck
Murphy	Danny Barkley
Bill Eberly	Steve Sanders
Ulca	Brenda Hadden

Director: Mr. QQ. M. Russell
Stage Manager: Mr. Lyle Willson

Good contrast among the actors was evident in The Ghost From Outer Space, a topical adventure story.

The players handled their situations well and their entrances and exits were well-timed, Mr. Hare said.

The roles were difficult to maintain because they were stereotyped but "a nice sense of comedy" prevailed, he added.

THE PETRIFIED PRINCE
By Helen Louise Miller
Presented by Macaulay Elementary School

King of Grammaria	Lloyd Cornett
Lord Chancellor	David Palmer-Stone
Visitors from Canada	Leslie Ames, Janice Bruce, Carter Finley, Brian Munro
Moderator of Modifiers	Zena Barton
Supervisor of Subjects and Predicates	Susan Weber
Princess Participle	Arlene Bowker
Blue Pencil Brigade	Gail Clarke (captain), Judy Marshall, Stephanie Sharp, Joy McDade, Kim Newbold, Jennifer Ready
Petrified Prince	Steven Pollock

Directors: Mr. A. G. Mason, Mrs. M. Lineham
Stage Manager: Michael Yager

"Petrified Prince," chosen by North Saanich, proved difficult for the actors because the production contained little action and plenty of speaking.

Students costumed as pencils "stole the show" Mr. Hare said.

"It was the cutest chorus line I have ever seen."

He complimented the school on the "care and effort" put into costumes and the production.

He added the cast supplied "very clear characterization and diction."

Mr. Hare was also pleased with Thursday evening's full house and the audience's reception and reaction to the productions.

"It's marvellous this kind of thing can occur," he said.

P.C. Senators Move To Block New Labor Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative senators took steps Thursday to block passage of the government's federal labor code bill in its present form.

Senator Jacques Flynn (PC—Quebec) moved an amendment to the bill that would exempt from its provisions a large number of the 500,000 employees coming under the code's jurisdiction.

The Conservative amendment would exempt grain elevator operators, railway workers, truckers on interprovincial routes, seaman stevedores, longshoremen and crew members of civil aircraft.

The labor code would provide for an eight-hour day, 40-hour week, a minimum wage of $1.25 an hour and eight paid statutory holidays. It also restricts overtime work to eight hours or less a week.

The overtime limit is the main bone of contention.

The amendment did not come to a vote Thursday. Debate on it will continue when the senate meets again Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Senator Flynn challenged anyone in the Senate to prove that any employees already working under collective bargaining agreements would benefit in any way from the bill.

Senator G. S. Thorvaldson (PC — Manitoba) said all the labor organizations who appeared before the Senate banking and commerce committee when it discussed the bill had said it was totally impractical for their work.

"Is there any doubt that ships will continue to ply for 24 hours a day, seven days a week? Is there any doubt that the principles of seamanship are going to be the same 10 years and 20 years from now?

"We should cure this bill now so as not to make the whole shipping industry dependent on the whims of the minister of labor."

English Course Gets Overhaul To Aid Students

This is the last of a series of articles prepared for the Times by the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association in conjunction with Education Week. This article deals with the changes in the English curriculum of the secondary schools in B.C.

In an age of increasing scientific knowledge and skill, it is not surprising that we have readily accepted radical changes in school courses in mathematics and science.

Less dramatic, but no less important, are the changes taking place in language courses.

In the last three years changes have been introduced in the English of Grades 8, 9 and 10. The new courses offer broad, rich and relevant resources in literature and expression which will improve students' understanding and competence in effective writing.

Modern linguists have shown that a study of the technical aspects of language does not produce good expression.

Study Best

Students can be helped by studying good English, especially as it is expressed by established speakers and writers of today. Language study is meaningful to students when it is descriptive of current good usage rather than based on classical rules which often do not apply to modern English or even to past literature of merit.

In order to achieve this in English courses, the new approach attempts to relate language to literature and in turn associate these with reading, speaking and writing experiences of the student.

Since language understanding and expression are basic to the student's other school subjects and to his future education and employment, it is important that a reasonable level of literacy be achieved. However, it must be recognized that all students do not have the same interests and abilities and thus will take different paths or streams to graduation and careers.

New Courses

The new English courses offer a broad choice of good literature and varied opportunities for oral and written expression.

Although a certain mastery of language and an essential core of literature is required, teachers are expected to choose selections and assignments to meet the aims and principles of the course as well as the ability and interests of their students.

In Grade 8, narration is central to the student's reading and expression and the focus is perception.

In Grade 9, the emphasis is on literary forms with a recognition of their special qualities and the ability to express and support personal reactions and judgments regarding them. The language focus is paragraph organization and expression.

Wide Field

The literature selections in Grade 9 are chosen from a wide field. The choices must include six short stories, two excerpts from Shakespeare, one play by G. B. Shaw, a minimum of ten poems, two short prose selections plus two novels.

In Grade 10, the language course continues the approach of the Grade 9 text, but stresses different elements of language. The emphasis of this course is the development of precision in sentence construction and in the study and practice of different forms and lengths of written composition; particularly expository writing.

The literature of the Grade 10 course has not yet been published.

These courses, which will be matched by even more challenging ones for Grade 11 and 12 in the near future, seek to find relationships in a living language, based on student resources, both from actual experience and from the vicarious experience of reading good books made meaningful and relevant in literature classes.

Rich Sources

Although the offerings are rich and varied, it will be up to the individual teacher and student to make the most of these resources.

Only by learning to handle words, the symbols of human thought and emotion—learning to think with purpose and compassion—can we hope to bridge the gap between scientific advancement and human understanding.

PRAY FOR UNITED COUNCIL

EDMONTON (CP) — Social Credit members of the Alberta legislature prayed for Edmonton when they met in caucus Thursday.

The prayer was said at the request of Ethel Wilson, minister without portfolio and a member of Edmonton city council.

Rev. Edward Benoit, member of the Church of Christ and MLA for Okotoks-High River, asked that the city of Edmonton remain united in support of the person chosen to replace Mayor Hawrelak.

WOMAN LEADS NORMAL LIFE . . . . . . ONLY SLIGHTLY COLORED

Blue People—Hazard of Wonder Drug

By TERRY IZZARD

In the annals of medical history they will be known simply as the "blue people."

From a professional point of view they are one of the unfortunate and unforseen hazards of the science of medicine.

From a layman's point of view they are different.

"They" are literally blue; not an even tone of blue, but a patchy blue, changing in color from a pale grey to a deep purple.

Their exact number is not known. But there is at least one in Victoria and several more in the wards of Essondale Mental Hospital.

Their plight is a grave one.

Had they been brown or even pink they would have been accepted in the community.

Because they are blue they would be looked upon as freaks.

They will remain that way indefinitely.

'THERE IS HOPE'

The very men who administered the drug can only promise: "There is hope."

Even those who question the garish byproduct of the drug admit it is "of tremendous value."

Like David Barrett (NDP-Dewdney).

It was he who first brought the results of the drug to the attention of the public.

He told the legislature several short term mental patients had become long-termers because their skin color was too bizarre for them to return to society.

He further said outside the house: "This is a pretty dramatic illustration of what can happen when we use this stuff without having ascertained what we're doing.

". . . It is not good enough just to use these things before they have been thoroughly tested."

STIFFER TESTS

The federal NDP group is currently pressing for stiffer tests of new drugs.

But just how far can the research chemists go in checking new products?

To all intents and purposes the drug in question, Chlorpromazine, had no harmful side-effects when it first went on the market 10 years ago.

It was heralded then, and is now, as one of the biggest breakthroughs in treating mental patients for many years.

Overnight it helped thousands.

As a spokesman for Victoria Medical Society put it: "It is just about the most valuable drug on the market today.

"It is keeping hundreds of thousands of people out of mental homes."

Just how the drug works is not precisely known.

CALMS PATIENTS

But it calms agitated patients by acting on the part of their brain which causes hallucinations.

In white pill form it is known to have anti-psychiatric, anti-allurgy and anti-histermine properties.

Cost of a bottle of 100 is $8 or $9.

It can be obtained from drug stores only on doctor's prescription.

A normal dose is apparently harmless.

The cases which have turned blue—all women patients—have been exposed to massive doses.

They are the unfortunate and unintended guinea pigs of trial and error.

LESSON LEARNED

The lesson has now been learned and no further cases have been reported in the last few months.

In the case of the Victoria womah she was fortunate.

Her doctor, a well-known local psychiatrist, noticed the first signs of blue coloring at an early stage.

He immediately reduced the dosage and the coloring stopped.

Today, that same woman is leading a normal life in the community. She still has a trace of the blue tint, but not sufficient to be noticeable.

The only reason she is able to lead a normal life is the very drug which threatened to mar her looks.

Before its introduction she had spent nine years in hospital.

Said her doctor: "The whole principle of this sort of drug is that the maximum and not the minimum amount must be prescribed. Otherwise the illness will never go away.

"It is unfortunate, but any medical treatment might have a few complications."

"In this case the coloring is something akin to sun-tan. The skin pigment has been affected, producing this effect.

"Apart from that there appears to be no actual damage."

NO PROBLEM NOW

Said a leading doctor at Essondale: "There is no problem now."

His only promise for the future: "There is hope."

The spokesman for the Medical Society said: "We like to think we have all the evidence before we use these pills widely.

"But sometimes the drug is too important to hold back."

This was one of those "sometimes."

Only hope for the unfortunate few, lies in the hands of the very people who unwittingly put them in that plight.

Maybe the answer will be found tomorrow.

Perhaps it will be next year, possibly never.

Whichever the case may be they can be no more to blame than the plumber whose pipes burst in icy weather.

If they made a mistake the mistake was in trying to help humanity.

Canadians Answer Plea for Support

TORONTO (CP)—Two United Church of Canada clergymen have answered Rev. Martin Luther King's call for support in the Negro civil rights campaign at Selma, Ala.

Rev. Don Keating, 39, of Winnipeg and Rev. Ken Murdoch, 27, of Port Credit, Ont., were among 300 persons who prayed and sang through an all-night vigil outside Brown's Chapel Church at Selma Wednesday night.

The Star says the two pastors went to Selma with about 20 other clergymen from Chicago's Urban Training Centre.

Mr. Keating is an associate of the centre and Mr. Murdoch began a nine-month term there last September.

They arrived at Selma in time to participate in Tuesday's peaceful march with Dr. King. They stayed Tuesday night with a Negro family and took part in attempts to march on the Selma courthouse Wednesday.

Asked why they had gone to Selma, Mr. Murdoch said in a dispatch from there:

"In Chicago, you can't help but be involve in civil rights. After the massacre Sunday I don't think anyone interested in civil rights could hesitate to come."

Mr. Keating said:

"As a Canadian you don't get the opportunities to realize there is a racial problem. But you sure do here in the heart of Dixie. Now we'll see the problems better in Canada."

Mr. Keating added: "The clergy have kept the police sticks away. Until they get federal aid here, we can't leave these people helpless."

Granduc Survivor 'Getting Better'

KETCHIKAN, Alaska (AP)—A man who spent 77 hours trapped under a snow avalanche at the Granduc mine in British Columbia last month is "constantly getting better," his doctor said Thursday.

Dr. James Wilson said, however, that it is "still too early to know how many fingers and toes" Einar Myllyla of Winnipeg, Man., will lose.

Dr. Wilson said that the man is now getting around in a walker.

More than 1,600 persons from Eastern European countries have been re-united with their families in Canada as a result of Red Cross intervention in Canada and abroad.

RESCUERS TRUNDLE their smiling patients into blankets as operation "Dr. Red" gets underway.

Hospital Actors Cool Under Fire

By TERRY IZZARD

Dr. Red to 1A . . . Dr. Red to 1A . . .

Whoops, sorry, Dr. Red to 2A.

Enter Dr. Red complete with gumboots and fire helmet.

Enter a gaggle of student nurses.

"What's the verdict doctor?"

Second's silence—"Evacuate."

The word is out: "Evacuate wing 2A of St. Joseph's Hospital."

The time is 10:57 a.m.

Already sick patients are laid out in the hospital corridor.

Wrapped in blankets they are dragged the length of the wing.

Then a fireman's lift down two flights of stairs into the sunlight.

COMPLETE

Eight-and-a-half minutes later evacuation is complete.

Thirteen patients litter the sidewalk of Humboldt Street. Two more have been rushed to emergency for treatment to burns.

It happened this morning.

Not that anyone really got burned.

In fact the patients in wards off wing 2A didn't know a fire was raging.

'IN THE MIND'

As a psychiatrist would say: "It was all in the mind."

It was in the minds of firemen and safety officers who know what could happen if a fire did break out.

To see what would happen they staged a mock fire.

Only people in the know as the alarm sounded were a handful of student nurses—the patients—hospital administrators, and Victoria firemen.

Within a minute off-duty student nurses trooped into the building from their nearby living quarters.

Already the hospital intercom was blaring out the fire call signal—Dr. Red to 1A.

MIXED UP

Somebody got floors mixed up in the heat of the moment. But a few hasty instructions soon put everyone on the right track.

There were giggles as student-nurse rescuers hauled away student-nurse patients.

Firemen, who arrived within two minutes of the alarm, watched on as their job was done for them.

"Excellent," said Lieutenant Percy Graves in charge of the operation. "They did a tremendous job."

FIRST ONE

The mock rescue was the first of its kind ever held in a Victoria hospital.

It was designed to test training all hospital staff receive in fire safety.

After its completion both rescuers and rescued were given a run down on their mistakes.

EVACUATION is fun when there are rescuers like this around. Thoroughly enjoying his female fireman's lift is Charles Forscutt. His attractive rescuers are Bonnie Galla and Marilyn Garrison.

Ask The Times

Q. Are plans or blueprints available of the specifications of the riverboat Mount Royal? E.T.K.

A. An Ask the Times check has found only the ship's dimensions — 130 feet long, 25 foot beam and and 18-inch draught. Further information about the ship—but no builders' dimensions is available from the Maritime Museum and provincial archives.

Mount Royal was built in Victoria in 1902.

Q. What is the average yearly precipitation in Victoria, Vancouver and the Okanagan Valley? H.K.B.

A. Victoria, 27.35 inches; Vancouver, 60.24 (airport 40.91), and Okanagan Valley centres—Penticton, 11.74; Vernon, 15.41, and Kelowna, 12.41.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

Swallows Wing in Ahead of Schedule

The swallows returned to Elk Lake today—almost a week ahead of schedule—and wild flowers bloomed everywhere as Greater Victoria entered the 13th day of its Little Summer.

Up to midnight, the sun had shone for 97.8 hours since March 1, beating the previous high of 85.7 hours in 1943.

No break is in sight and the record-breaking sunshine is expected to continue over the weekend.

Today's temperatures are expected to equal Thursday's high of 63.8 degrees—a record for March 11. And the early morning reading of 49.8 was actually the highest "low" for March 12 in Victoria's history.

HIGH OF 70

The sheltered thermometer on the roof of the Victoria Times registered a high of 70 degrees Thursday with an overnight low of 48.

"This is certainly the sunniest March on a record," a spokesman for the Gonzales weather station said. "The previous high for March 11 was 63 degrees in 1934."

The Gonzales thermometer registered 60 degrees at noon—three degrees up on Thursday's noon reading.

Naturalists were delighted by the early appearance of spring flowers in Thetis Park Nature Sanctuary, Thomas Francis Park and other beauty spots. Noted among them were Easter lillies, shooting stars, spring gold, buttercups, blue-eyed mary, bearberry, saxifrage, satin-flower and the little monkey flower.

"It's amazing they should be so advanced in view of the unfavorable winter conditions," a local naturalist said.

STORMS ELSEWHERE

The weather office noted that, while southern Vancouver Island is bathed in sunshine, there are storms over the Kootenays and the prairies and disturbances in the Pacific.

In Nanaimo it was 61 at noon and temperatures were rising towards Thursday's high of 66 on the coast and 73 in more sheltered spots.

There were light northerly winds along the Victoria waterfront but these did not discourage sun-bathers on the beach or housewives who wore bathing suits in their back gardens.

While ice cream vendors reported booming sales, beer parlors, cocktail lounges and movie theatres said the sunshine had reduced customers.

You can't please everybody.

'Bilking by Big Five' Must Stop Says Labor

More Profits Asked For B.C.'s Coffers

By JOHN MIKA

A complete transformation of government policy towards the forest industry was advocated today by the B.C. Federation of Labour.

The proposal is aimed at siphoning off more of the profits of the "Big Five" logging companies into provincial coffers.

The legislature's forestry committee members showed obvious interest in the federation's strongly-worded brief that the B.C. taxpayers will continue to be "bilked" unless:

- A permanent, independent three-man commission—similar to the Public Utilities Commission—is set up to regulate the industry;
- Royalty payments by logging companies are doubled across-the-board immediately;
- A crown corporation is set up to compete directly with the giant private firms operating in B.C. woods;
- An immediate halt to issuing tree farm licences is ordered and those already held by "monopolistic corporations" revoked.

Committee chairman Cyril Shelford (SC—Omineca) said most of the points in the brief were outside of the committee's terms of reference but he allowed full discussion because it could point up areas that should be investigated in future hearings.

BEST-EVER

Logging millionaire Gordon Gibson (L—North Vancouver) said the brief was just about the best ever presented to the committee and should have been made years ago.

But Forest Minister Ray Williston dismissed some of its points as just so much "hypothetical piling on of words" and argued more of it should be disregarded as outside of the committee's jurisdiction.

The brief, presented by federation president E. T. Staley and secretary-treasurer E. P. O'Neal, opened with the blunt charge that "the people of British Columbia are being systematically bilked."

It said it was an incredible fact that the province received as much revenue from selling liquor as it did from taxation and timber sales to the vast forest industry which accounts for half of the entire B.C. economy.

WONDERING WHY

"Across the length and breadth of the province people are talking, wondering why, when B.C. forest companies made sales amounting to $1.5 billion the province received only about $36.6 million in direct revenue," it said.

The brief aims its fire chiefly at the "Big Five" which hold most of the tree farm licences—MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River; Canadian Forest Products; B.C. Forest Products; Crown Zellerbach; and Rayonier.

It said they had gross incomes far exceeding the province's budget and MBPR alone last year had revenues within $20 million of the B.C. government's $390 million budget.

"The jobs of thousands and thousands of citizens can be lost, the provincial economy disrupted, through the whim or caprice of these companies," the brief said.

"The province and its citizens are at the mercy of these companies. They are now, and have been for some years past, in a position to wield enormous political as well as economic influence," it added in leading up to its first recommendation — establishment of a Crown-owned forest company.

The final recommendation—there were 10 including both general and technical matters—urged the establishment of a three-man regulatory commission made up of a professional forester, an economist and a Supreme Court judge.

"We share with the government the view that this most important natural resource should not be subject to political controversy and partisan opportunism," the brief said. "But an aura of controvery persists around the administration of our forest resources."

It said the three-man board "would ensure the proper scientific administration of our forest resources, with special consideration to conservation, utilization and equitable return to the province from development of the forest resources."

JONES LOOKS AT THE LAW

The "Law and Mr. Jones" will be the subject of a political science forum at the University of Victoria Paul Building at 12:30 p.m. Monday.

Suspended B.C. purchasing commission chairman George E. P. Jones will be the speaker.

Stoppage Continues

A safety work stoppage at Ogden Point is likely to continue for another week.

A spokesman for Western Lumber Carriers said this morning two lumber carriers will be fitted with chain guards by Saturday and the other eight will be equipped in the next week to 10 days.

The International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, Local 504, said its members will only drive those carriers fitted with chain guards.

The stoppage, which means the men are not getting paid, started Tuesday in protest against the exposed chains which drive the carriers.

Mooney Wants Full Budget For Recreation

Victoria Alderman M. H. Mooney said today he would press for the full $34,000 1965 budget for four major park-recreation areas in Saanich, and maybe more.

"We could spend $1,000,000 and every dollar would be well spent. There are so many projects that could be undertaken," he said during a tour of parks today by Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee.

A proposed budget of $34,000 is before the committee now, an increase of $8,000 over 1964 and the previous year.

Ald. Mooney, who is chairman of the committee, said he would advocate that the increase and perhaps more be approved by councils.

A dozen committee members and parksmen from Victoria and Saanich visited Gorge Park, Mount Douglas Park, Hamsterley Beach, Eagle Park and Beaver-Elk Lake parks.

TWO UNIVERSITY OF VICTORIA students have been awarded $1,800 Woodrow Wilson scholarships and third has received an honorable mention. The awards were officially announced by university president, Dr. Malcolm Taylor, at noon today. Left to right is Richard A. Gough, the physics student who received an honorable mention; Dr. Taylor, and the award winners, Ross E. Lamberton, political science, and Richard E. Waller, modern languages. IF CHALLENGE ISN'T MET . . .

IT'S DOWN THE DRAIN FOR ALL

'Education Must be Geared to Excellence'

By BOB DONAHUE
Times Education Reporter

An over-attachment to labels, certificates and paper degrees has led to an error in judgment in education, Dr. Malcolm Taylor, president of the University of Victoria, said today.

"The over-emphasis on the white-collar job has reflected itself in a misplaced demand for the academic curriculum and for the university route in high school," he told about 1,000 Greater Victoria teachers in a convention at S. J. Willis Junior High School.

"By this over-emphasis too many young men and women have been led away from pursuits for which they are much better qualified by both ability and temperament.

"Because they have turned to the academic route in such numbers we have tended to adjust our standards downwards to accommodate them.

"As a result," said Dr. Taylor, "our academic route has failed to challenge those students for whom it was primarily intended."

He said today there are nearly 2,400 occupations requiring secondary and advanced training.

"Obviously, there is more than one route to such a variety of occupations."

RESULTS

Dr. Taylor said some of the results of those errors in judgment and false set of values are:

- A Canadian labor force that is not adequately trained for a technological society.
- Too large a group seeking admission to universities without adequate academic preparation.
- Too many students sent to university by parents who are interested only in the presumed prestige of the degree and not in the career best suited to their children's talents.
- Too many students failing their academic program who would have been highly successful in non-academic careers.

"At the same time the paradox is that too many secondary school students with honors ability drop out and never reach university at all.

"Democracy will not survive the challenge ahead unless its educational system is geared to excellence rather than mediocrity.

"Unless we challenge and stretch to the utmost the ablest of our young people, preparing them as leaders to meet the crises of democracy in the modern world, then all of us — the gifted and the less gifted, the brilliant and less brilliant, the educated and uneducated, the white-collar worker and the skilled laborer, the scientist and the technician—will go down the drain together."

Second Magistrate For City Due Soon

A second full-time magistrate will be appointed soon for Greater Victoria.

An official in the Attorney-General's Department today confirmed hints made at a city council meeting that a second appointment would be made.

He said the question was under active study and an announcement could come earlier than the fall opening of the city's new two-court magistrates' building now going up in the Victoria Square.

HEAVIEST LOAD?

The official said the rapid population growth in this area had thrown an excessive load of court cases on Magistrate William Ostler, probably the heaviest load on a single magistrate anywhere in the province.

There was no indication from the official who was under consideration for the new appointment nor any confirmation to other rumors that both magistrates would operate in a central court for the whole area located in the city's courthouse.

City council touched off the speculation when it approved money Thursday for furnishing and equipping a second magistrate's office in the new courthouse.

Here's the Answer For a Quick Lunch

By Penny Saver

Are you ever in a quandary over what to serve the youngsters when they come home for lunch from school? Something quick and easy to make is the best answer, and Penny has discovered the ideal quick lunch—nourishing and full of flavor.

Serve delicious, hot chicken broth with a sandwich. The soup I found comes in cube form. Add one square to the appropriate amount of water and simmer. Presto! You have a chicken bouillon, a perfect partner to a chicken sandwich.

These bouillon cubes, selling for two packages for 37 cents (a package contains two cubes), have the condensed essences of rich fowl flavor, cooked with spices and herbs. When boiled with water, the taste is released.

If you wish, add chicken chunks and vegetables to the broth and make your own thick soup, full of home-cooked nourishment. It's a meal in itself.

You can buy these soups in beef flavor, too.

Wandering about this same store, Penny noticed an ideal accent to a menu of soup and sandwiches. It is a crisp toasted bread, not unlike Melba toast, with a sweet, European taste. Served warm, dripping with butter, the bread is a pleasing highlight to a lunch menu or with tea. Price is two packages for 45 cents.

Another quick and easy lunch item for the children is hot Italian pizza. Teen-agers especially love this and it takes such a little time to prepare.

One package, priced at 51 cents, contains all the ingredients necessary for good Italian pizza. The dough puffs up to a crisp pastry and the tangy spiced sauce brings to mind warm sun and exotic places. Um-m-m! Real Parmesan cheese is used to top the concoction and when it melts through the sauce, imported from Italy, the taste is indescribable.

Sound appealing? Give Penny a call at 382-3131 and find out where to shop.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Q. My hair will not grow any longer. I want so much to have long hair. Is there anything I can do to make it longer? I used a rinse for a while. I stopped teasing my hair about six months ago. Could either of these things have anything to do with my hair not growing?

Lowman

A. No I do not think that either had anything to do with it. The length to which your hair will grow is an inherited characteristic just like the shape of your nose. Physical condition can affect the health of the hair. Women sometimes have falling and thinning hair following an illness. Systematic conditions can also cause this. For instance low thyroid can be the culprit.

Q. I hear so many different opinions about teasing the hair. Some hairdressers say it doesn't hurt the hair and others say it does. Which is true and which is false?

A. Both are right, in a way. There seems to be no doubt that habitual, heavy teasing may cause the hair to break off, thereby causing it to seem thinner. If your hair is very fine it is more apt to break than coarse hair. On the other hand light teasing is not thought to be harmful especially if you have coarse or normal hair.

Q. The other day someone wrote you about removing hair on the face and you suggested electrolysis. I am in my 70s and feel sure that that would be too expensive. Would it be possible to pull the hair out on the upper lip? I have pulled the hair out between the eyebrows for years and now there doesn't seem to be very much there. If I cut the hair on my lip it would be so stiff. I suppose depilatories would leave it the same way.

A. You can pull the hairs out from the upper lip. However this is a rather sensitive area. Electrolysis would be best. I think that most operators and doctors will work out a budget payment plan for treatment when this is needed. You might try one of the depilatories. These do not leave the hair so stiff as shaving because a depilatory "melts" the hair instead of cutting it. Be sure to get one which is especially for facial hair.

If you would like to have the names of some of these send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Q. I am a girl, 15, who loves the new beige lipsticks. I have bought several well-known makes hoping to find one that wouldn't turn dark pink or even red. What causes this? Is there anything I can do about it?

A. All of those I have tried do have more pink or red in them than one thinks when looking at the lipstick before application. Buy one which is light in color and more on the yellow side.

DEAR ABBY

Talk to Him

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I've been happily married for 18 years and now I find myself hurt and disappointed.

A girl where my husband works gave him a shirt for Valentine's Day because she thought he was a "nice guy." He said he was surprised. Since then she told him that her husband had left her. Also that all men were rats and in time he would cheat on his wife, too.

Now my husband bought HER a present for her birthday because she's a "nice girl" and he feels sorry for her. I told him he was a married man and had no business buying her a present and if he loved me he wouldn't give it to her. Well, he gave it to her anyway.

Should I get the girl's phone number and call her up and tell her she's making trouble? Sign me, "HURT."

DEAR HURT: Don't call her. She'd only go crying to your husband. His "protective" instincts would be aroused and it would be them against you. What you need is a better line of communication with your husband.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter just married a man with two children. He supposedly got his divorce in New York State. He claims that he does not have to support his children. We think that is very unusual, don't you. We have reason to believe that this man is not divorced. We consulted the sheriff in our county and he wasn't able to tell us how we could go about finding out if this man was divorced or not. Can you give us a clue as to how we can get this information? It's very important.

CONCERNED PARENTS.

DEAR PARENTS: Consult a lawyer. If a divorce exists, it will not be difficult to prove.

DEAR ABBY: I invited my friends over for potluck lunch and what I hoped would be an enjoyable afternoon as I had planned games and entertainment for them.

To my surprise, after the lunch, one woman took out her knitting, and another woman had her needlework. (I didn't ask anyone to bring their work as I had other plans). I was just sick, and didn't know what to do, so I just kept still. It spoiled everything for the rest of the guests. Do you think I should have told them at the beginning that I didn't think they would sit and do their work at a party? Or was I right in letting them do as they pleased?

DISAPPOINTED IN PEOPLE.

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: You should have gone ahead with the games and entertainment. My guess is that the knitting and needlework would have gone back in the bags.

DEAR ABBY: I am 21, in nurses' training, and have just become engaged to a fine young man who is a senior in college. We've gone together for three years. We plan to get married as soon as Stuart graduates in June. My problem is my mother. She wants me to have a big church wedding with a white gown and veil, bridesmaids and ushers and the whole bit. Stu and I don't want any big splashes. All we want is a simple ceremony, performed by our pastor in the small chapel of our church. I am the only girl in my family (I have four brothers), and Mother says I "owe" it to her and Dad to have a big church wedding. I think it is a foolish waste of money and, besides, my father doesn't have that much. I hate to disappoint my mother, Abby, but do you think I should be made to have a big church wedding just because she wants to put on a big show for the relatives?

NO BIG SPLASH.

DEAR NO: No.

SHANNON-BROWN VOWS

Pink and White Flowers Set Theme for Ceremony

Baskets of pink and white carnations and stocks were at the altar of St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, when Canon Hywel Jones heard marriage vows exchanged between Margaret Evelyn Brown and Michael Barclay John Shannon.

Organist was Charles Palmer.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Brown, 225 Bowker Avenue; Mr. J. Shannon, Renfrew, Ont., and the late Mrs. Shannon.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown of white organza over taffeta, styled slightly en train. A large bow accented the waistline and lace appliques highlighted the neckline and the hemline of the skirt. Her bouffant silk illusion net veil misted to her shoulders from a crown of orange blossoms. Only jewelry was a pearl necklace and earrings, gift of the groom. She carried a crescent-shaped bouquet of red roses, centred with a white catalaya orchid.

Maid of honor was Miss Dianne McNaught and bridesmaids, the Misses Joyce Woolcock, Barbara Fuller, and Lola and Doreen Brown, the bride's cousins. All chose gowns of turquoise peau de soie, topped with lace jackets, and headpieces of toning bows, edged with net. White carnations were in their bouquets.

Flower girl, Lynnette Smith, wore a frock of coral nylon tulle over taffeta, styled with a lace bodice. Her headpiece was a band of honeycomb, highlighted with seed pearls, and she carried a nosegay of white carnations.

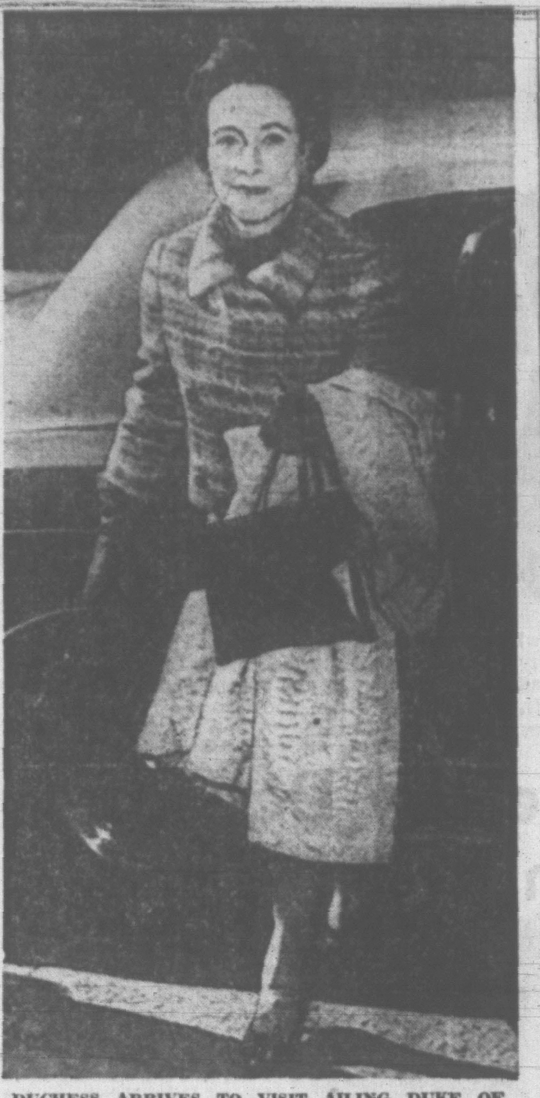
Best man was Roger Aitchison. Guests were ushered to their pews by John Brown, the groom's brother; Jerry Schroll, Larry Thornton and David Lundquist.

Maj.-Gen. C. A. P. Murison, Duncan, proposed the toast to the bride at the reception which followed in Holyrood House.

The bride's table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake, topped with roses and surrounded with tulle. Deep pink roses, silver candelabra and pink candles completed table decorations.

Following a honeymoon trip to Seattle, the couple will make their home at 99 West Gorge Road.

For travelling, the bride donned a three-piece pink suit and matching floral hat. Black patent accessories and a catalaya orchid corsage completed her ensemble.



DUCHESS ARRIVES TO VISIT AILING DUKE OF WINDSOR—The Duchess of Windsor arrives at the London clinic where her husband, the Duke, is recovering from a third operation on his left eye. As soon as the Duke is well enough, Queen Elizabeth is expected to pay him a visit and meet the Duchess—an historic occasion signaling end of the royal family's boycott of the Duchess in effect since the Duke left the English throne to wed the divorced American. Victoria Man Married In Broadview Church

Mrs. P. Prowse, 2249 Estevan Avenue, travelled to Broadview, Sask., recently to attend the marriage of Wilma Frances Webb and her son, Charles Grant Fenwick.

Other out-of-town guests who attended the ceremony in Broadview United Church were T. Sanders, Miss M. Miles and Mr. and Mrs. G. Sinclair, all of Calgary; Mr. and Mrs. P. Miskiman of Tugaske, Sask.; Mr. and Mrs. R. Burton and Mr. and Mrs. I. Cristall, all of Winnipeg; Rev. and Mrs. M. Banting and Mr. and Mrs. Miskiman, all of Whitewood, Sask.; Mrs. H. Tysdal, Briercrest, Sask.; Mr. and Mrs. H. Lewis and Mr. and Mrs. D. Brown of Moose Jaw, Sask.; Miss M. Field, W. Archer and Mrs. J. Roy of Regina; Mrs. R. Parkinson, Watrous, Sask., and Mr. and Mrs. Jorgenson of Mooseomin, Sask.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Webb of Broadview and the groom's father is the late C. R. Fenwick. Mr. Webb gave his daughter in marriage.

The church was decorated with baskets of white gladioli and pink carnations for the ceremony at which Rev. Banting officiated. The organist was Mrs. P. Ludek, Broadview, a friend of the bride.

A bow of silk peau d'ange highlighted the high empire waistline of the bride's floor-length gown of Alencon lace. The gown was fashioned with a portrait neckline and long lily point sleeves and the skirt extended into a cathedral-length train. A cone-shaped headpiece, studded with tiny seed pearls, held the cathedral-length veil of silk illusion. She carried a white Bible, topped with a white orchid and lily of the valley.

Only attendant, Mrs. P. Miskiman, Tugaske, Sask., chose a floor-length sheath-style gown of rose-toned faille taffeta and carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations.

Best man was T. Sanders, Calgary. Guests were ushered to their pews by W. Fenwick, Regina.

T. Sanders was master of ceremonies at a banquet reception that followed in Broadview Memorial Hall. The toast to the bride's happiness was proposed by R. J. D. Kerley.

Leaving on a honeymoon trip to Winnipeg and Sun Valley, Idaho, the bride donned a blue tailored suit, accented with black accessories and a mink jacket. Gardenias formed her corsage.

The couple are now making their home at 1674 Derby Road, Victoria.

Committee Plans Daffodil Party

Plans were discussed for a daffodil coffee party to be held on Saturday, April 10, when the Victoria Symphony Society Women's Committee met in the King George Terrace home of Mrs. D. B. Roxburgh.

The party will be held from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the upstairs foyer of the McPherson Playhouse. The date of the party also marks the opening of the spring flower festival.

Reports on the Symphony Ball and the Canadian Opera Company presentation held last month were presented at the meeting.

PRIVATE COLLECTION OF CANADIAN COUTURIER

FURS DOMINATE MONTREAL SHOW

MONTREAL (CP)—Furs for spring dominated a showing of Canadian couturier Raoul-Jean Foure's private collection this week.

Brief jackets, capes and stoles were shown in great variety of color and cut, but always with an emphasis on the lighter look in the adaptation of luxurious furs to bright spring ensembles.

Several capes came with elbow-length cuffs for cooler spring days, and these cuffs could be removed for warmer weather. One such cape in black lammoire had detachable cuffs of chinchilla.

Another innovation in styling was the belt effect under the cape. One in Russian sable had a straight belt of fur touching the waistline under the bias cape.

Other capes had side buttons and stand-up collars. A long scarf of dark ranch mink trimmed the side opening of a cape of vertically worked pearl majestic mink.

SHOWN IN MINK

The fur blouson, suited to casual and formal wear, was shown in horizontal pastel mink and in sleek-looking black calf. This town or country fur garment, with a concealed side zipper, was collarless with raglan-style sleeves, and extended to the hip line.

Most unusual was a stole of four bands of violet mink, embroidered on a double chiffon lining. This produced a long, mobile scarf that looked casually elegant and easy to wear. It was shown with a horizontally stitched, wide-belted blue dress.

The fur jackets ended at, or just above, the waist. Some had widened shoulders, but on the whole the look was narrow and uncluttered. There was a great deal of lammoire, often in oatmeal or pearl. Many jackets were double-breasted and semi-tailored. A black mink trotter was one of the few longer jackets.

Mr. Foure's dresses and dress-coat ensembles utilized "la ligne etage"—his term for a series of straight bands at the hemline to give the effect of double or triple skirts. These tiers usually showed below a princess line tunic with a slightly flared skirt. Matching coats were also the seven-eighths length fitted tunic style.

A sleeveless dress in muted shades of peach, coffee and mint chiffon, with a draped neckline, incorporated these features. A gold fitted seven-eighths length coat with small buttons, narrow shoulders and a large inverted V pleat in back was first modelled with a matching "ligne etage" dress and then with one in black and gold silk.

Hats, made by Mr. Foure himself, included a black flower bonnet with an under-the-chin tie, and modified versions of the sailor and garden party styles.

Sports clothes used beige Arnel boucle double-knit, brightened with printed hooded blouses in lengths from the midriff to the hip.

Mr. Foure's evening coats and dresses were long and flared. A patterned shrimp-colored gown with a draped bodice was worn under a full-length plain shrimp chiffon covering. Cut on the bias, without collar or side seams and with an open back, it created a cape effect with slits rather than sleeves or armholes.

A fitted tie tip in coffee chiffon, worn over a white evening dress with a few large coffee polka dots, looked cool and fresh for summer.

The show was closed with a wedding dress of Mexican influence. A full skirt of sunburst pleated organza had an apron of Guipure. The headdress was a Guipure bonnet, and the veil a circle of the pleated organza.

KITCHEN CINDER TRACKS?

After-Munch Sprints Seen As Answer to Over-Weight

NEW YORK (UPI) — Eat a chocolate chip cookie and then another and on up to a dozen—and just sit.

That's one sure way to add yourself to the statistics concerning the fat of the land. But if you run—180 steps to the minute—after each cookie, you'll not put on weight.

How much energy is there in a cookie? Fifty-one calories. Running three minutes at 180 steps per minute makes the chocolate chip cookie calories crumble.

Dr. Frank Konish, of the department of food and nutrition, Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, gets credit for this bit of intelligence in the battle of the bulge.

Taking 50 common foods, he's figured how long it takes to wear down the calories by walking, bike riding, swimming, running, reclining. This is the new approach to dieting information he thinks is necessary to make Americans lean.

Back to the cookie. If you prefer to wear its calories off the sedentary way, reclining. It will take 39 minutes. Eat a dozen and it will take you 7.6 hours to recline the calories away.

Swimming, you wear down a cookie in five minutes; walking, in 10 minutes; bike riding, in six minutes.

Dr. Konish figures the calorie-counting booklets ought to show the various ways of wearing off the calorie-cost of eating, giving the waistline-conscious ones a choice of exercise avenues.

This would familiarize the individual with the relative energy costs of common activities.

Beer, almost as popular as cookies, takes six minutes of running at the rate described to wear off one glass.

Reclining, it takes 88 minutes to pay the calorie cost of the glass of beer. Walking, you wear off the 114 calories in a glass of beer in 22 minutes; in 14 minutes, bike riding; in 10 minutes, swimming.

The fastest food to wear off is one tablespoon of cottage cheese. Run for a minute and you're back to where you started, weightwise. It takes 21 minutes of reclining to spend the cheese calories!

All along the line, running spends the most energy. If Dr. Konish's idea catches on, it can lead to vast changes in the designs of everything from kitchens to snack bars.

Every place there is food, there ought to be a track also—for the plump ones who don't want to gain anymore.

Byelections To Test Labor Strength

LONDON (CP)—Nominations closed today for the first of two byelections that may provide a clue in Britain's biggest guessing game—the timing of the next general election.

Few political observers seriously expect Prime Minister Wilson to call a general election soon. Nevertheless a certain tenseness is in the air because of the heavy economic difficulties facing Wilson's Labor government and his minute margin in the House of Commons.

The three main political parties are mounting a tremendous battle in the two byelections. The first will be held March 23 in Saffron Walden, an Essex constituency north of London, and the second in Roxburgh, Selkirk and Peebles, a Scottish border riding, the following day.

Court Sets Bail at $5,000 For Teen Robbery Suspect

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Bail of $5,000 was set in magistrate's court Thursday for David Dawson, 17, one of three youths charged with armed robbery in adult court at Vanderhoof, 60 miles west of here.

The three were arrested by police last Saturday following a series of incidents in which several police cars were shot up, police officers were disarmed, a house was robbed, and a civilian was held hostage.

Dawson, formerly of Kincome Inlet, B.C., was attending school in Surrey near Vancouver. The two other youths, one 16 and one 17, are from Surrey. Their names were withheld by police.

The trio is scheduled to appear in Vanderhoof court again Monday. They were remanded without plea.

NEW LOOK FOR FESTIVAL

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver impresario Hugh Pickett has been named manager of the Vancouver Festival, following the plan to make the summer show locally oriented.

Earlier this week, the festival's executive board decided to drop the word international. Henceforth, it will be known as the Vancouver Festival.

Pickett fills the vacancy created last month by the resignation of William Crawford III.

THOSE CALLOWAYS
Animals Unlimited
Capitol Theatre

Walt Disney's live productions are notoriously unsophisticated and this latest entry is in the wholesome, but by no means unalluring tradition, of Old Yaller, Lobo the Wolf and The Three Lives of Thomasina.

The photography, as before, is superb and the intimate studies of wild life in the New England woods of Connecticut are sheer delight. The animals crouch in bushes, shoot up and down trees and frolic by woodland streams whose crystal depths reflect a fairyland of stars and blossoms.

Based on the book Swiftwater by Paul Annixter, the story concerns a simple woodsman (Brian Keith), his wife (Vera Miles), their 19-year-old son (Brandon de Wilde) and the animals which share the woods with them.

The woodsman has an ambition: He wants to establish a sanctuary where the wild geese can stop for a safe rest during their migratory flights. But some businessmen in the town have another idea—they want to attract wealthy sportsmen with facilities for hunting the geese.

The conflict of ideas is the main issue, but woven about it are the domestic routines, the whimsical comedy touches and the young-love-in-bloom sequences one expects in a Disney feature.

* * *

Brandon de Wilde discovers that a neighbor's daughter (Linda Evans) has suddenly grown up and is attracting a kind of townsman he doesn't much care for.

Father discovers a lake which he thinks would be ideal for his geese sanctuary and makes a down-payment of $400 on it.

A tame bear and a domestic crow are part of the Calloways' family life and, generally speaking, the company in their cabin is very pleasant indeed. But the real strength of the film is its splendid outdoor photography at all seasons of the year.

UNIQUE EXPERIENCE

Yeats Plays Prove Delight With Fun, Classic Tragedy

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

Few people going to the Gordon Head Workshop Theatre this week will know quite what to expect of plays by W. B. Yeats.

Yeats the poet is known but Yeats the dramatist is almost entirely unknown in this part of the world.

In a sense, the impact of the plays is all the greater for that reason.

As one member of Thursday's opening night audience said: "I came expecting it might be a rather difficult evening—but it's been one of the most delightful."

The two plays, The Player Queen and On Baile's Strand, are being presented by the Campus Players as part of University of Victoria's Yeats centenary festival.

Both are directed by Robert Hedley, assistant professor and technical director in Uvic's Theatre Division.

For each Mr. Hedley has created a vivid mood, a peculiarity of rhythm, style and texture that conveys the full savor of Yeats' imagination and materials.

The contrast between the sometimes boisterous humor of The Player Queen and the classic tragedy of On Baile's Strand adds dimension to one of the most uniquely interesting evenings I have spent in the theatre in some time.

Of the two, the tragedy achieved the fullest success. It was partly, I think, because the smaller cast had greater strength and evenness.

The same brilliant actor shone in both. Harry Hill, a newcomer to the faculty, gave us a Septimus, the drunken poet in the comedy, and the Fool in the tragedy, that were in vivid contrast and altogether memorable.

He is an actor with a fine command of voice and body, a wide range of expression, and an exceptional sense of pace and timing.

SAGGING MOMENTS

There were some sagging moments in The Player Queen, due to less experienced members of the cast faltering in pace and energy level; but the evening was strewn with clever and effective characterizations such as Marigold Coleman's Nona, Peter Smith's Prime Minister and Art Penson's Beggar in The Player Queen and Walter Bell's Blind Man in Baile's Strand.

Penny Spark's as Decima, the player queen, showed undisputedly that she has talent. She also has a charming voice and manner but is a little short, at present, of qualities of strength that would give the role bone and blood.

Gerry Webb and Paul Bettis as the conflicting kings of the tragedy, played strongly together, Mr. Webb achieving an authoritative performance.

Mr. Bettis' scene of madness and grief was well planned and controlled and quite moving.

MUSICAL SCORE

But due credit must be given to an outstanding musical score by Chet Lambertson which served to underscore and illuminate the director's concept, to the musicians on tape and their conductor, Capt. J. M. Gayfer; to the extraordinary and appealing costume designs by Biddy Gaddes, to Bill West's production design details which included a vast, rich tapestry executed by a group of students; to the attractive lighting and properties.

The two plays will be repeated tonight and Saturday, and Thursday, Friday and Saturday next week, starting at 8:15 p.m.

Uvic Awards Presented At Fete Tonight

Students and faculty of the University of Victoria will meet tonight to receive service awards earned during the past year.

The annual awards banquet at the Empress Hotel will include presentation of athletic, activity and student council pins.

Special awards for the student and club who have contributed the most to campus life and for the student who has been outstanding in the field of publications will also be presented.

Names of winners are not released until the presentation. The banquet will be followed by a Spring Ball at the Crystal Garden.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD JACOBY

When your first look at dummy indicates that you have no real play for your contract, there is no reason to use defeatist tactics and give up. Look around and maybe you will find a way to get rid of an apparent loser.

Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead—♥J

It is hard to assess the blame for reaching six spades to either North or South. South certainly was entitled to jump to four spades after his partner doubled West's three-heart opening. North felt that he had a really good hand in support of spades and noted that if his partner held either the ace and king of spades or the king of spades and ace of diamonds the spade slam should make. Hence, his five spade bid. As for South, there was no way for him to know that his king of clubs and singleton queen of hearts were so much excess baggage so he went merrily on to six.

West opened the jack of hearts and South saw that he had to lose to both the ace and king of trumps unless he could crash them together. Obviously, they weren't both in the same hand because in that event he would have been playing the slam contract doubled.

Deceptive play was indicated and South found a play to make one of those losers vanish into thin air.

He won the heart lead with the queen, led a club to dummy's ace, led the ace of hearts and discarded a diamond, and continued with the king. East ruffed with the deuce of spades and it was curtains for the defence.

"BEACH RESORT"
This beautiful spot has approx. 6 acres of property fronting on the best sandy beach anywhere. Miles of beach in both directions. Ideal for swimming in summer as it is so shallow, in fact often it is difficult to find a parking space. Spacious modern kitchen and all equipment. Besides this there is a side-by-side duplex that rents for $100 per month in winter. During summer, of course, current rates are in effect. They have their own water supply. There is a cement boat launching ramp used for recreation and fishing. Illness only reason for selling. Andy Stephen Looks at TV

The television industry is now in the midst of its "selling season." It's the time of year when advertising agencies and sponsors look over the program lineups of next year and the success of this year's shows to decide just where to place their money next season.

Stephen

Each day brings new announcements from the networks of the amount of money already committed for next year.

For instance, ABC-TV reported last week that another $22,000,000 in prime-time '65-'66 billings has brought the aggregate figure to over $140,000,000, which means the ABC sales pace is running neck and neck with CBS and NBC.

This run abreast is also evident in the ratings picture.

There really hasn't been much change since the first meaningful Nielsen report in December.

The top 20 lineup looks like this:

Bonanza, Gomer Pyle, The Fugitive and Gilligan's Island tied for third; Andy Griffith, Bewitched, The Lucy Show, Disneyland, Red Skelton, Bob Hope's Comedy Special, Combat, Peyton Place (Thursday), Danny Thomas Special, Flipper and Dick Van Dyke. There is a four-way tie for 16th place by The Beverly Hillbillies, Petticoat Junction, Lassie and Peyton Place (Tuesday). I've Got a Secret is in 20th place.

Figures for the prime time hours show the three networks continue in a close race. NBC has 20.5, CBS 19.7 and ABC 19.3. NBC has the largest audience three nights of the week, Wednesday, Friday and Sunday. CBS leads Monday and Saturday with ABC ahead on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

CBS is making changes for next season. It did have a so-called "firm, tentative schedule" two weeks ago, but since then network president James Aubrey departed the scene.

This was no sooner made public when it announced that two of its better properties, "Slattery's People" and "The Defenders" will not be in next season's program lineup.

At this writing there will be more than 40 new shows next season. This is quite a high figure when you consider the yearly average of about 35. The reason is simply the close ratings battle.

★ ★ ★

It's Stanley Cup playoff time soon. CBC-TV will begin its live television coverage of the annual run for the cup April 1.

The best-of-seven semifinals and finals will be played on Thursdays, Saturdays and/or Sundays and Tuesdays.

Telecast time for the semis is 30 minutes after opening faceoff. If the seventh game is necessary, it will be carried in its entirety.

All games of the finals will be telecast from opening faceoff.

CORONERS FORM GROUP TO ATTACK PROBLEMS

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—British Columbia coroners hope to solve their common problems through a new organization—the B.C. Coroners' Association.

Coroner Glen McDonald of Vancouver, named president of the association at its inaugural meeting here Wednesday night, said some changes are needed in the Coroners' Act, which has been in use since 1848.

Mr. McDonald, who is also president of the American Coroners' Association, an international organization, said he expects the new B.C. group will be able to work towards required changes in the provincial act.

DENIS TESTIMONY

MP Stopped Short On Stonehill Query

OTTAWA (CP)—New Democrat MP Reid Scott ran into trouble with Speaker Alan Macnaughton today for asking questions about Dorion inquiry testimony on the Harry Stonehill case that he said "seems to indicate" a violation of the Official Secrets Act.

Mr. Scott was stopped short by the Speaker and ran into argument from Transport Minister Pickersgill when he inquired about testimony by former ministerial aide Raymond Denis that he gave information from Stonehill's file to Liberal Senator Louis Gelinas.

Mr. Scott asked Immigration Minister Nicholson what steps he was taking to investigate the testimony. Mr. Nicholson said he could not accept the NDP member's statement.

Mr. Macnaughton ruled the question out of order but later agreed to study and make a decision on what areas of the Dorion judicial inquiry testimony can be raised in the Commons while the inquiry is on.

NDP Leader Douglas argued, and Mr. Pickersgill agreed, that questions about Stonehill, who has been ordered out of the country, are proper because this case was unrelated to the terms of reference of the inquiry—the attempts to win bail for narcotics suspect Lucien Rivard.

Mr. Pickersgill said, however, that Mr. Scott's question was an assertion and that unless the question was rephrased Mr. Scott would have to accept responsibility for the accuracy of Mr. Denis' testimony.

Hydro Firm to Grant Pension Supplement

British Columbia Hydro will pay supplementary pensions to former power and transportation workers who retired on pensions much lower than those paid today.

A Hydro official Thursday said 880 persons, including 110 Victorians, will have their pensions boosted by $5 to $40 a month. Almost all of them were originally pensioned by the former B.C. Electric Company before it was taken over by the province in 1961.

All of the beneficiaries had 20 years or more service. Those who retired before 1945 will receive the largest boost in income amounting to $1 for each year of service. A minimum of 25 cents for each year of service will be paid those who retired between 1959 and 1964.

The crown corporation spokesman said the additional pensions will be in effect April 1, but may not appear on all April cheques due to processing delays. Later payment will be retroactive to April 1, however.

Similar supplementary pension plans are already in effect for retired provincial employees, teachers and some municipal workers.

Average length of service of the former hydro employees is about 34 years. The oldest member of the group is Alexander Innes of Chilliwack, 100, who retired in 1932 with 34 years' service.

The oldest pensioner in Victoria is Oliver Snaith, a former transportation employee, who will be 96 in May. He retired in 1945 after 48 years.

Diabetic's Condition Improving

A Galiano Island woman who was rushed to Royal Jubilee Hospital Thursday with a diabetic complaint was in fairly good condition today.

The woman, Mrs. Daisy Hepburn, 55, was brought to Victoria after first being taken to Lady Minto Hospital in Ganges.

Health Minister Eric Martin Thursday night denied newspaper reports that there was no room for an emergency case at Lady Minto.

He released a telegram from H. Hoffman, administrator of the hospital, which said Mrs. Daisy Hepburn was admitted to the hospital Wednesday night but was transferred early Thursday morning to Royal Jubilee Hospital because she needed a specialist's care.

The B.C. government will give a dinner for members of the Canadian Authors' Association from all over Canada in the Empress Hotel next June.

Date of the dinner has still to be decided. It will mark the close of a three-day national convention on the campus of the University of British Columbia in Vancouver around the middle of June.

"On the final day delegates to the national convention will move to Victoria to attend the provincial government dinner," said a spokesman for the Victoria and Islands branch.

Canadians Snug As Fierce Wind Lashes Escort

By ERIC WILSON

ABOARD HMCS COLUMBIA (CP)—For 30 hours this 2,900-ton Canadian destroyer escort with its crew of 210 officers and men pitched and rolled as 50-mile-an-hour winds raged in the North Sea. But the men were just as snug as most Canadians at home.

Nevertheless the whistling storm beating the grey sea into 20-foot-high waves forced a one-day halt in the six-country, 30-ship North Atlantic Pilot Light exercise, designed as a strike force to pummel the snow-covered Norwegian coastline. The five-day exercise ended Wednesday.

The Columbia's job was to watch out for "enemy" submarines. But generally, because of automation, the Canadians could work from within the steel-covered decks and bulkheads of this steam-heated destroyer escort. Anti - aircraft guns, mortars, torpedoes and radar and sonar equipment can be controlled without going out on deck.

RUSSIA INTERESTED

How well the exercise went is still a matter of conjecture. Each ship kept a log and these will be evaluated later by NATO experts. But there were no mishaps and some officers suggested the exercise must have been of some value because a Russian trawler kept careful watch, indicating the Soviet Navy was interested.

This Halifax-based ship set out to join the exercise from Rosyth, on the southeast Scottish coast, March 5. Other ships, including two aircraft carriers, came from Britain, The Netherlands, Norway, Portugal and the United States. About 75 carrier-based and shore-based planes took part in the exercise.

The Canadians, with an average of about 165 days a year at sea, are a well-travelled lot.

"Lovely," said Sub-Lt. Tom Heath, 21, of Weston, Ont., when the North Sea stars shone clear, "but not as dazzling as those I saw last year above Chile."

"I've seen tulip festivals in The Netherlands and kangaroos in Australia," said Lieut. Ron Richards, 27, of Victoria.

The commanding officer is Cmdr. Peter Hinton, 44, of Victoria.

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Linda Christian tells friends that Edmund Purdom just took a powder and she hasn't heard from him since the first of the year . . . On the other hand, Theo Serapo—Edith Piaf's widower—can be found easily in Paris, spinning happily with a 22-year-old actress named Francoise Mauffray, described as just the opposite, in type, to the famous "Little Sparrow." Regular nightclub business hit a new low for the year last week. Quote from one unhappy owner:

"You can't fight TV, Lent and discotheques all at the same time."

However, the local citizenry should take pride in the fact that one famous act bombed even before Lent arrived, and will depart from their current public appearance long ahead of schedule; a blow against vulgarity has been struck, even if quietly . . . The Senate is preparing a startling report on the inner workings of the Cosa Nostra. As of now, they plan to name men and businesses controlled by the gang.

Officialdom isn't telling the public more than a whit about what's going on in Viet Nam—and, more important, what is going to go on. The U.S. has a lot more over there (and near there) than the man in the street suspects, and the operation will get a lot bigger before we make our exit from that territory . . .

The box office at "All-in Good Time" has just put seats on sale for the next 16 weeks—good news to the producers, who suffered Broadway's most disastrous one-night stand with their previous effort, "Kelly." The young Canadian who was so attractive in the title role of the latter show, Don Francks, obviously needs a new set of advisors. He's talented, but actors seldom know which scripts are right for them, and now he's done an album titled "Lost . . . and Alone" which is a weird mishmash of good songs and terrible songs. The LP definitely indicates he hasn't found his guardian angel in show biz. Even the cover picture doesn't do him justice; he's shown with a frown and uncombed hair, and he's not at all the uncombed type. I've seen him in person, offstage, at a party, and he makes a far better impression when he's the well-groomed Canadian version of Peter Prep.

Sybil Burton, whose attendance at the local discotheques is almost religious, took a while off from her frug and Watusi activities to try the fare at the new English Pub in Greenwich Village. She put her stamp of approval on the Mulligatawny stew, suggested more salt for the beef and Yorkshire pudding, and invented an original arrangement of the pewter mugs behind the bar.

Sadly ironical thought after watching TV films of the ghastly clashes in Alabama: Whatever became of all those people who wrote letters to the editor predicting that Dwight D. Eisenhower, when he was president, could solve the Little Rock integration problem if he just flew there and "let one little Negro child into the school." Where are the masterminds now that the administration is Democratic, and so is the Governor of Alabama? Who would they like to see fly into that territory and erase the violence?

I saw Gov. Wallace at the Inauguration, obviously delighted by the results of the election, and I feel sure that if the right person in Washington, who understood the situation in the south, picked up the telephone and said to the Governor: "Please don't beat up Martin Luther King, even if he does show up at the next march, because he won that ole cotton-pickin' Nobel Prize and it would look right funny to them foreigners if we killed him off, or even hurt him real bad," Gov. Wallace would respond as a true politician, and peace would be restored.

ASK ANDY

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Loren Rucker, age 7, of Douglass, Kan., for his question:

What are lampreys?

Every animal has a few bad habits. Bears can be mean and cats can scratch. Bears also are charming clowns and Miss Puss is an expert mouser. Almost every animal has more good points than bad points. But not the lampreys. No one has a kind word to say for them.

These snaky fellows live in creeks and ponds, lakes and rivers and some of them live in the sea. But wherever they live, the lampreys are unpopular. Fishermen hate them. Game wardens and experts who work to conserve and protect the creatures of the wild hate them. Scientists search for chemicals to destroy them. The governments of the United States and Canada are united in a war against them.

The small lampreys of the creeks and ponds are about eight inches long. The largest lampreys of the sea are two or three feet long. They have no real bones and no real teeth. They have no scratchy prickles and no deadly stings. You may wonder what these smallish animals do to make everyone detest them. Lampreys are unpopular because they are parasites. This means that they live and feed upon living animals. The lampreys are uninvited guests who suck the blood and body juices of live host animals.

You might mistake a lamprey for a slippery eel. His shiny skin is muddy brown or mottled with dirty grey. Though he lives in the water he is not a true fish. He has no scales and no bones, and his simple backbone is made of gristle. Most of his small head is occupied by a round, saucer-shaped mouth.

The mouth of the lamprey is built for sucking the blood of his victims. Its sides are lined with toothy bumps, and in the centre there is a round rough tongue. His victims are trout and other fish that fishermen like to catch in the streams and rivers. He also attacks food fish and many other fishes of the sea.

Destroys Fishes

When he finds a victim, the lamprey fixes himself on its side or back with his sucking mouth. He uses his tongue to rasp a hole through the fish's scaly skin and sucks out the blood. The living victim soon becomes weak and often dies.

Some years ago lampreys invaded the Great Lakes. There they attacked and destroyed countless thousands of useful fishes. Something had to be done to protect the last of the food fishes in the lakes. The U.S. and Canadian governments are working together to trap and poison the lampreys. In some places they have set up electric fences to destroy the greedy little parasites.

In spring when the time comes to spawn, the parent lampreys leave the seas and lakes, creeks and ponds. They travel to clear inland streams and lay their eggs in the gravel under the shallow water. The wormy youngsters drift to deeper streams and bury themselves in the mud. Only their round mouths poke above the mud, always open to catch drifting scraps of food. After three or four years they are grown and ready to invade the waterways.

STRUGGLE FOR KNOWLEDGE IS WORM EAT WORM LIFE

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Eight thousand flatworms named George are attending a college of cannibal knowledge at the University of Michigan.

They are students in a research project headed by James V. McConnell, who has worked with the worms for 12 years.

He said one phase of his studies showed that worms can learn by eating smart worms. This, he said, indicates a time will come when injections from a normal person to a retarded one could improve the retarded person.

The flatworms, technically known as planaria have a brain of sorts and a fairly well-developed central nervous system. McConnell says they have been taught to react to lights and electric shocks and to creep through mazes.

RETAIN KNOWLEDGE

Then McConnell found that the previous conditioning in half, both sections retained the previous conditioning given the entire worm.

The next step was to feed the educated worms to the uneducated ones. McConnell found that the uneducated worms not only increased their weight but their knowledge as well.

McConnell thinks a chemical substance in the body—ribonucleic acid—may be responsible for passing learning from one worm to another. Now, he is trying to prove this theory. He also hopes to prove that if the substance can be extracted and injected into another it will not be harmful.

CUMBERLAND MINERS' COLONY FADING AWAY

The Ghosts Are Strictly Oriental

MAH WONG
. . . quit 40 years ago

LOY HUNG
. . . oldest at 88

CUMBERLAND—A fascinating "ghost town" survives less than a mile from this Vancouver Island village, about 140 miles north of Victoria.

The "ghosts" are Oriental.

When James Dunsmuir discovered rich coal veins in the Cumberland district, he amassed a fortune and turned the area into a hive of activity.

Miners poured into the area, many from Cumberland County in England. Additional labor was brought from China. At one point 2,800 Chinese and 300 Japanese were working three shifts a day, bringing out of the ground tons of coal.

A big Chinatown sprung up at the Union Mine, boasting five chop suey houses and an imposing building called the Lum Yung Club, where off-duty Chinese whiled away their time in a spate of gambling.

★ ★ ★

But when the mine closed in the 1920s—following two explosions blamed on Orientals smoking in the mines—most of the Chinese labor left.

All that remains today is a forlorn huddle of shacks, crumbling with each passing month, and a handful of aged Chinese who live out their lives in memories going back half a century.

When one shack in this old Chinatown becomes uninhabitable, the Chinese simply move to another one. They are granted free rent by the former mine owners, and for those who have electricity in their homes (few do), the cost is a nominal $1 a month. Running water adds another 75 cents to the housekeeping bill. The Chinese—all in their late 70s and 80s—are on the old-age pension.

The days pass routinely for the old miners. In good weather, they sit outside their shacks on wooden benches, or stay inside by their stoves in the winter. They prepare traditional Chinese meals of rice, chicken or fish, and keep themselves neat and clean, despite their cramped quarters.

The Lum Yung Club—once the nightly scene of hundreds of gambling Chinese—now stands vacant and rotting, its gaming tables covered with dust and grime.

★ ★ ★

As their little numbers fade away, living costs rise for the elderly Chinese, but none complain, for all are resigned that here will be their last resting place. The nearby Chinese cemetery fills each year as Chinatown empties.

There have been suggestions locally that Chinatown could be restored as a tourist attraction, but the concensus seems to be that once the last Chinese have passed away, their shacks will be torn down and burned.

And on that day, the last remnants of Dunsmuir's boom in Cumberland will fade into obscurity.

Further Study To Precede Shellfish Ban

The B.C. health department and the pollution control board will make further studies of coastal water pollution that is threatening closure of oyster and clam beds in the Vancouver Island area.

The announcement was made Thursday by Deputy Health Minister Dr. James A. Taylor, following a meeting with the executive of the B.C. Shellfish Association.

Dr. Taylor said facts gathered in the study will be compared with those of the association and the government will then decide which beds to close.

The area threatened is from Comox to south of Sooke on Vancouver Island.

Health Minister Martin said last week the pollution may be caused by the increase in the number of homes along choice waterfront property, with a resultant increase in the number of septic tanks along the shoreline areas.

Has Gaglardi Shelved L. Cowichan Rd. Plan?

DUNCAN—Fears were expressed today that Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi has shelved plans for a new Lake Cowichan Road.

The fears were voiced following his Thursday night statement to the legislature that a current $100,000 project to eliminate the worst curves on the road will make it "satisfactory for several more years."

He was replying to criticism by Opposition Leader Robert Strachan who represents Cowichan-Newcastle.

NOT ENOUGH

Cliff Pascoe, president of Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce, said today: "These curve improvements should have been done 15 years ago and the chamber still goes on record as it has for the past 10 years as emphatically in favor of a completely new road.

"Knocking out a few curves isn't adequate by any means."

Gordon Doman of Doman's Transport Ltd., said: "If this indicates his department is not going ahead with a new road then it's really a disappointment.

"But until we know the real score there's no use creating a hornet's nest. The Chamber of Commerce should have another meeting with Mr. Gaglardi and find out what he really has in mind."

DUNCAN HOSTS MIDGET TEAMS

DUNCAN — On Saturday, Duncan plays host to the Vancouver Island Midget Boys and Girls' Basketball Tournament.

Ten teams will represent seven Island centres: Brentwood, Comox, Courtenay, Cumberland, Duncan, Nanaimo and Victoria.

The double-knockout tournament will be held in Cowichan Senior Secondary School gym at 9:30 a.m.

Island Digest

Reeve Donald Morton of North Cowichan said: "Just eliminating curves will be far from entirely satisfactory. A new road must be built."

Survey work for such a project has already been done.

Alan Anderson, president of Lake Cowichan Chamber of Commerce, said: "I don't think $100,000 will go very far. If the reconstructed parts of the road are not blacktopped no one in this district will be very happy."

In Our HOUSE

By Arthur Mayse

Among members of what the premier likes to describe as the most exciting club in British Columbia, pink and sturdy Leo Thomas Nimsick often hears himself referred to as "Leo the Lion."

This title the sometimes verbose MLA for Cranbrook shrugs off with an amiable smile; but on Wednesday evening and Thursday afternoon, Leo Nimsick fully justified his nickname in the House.

Since 1961, a royal commission has been snailing its ponderous way through the entanglements of barbed wire and red tape which, according to opposition members, have kept industrial accident victims from a fair shake.

On Wednesday, Mr. Nimsick took it into his sparsely-thatched head that workmen's widows ($90 a month pension) and orphans ($35 each) have waited long enough for redress.

Batting aside government arguments that a matter in the hands of a commission shouldn't be tampered with, Leo the Lion roared to the attack.

Thursday afternoon found the House still in labor, and with ire unquenched by a night and a morning, Mr. Nimsick struck out for the widows and orphans again.

Backing him, he now had a veritable dragon's brood of tough fighters. Also, he had roused sympathy on the government side which independent minded Socreds Ernie LeCours for Delta and backbencher Don Robinson for Lillooet demonstrated by hearty slaps on their desks.

Booming boss-logger Gordon Gibson, North Vancouver Liberal, threatened to withdraw earlier kind works about Premier Bennett if Labor Minister Peterson failed to guarantee speedy action.

Opposition Leader Strachan declared himself tired of waiting in hope and optimism for the Workmen's Compensation Board to catch up with the cost of living index and raise the pensions of industrial casualties.

"Now," he told the House, "we've waited long enough!"

Then stubborn Socred LeCours added his say:

"A temporary increase would be in order. I suggest that anyone trying to exist on $90 a month is in dire need right now."

Final lick was delivered by Macdonald, who urged that pensions be increased by the minister through order-in-council until the commission reports, which will likely be in May.

Mr. Peterson: "I'd be pleased to give that consideration."

So the battle was won—or half won—for B.C.'s widows and orphans who have lost a breadwinner to industrial mishap.

The epilogue was delivered by John Squire, NDP for Alberni, who has fought for the underprivileged times aplenty in this same legislative chamber.

"My friend from Cranbrook," said Johnny Squire of Leo the Lion, "has carried the ball. . . I sat back and watched him . . . and, by golly, he's done a real good job."

★ ★ ★

Amen to that! But let no one jump to the conclusion that Minister Peterson is the villain of this piece. These industrial pensions are essentially industry's pigeon through the WCB.

I think government would do

IN VOTE DRIVE

Death Sparks New Protests

NEW YORK (AP)—A swelling chorus rang out across the U.S. today in support of the Negro voter registration campaign in Alabama.

Students, civil rights leaders, clergymen and government officials joined in demonstrations Thursday over the racial strife that has gripped Alabama in the past week. Most of the demonstrations took the form of sympathy marches for the cause of the Negroes.

Many memorial prayer services are being planned for the weekend for Rev. James J. Reeb, 38, a white minister from Boston who died Thursday night after being clubbed three days ago in Selma, Ala.

Bitter words were directed against Alabama Governor George Wallace Thursday by two other Democratic governors.

North Dakota's Governor William Guy sent a telegram to Wallace saying he was "appalled at the treatment that Alabama law allows one American to give to another American."

BLAMES WALLACE

Alaska's Governor William A. Egan said in a telegram from Washington:

"From the depths of my heart, George Wallace, I consider you to be even more guilty than those who wielded the actual weapons that murdered James J. Reeb.

"When your judgment day comes, I hope that God, in his infinite grace, can find some way to lend mercy for your soul."

Republican Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York said Thursday night that civil rights demonstrators in Selma have been treated with "inhuman brutality."

He said at Albany that "it is hard to believe that this is taking place in our country."

Protest demonstrations Thursday were in Los Angeles, Philadelphia, Newark, N.J.; Iowa City, Springfield, Ill., St. Paul, Greensboro, N.C.; Syracuse, N.Y.; Gary, Ind., and Toronto. Many also were planned for today.

RACE VIGIL CONTINUES IN TORONTO

TORONTO (CP)—About 100 demonstrators sat on the sidewalk in front of the United States consulate here today, watched by a dozen policemen, as their protest against anti-Negro violence in Alabama continued.

About 60 demonstrators maintained an overnight vigil in front of the building. It was their third day of demonstrating.

About half of the demonstrators were students from Toronto and Hamilton. The others were from Toronto's Bohemian community.

REEB DIES AFTER CLUBBING

Minister 'Martyred Hero' In Race Struggle — King

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A white Boston minister who came to Alabama to join the drive for Negro civil rights died Thursday night, 48 hours after he was beaten by a group of white men.

The death of Rev. James J. Reeb, 38, brought telephone calls of sympathy from the president and the vice-president of the United States and messages from well wishers across the continent.

Selma has been the centre of a Negro voter registration drive for more than a month, a drive led by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

King said Reeb "now joins the ranks of those martyred heroes who have died in the struggle for freedom and human dignity."

The Unitarian minister and father of four children died at University Hospital where he had been in a coma since brain surgery Tuesday night. Mrs. Reeb was by the bedside.

The body of Rev. Reeb was cremated and the ashes flown to his home town at Casper, Wyo., today for burial.

Reeb and two other Unitarian clergymen were beaten when they were attacked by a group of white men on a Selma street. The other ministers were not hurt seriously. Reeb was driven 90 miles to Birmingham, where he underwent emergency surgery.

Wilson Baker, Selma's public safety director, said four Selma men had been arrested and charged with murder. They were released later on $25,000 bail each. Baker said Alabama law permits bail on a murder charge if there is any indication a jury will not return the death penalty.

Reeb was working for the American Friends Service Committee at the time he died.

March in Memory Fades Before Police

SELMA, Ala. (AP)—A memorial march by Negroes for a white minister slain in Alabama's bitter civil rights struggle fizzled today.

Nearly 100 Negroes stood before a police blockade in this rain-lashed racial battleground but they were undecided on what to do in the face of a stern order from the mayor not to march.

"I'll stay here in the best interest of the city to see that there is no march," Mayor Joseph T. Smitherman told reporters at the scene.

Smitherman, standing under an umbrella against the driving rain, denied reports from Negro leaders of an agreement to let the memorial march be held.

Huddling beneath a huge transparent plastic covering, the Negroes waited uncertainly in the rain.

Tensions and tempers edged upward in Selma.

PM Asked For Tribute

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson was asked today to convey to President Johnson a tribute to Rev. James J. Reeb, Boston cleric who died in Birmingham, Ala., of injuries arising from a civil rights disturbance.

Tom Barnett (NDP—Comox-Alberni) said in making the request in the Commons that Mr. Reeb died a martyr to the cause of human rights and freedoms.

2-Man Flight Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. space agency said today the first orbital flight of two astronauts in a Gemini spacecraft may be attempted Monday, March 22.

40 Students Protest

BOSTON (UPI)—About 40 college students staged a sit-in at a justice department office today and vowed to stay there until President Johnson sends troops into Alabama.

Go To Selma Churchmen Tell Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four thousand churchmen from across the United States heard an appeal today for a visit by President Johnson to strife-torn Selma, Ala., and a call for a "strong" bill to guarantee Negroes voting rights in the U.S. south.

Clergymen jammed the Lutheran Church of the Reformation in an inter-faith rally called by the commission on religion and race of the National Council of Churches.

The meeting was preparatory to sending a delegation to the White House and visits to members of Congress, seeking guarantees against a repetition of the beating of voting rights marchers and the slaying in Selma of Rev. James Reeb of Boston.

Methodist Bishop John Wesley Lord of Washington told them many whites and Negroes in the south are "disenchanted and in great despair" over the turn of events and that the president's presence would do much.

LAUNCH FUND DRIVE

Simultaneously, three religious groups announced the launching of a joint campaign to raise funds to lessen the hardships of families of civil rights marchers, including the family of Reeb, a white minister of the Unitarian Universalist Church.

Pearson, 'The Unhappy Warrior' Featured in New Times Series

Two important series of articles will begin in Saturday's Times.

They are "MUST" reading for Canadians at the present juncture in the nation's affairs.

On the front page will be launched a ten-part series by the brilliant Ottawa writer Peter Newman on Prime Minister Lester Pearson. They will appear daily.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Newman has entitled his articles "The Unhappy Warrior," in which he deals particularly with the period since Mr. Pearson took charge at the head of a minority government.

Mr. Newman, whose biting biography of John Diefenbaker, "Renegade in Power," became the country's best selling book, has been researching the Pearson series directly for the past two months and indirectly throughout his years as an inside observer of the Ottawa scene.

Hugh MacLennan, distinguished Canadian novelist, called Renegade in Power "certainly the most remarkable biography I have ever read of any Canadian. The clarity, the completeness and cohesion of the portrait give 'Renegade' the great internal authority of a work of art."

This authority is carried through into Newman's examination of Pearson's performance as Canada's fourteenth Prime Minister—the performance in which he appears as an unhappy warrior.

★ ★ ★

In the same issue Gerald Clark, associate editor of The Montreal Star, begins in Weekend Magazine a penetrating series on Canada's problem in Quebec—the quiet revolution, the separatists and the difficulties allied with them.

Mr. Clark's articles will appear each Saturday for four weeks.

WITNESS in the Dorion inquiry, Eddy Lechasseur, was picked up by police in Montreal today for questioning as officers continued their search for escaped Lucien Rivard. Lechasseur, 33, is a self-described "importer" and friend of Rivard.

Note Was Mailed From Vancouver

MONTREAL (CP)—Mrs. Lucien Rivard said today she has received a letter from her husband dated March 6 and sent from Vancouver.

Mrs. Rivard said the four-page letter told her not to worry.

She also quoted it as saying: "I love you. Forgive me."

The letter said another such communication will follow in two weeks, Mrs. Rivard said.

Interviewed at her home in north-end Montreal, she said Rivard "told me he'd be in another place when next I heard from him."

Mrs. Rivard said the envelope containing the letter was "glued together" when she received it.

She said a representative of the weekly newspaper Dimanche-Matin had obtained the letter but she declined to say under what conditions. She added, however, that it would be returned to her Sunday.

Earlier, Jacques Francoeur, publisher of Dimanche-Matin, said his paper had received a copy of a letter.

NEWS TO WAGNER

In Quebec City, Attorney-General Claude Wagner told reporters he knew nothing of the letter and that their questions about it were the first time it had been brought to his attention.

Mrs. Rivard, dressed in a turquoise two-piece suit, looked a little tired during the interview, but said she was fine.

Asked if life was continuing the same as before her husband escaped, she said: "It's not quite the same."

The hurried interview was conducted in the front hall of her modest looking brick two-storey home, with only a glass door between the visiting reporter and a large dog she keeps for protection.

After five minutes she excused herself to tend to lunch for a guest.

Cowlishaw Questioned On Rivard

"Blood Bomber" David Cowlishaw was picked up by RCMP officers in Vancouver today for questioning about the whereabout of Lucien Rivard.

Questioned after his police interview, Cowlishaw told the Times he is aware of Rivard's hiding place but said he refused to make it known to the police.

Asked why he was not arrested for aiding and abetting a fugitive, Cowlishaw said he did not think it was so much a case that police didn't believe him as that they knew he would not tell.

"What could they gain by holding me if I wouldn't tell them where he was?" said Cowlishaw.

Cowlishaw best known in recent years for his organization "Underdog" which claims to assist persons wrongfully accused or punished, last year gained notoriety by throwing a carton of blood onto the floor of the House of Commons at Ottawa.

U.S. Raids Supported By Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Martin again came to the support of the United States today in a sharp Commons exchange with T. C. Douglas, New Democratic Party leader, on the Viet Nam situation.

Mr. Douglas asked whether Canada has suggested to the U.S. that it discontinue bombing North Viet Nam, a country with which the U.S. is not at war, as a prelude to a peace conference.

While the U.S. was coming in for much criticism, it was trying to resist a form of pressure from North Viet Nam which involved a precedent which could affect other countries in Asia and the free world generally.

Mr. Martin said nothing would please Canada more than a ceasefire. But it took two to bring about a truce.

TOKYO (AP) — Twelve U.S. and South Vietnamese warplanes strafed North Viet Nam Thursday morning, Hanoi radio charged today.

Soviet Raps Peking

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union accused Communist China tonight of stirring an "extensive slander campaign" against Russia. It said Peking had organized the anti-American demonstration at the U.S. embassy in Moscow last week.

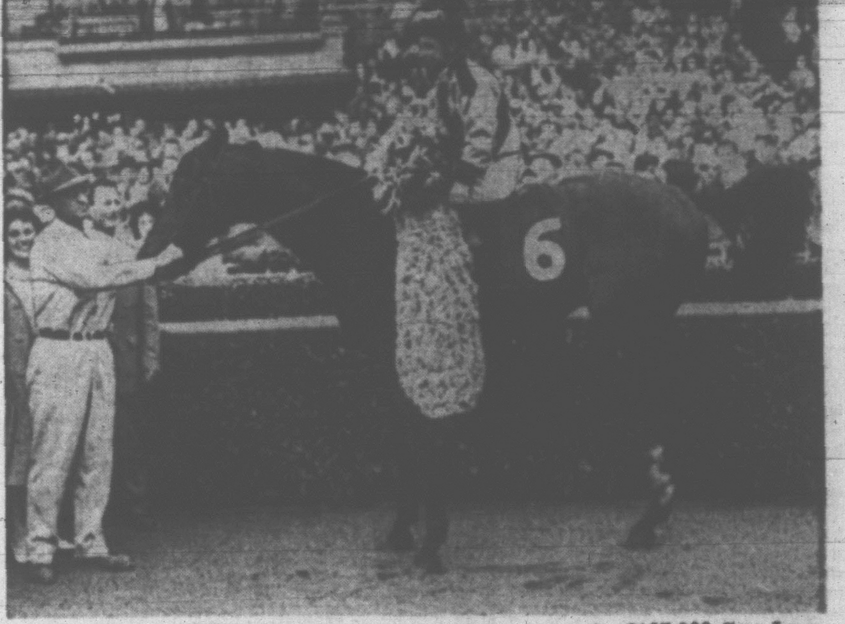
Pension Plan Study Ends

OTTAWA (CP)—The House of Commons completed clause-by-clause study of the Canada Pension Plan bill today.

The bill, subject to one last general debate, needs third and final reading before being sent to the Senate for concurrence.

The Commons immediately took up study of amendments to the existing Old Age Security Act, incorporated as part of the Canada Pension Plan.

The plan itself emerged from clause-by-clause study in substantially the same form as introduced by the government.



TWO CHAMPION CANADIANS were honored in winner's circle at Santa Anita, Calif., racetrack Thursday afternoon. B.C.'s George Royal had just won the $125,000 San Juan Capistrano Handicap with jockey Johnny Longden (native of Alberta) aboard. It was Longden's 5,935th winner. (AP Wirephoto.)

B.C.'S 'BEST-EVER' MANTLE FOR SPEEDY GEORGE ROYAL

By HAL MALONE

George Royal, a four-year-old B.C.-bred, stunned the North American racing world Thursday by capturing the $125,000 San Juan Capistrano Handicap at Santa Anita. (See story of the race on page 12.)

(Times racing editor Hal Malone describes the success story of the $2,000 colt whose earnings total $155,000; the impact on B.C. breeding, George's stature as the best horse ever bred in Western Canada, and how he caught the fancy of B.C. fans.)

On parental lineage, George Royal should have had to buy a ticket to watch the San Juan Capistrano, let alone run in it.

There was Hill Rise, a son of Hilary, conqueror a week ago in the $100,000 added Santa Anita Handicap of Gun Bow and Candy Spots.

There was Niarkos, the Argentine aristocrat.

And, Batteur, a daughter of Bold Ruler, the dominant sire in North America. And a host of others in the San Juan, members of the equine set's Who's Who.

And there was George Royal.

He was nine months old when Bobby Hall and Ernie Hammond first saw him, a son of Dark Hawk, now dead, and Polly Bashaw. The family tree was considered solid but not spectacular.

Hall remembers him as a "rather unimpressive looking yearing, quite a bit smaller than horses of his age."

Wilson Dunn offered them another horse, Nyet Nyet.

"We paid $3,000 for both of them," Hall recalls. "We figured George was worth $2,000 and the filly a thousand."

Nyet Nyet was a twin, a thoroughbred rarity. She was not expected to amount to much. She lived up to expectations.

But George grew like Topsy. at slightly over 16 hands he is average size but his conformation is eye-catching.

Why did Hall and Hammond buy him?

"I've always liked Dark Hawk offspring," Hall says. "And the dam, Polly Bashaw had thrown a filly named Polly Royal. She was quick — very quick — but couldn't carry her speed far.

"I reasoned that George might be better and if there was a chance, I wanted a piece of him.

Margaret and the Beetles

THIS WORLD OF OURS

(Times News Services)

(Times News Services)

LONDON—Princess Margaret went out Thursday in a pair of black mesh stockings with dozens of artificial beetles—not beatles—crawling up them. A fashion writer accused her of being out of style.

"The Royal Family in kinky stockings at last," writes Jean Rook in The Sun. "But it's a bit late. Frankly, those stockings are old hat now. Are Margaret's new, or were they hidden away in her bottom drawer?"

In London slang, kinky roughly means deviating from the normal.

Miss Rook adds: "The princess' stockings cost six shillings 11 pence (94 cents). Selfridge's, a big department store, stopped selling them a year ago."

Margaret, 34, wore her fancy stockings to a rehearsal for the royal ballet school's production of Prince Igor.

TORONTO — Somebody stole a car belonging to Leonard (Red) Kelly from a parking lot outside Maple Leaf Gardens Thursday. The Liberal member of Parliament for York West and centre for Toronto Maple Leafs promptly reported the theft to police.

Late Thursday night, Kelly was still carless.

A reporter telephoned police headquarters to ask how the search was progressing.

"Who's Red Kelly?" he was asked by the constable on duty.

TORONTO—Wayne Marshall, 15, had his hair cut and then he went to school resembling an old English sheep dog.

The haircut had been cooked up between Wayne's mother and principal Eric Runacres of St. Andrew's Junior High School in suburban North York.

Mr. Runacres had two staff members hold Wayne while he cropped the hair that dangled over the Grade 8 student's eyes.

Mrs. Marshall later thanked Mr. Runacres.

Mr. Runacres said he cut the boy's hair because of his "flagrant and insolent refusal" to have it cut himself.

Mr. Runacres said he allows boys to wear their hair any way they like, but not in a way that covers "ears, collars or eyes."

Saul Cowan, chairman of the school board, said he will investigate.

BAY CITY, Mich. — Last spring, John McKay and Lewis Seward, both 8, were playing at school during a recess.

They accidentally bumped heads and John lost most of a front tooth. He couldn't put it under his pillow for the good fairy, however, because it was lost.

Last week, Lewis bumped his head again on a corner of his desk at school and it began to swell.

He was taken to the doctor and x-rays showed that John's tooth was imbedded under Lewis' scalp.

The tooth was removed after a 25-minute operation.

. . . COWLISHAW

At that time he was protesting an alleged injustice perpetrated against a man who said he had been an RCMP undercover man but had been disowned by the force.

Cowlishaw, a former Times reporter, says his current interest is in investigation of claims by Rivard, object of an international manhunt, that he is innocent of drug smuggling charges.

Cowlishaw would not discuss Rivard's location, but related this story in the course of Times questioning:

"Last Sunday Underdog had a visit from a man who knew Rivard in prison. The man was from Montreal and he had been helped by Underdog a couple of years ago.

"He said he was representing Rivard and he told me where he was."

Cowlishaw said Rivard wanted Underdog to ask Ottawa officials "to ease up on the manhunt" now underway so that Rivard could have time to contact people who could clear his name.

Cowlishaw sent a wire March 7 to his lawyer in Toronto, John Weingust, asking him to approach Ottawa on Rivard's behalf. He used the false name Vardri in the wire but the lawyer understood, said Cowlishaw.

Cowlishaw also wired a private detective on Long Island, N.Y. asking him to assist by investigating persons in that area, who could possibly clear Rivard's name.

The lawyer wired that he would help. At the same time Cowlishaw wired Arnold Peters (NDP — Temiskaming) asking him to negotiate with the federal government also. Later Weingust wrote that he doubted Ottawa could ease the manhunt and suggested Rivard give himself up. The lawyer suggested Underdog should contact the people who could possibly clear Rivard's name.

There the matter stood up to the time Cowlishaw was apprehended by Sgt. Steve Bunyk and Cpl. Frank Kilner of the RCMP in downtown Vancouver today.

Cowlishaw refused to reply when asked whether he would get in touch with Rivard urging his surrender or whether he would reveal the wanted man's whereabouts at a later time.

Cowlishaw recently attended sittings of the B.C. legislature here and it was reported he was under surveillance by police at that time.

REEB FUND SET UP HERE

A Victoria collection point has been set up to accept donations to a fund for the family of a U.S. minister killed by racial segregationists in Alabama.

Rev. Marvin Evans, Unitarian Church, said he will accept contributions at Box 43, Victoria.

He told the Times the fund was established today by his church in conjunction with the American Friends Service Community (Quakers) and Southern Christian Leadership Conference, Dr. Martin Luther King's organization.

Cheques or money orders should be made out to Unitarian Universalist Association, James Reeb Fund.

. . . GEORGE

"He looked . . . you could see something there."

Since then Hall and Hammond have been seeing winner's circles and dollar signs.

FINE RECORD

George won $8,000 as a two-year-old, $48,000 as a sophomore, almost $24,000 in California up to the San Juan. Thursday the payday was $75,000.

Students of arithmetic will agree that $155,000 for a $2,000 risk speaks well for prudent investing. He has won 11 of 16 starts in the last 12 months.

B.G. (Before George) there was little unanimity on the best horse weaned on B.C. grass.

Cum Laude was the first to poke his nose significantly into classy California company.

Others won pockets of admiration for feats at home and abroad. . . Oshodry, Eddie's Boy, Quality Quest, Galindo, Major Turley.

The Major was Don Carley's baby, a grey ghost by Grey Skies and sold for a reported $22,000 to a prairie sportsman.

They say you never know what it's like to experience the joy of winning a major stake until it happens to you.

HE KNOWS FEELING

But out at 8325 Patricia Bay Highway there is a man who knows what it is like to stand in the sun at Santa Anita.

Precisely seven days and 12 years ago when racetracks weren't throwing out money as if it was going out of style, John D. "Speed" Kermode wore the broadest smile at Santa Anita.

His Eddie's Bo, bred in Cloverdale, was a galloping five-length winner of the $25,000 added Christopher Fitzgerald Stake.

Kermode still has the winner's circle picture on his mantel.

"Rogelio Trejos rode him that was his first major stakes win. Merv Peters (the presidin steward of the B.C. Jockey Club, then a reporter) was there.

"We received a gold plate from Alan G. Potter, chairman of the Australian Jockey Club. And a cheque for $15,200."

"Yes," Speed Kermode said late Thursday, "I know how Bobby Hall and Ernie Hammond felt."

George Royal's fan club came into existence last summer. He reeled off six stakes successes, treating three-year-olds and older horses with equal disdain.

In the McLennan Plate, the form read: "George Royal appeared to be hopelessly beaten in first three-quarters but came with tremendous burst of speed around top turn and through the stretch to get to front in final few yards . . ."

QUIRK OF FATE

Toronto wanted a look at B.C.'s wonder horse. A quirk of fate intervened. The night before George Royal was to be shipped to E. P. Taylor's plush Woodbine for rich autumn stakes, his groom died of a heart attack. Owners Hall and Hammond decided on the spot to ship to California where reliable, knowledgeable George Dunn would be in charge.

B.C. racing fans expressed their feelings in writing. Six hundred sent him a telegram before the Santa Anita 'Cap. There were also "good luck" wires from Vancouver Mayor Bill Rathie and Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

Premier Bennett set history of sorts Wednesday night in the Legislature.

A few hours after George crossed the finish line, the Premier opened the night sitting of the House by announcing the colt's victory.

"A B.C. horse, George Royal," said the premier, "has won a major victory over some of the finest thoroughbreds in North America." MLAs cheered, echoing the pleasure of thousands of British Columbians who had listened to announcer Jack Short's telephone broadcast from the grandstand.

What will George Royal's success mean to B.C. breeding and racing? What does a winning sweep ticket mean to a pedlar?

Polly Bashaw, George's mother, has been sold or leased for a reported contract of $5,000 per live foal produced.

UNKNOWN PLATEAU

And George's brother has been sold for $15,000, the highest sum ever paid for an unraced two-year-old bred in B.C.

George Royal raised the stature of B.C.-breds to a hitherto unknown plateau Thursday. He knocked the best in California for a loop.

But California may get even.

Both Polly Bashaw and George Royal's brother were snapped up even before Gorgeous George left his imprint in the San Juan.

By whom?

By Californians.

Naturally.

RHODA ROGERS
. . . sees through impersonation

SEE REAL THING, STRIPPERS URGE

By EDDIE GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — "Any girl can take her clothes off. It's how she does it that counts."

The speaker, Sheila Sands, 25, a member of the striptease dancers' union, demanded Thursday that a movie studio fire three actresses hired to impersonate strippers.

The blonde stripper and red-haired Rhoda Rogers, 23, said they plan to take their case to American film producer Stanley Rubin. He hired the actresses for the movie, Promise Her Anything.

"These actresses may be able to act," Sheila continued. "But striptease requires great skill and a definite art."

Actresses asked to portray strippers are Vivienne Ventura, 19, Asa Maynor, 25, and Margaret Nolan, 21.

Speaking for them, Vivienne said:

"We are not playing professional strippers in the film. We are playing girls who are just getting started in the business. The scenes we're in also require acting ability. That's why we were chosen."

The strippers are members of the British Association of Strip Tease Artists.

"We shall be calling on the producer," said Rhoda.

Said producer Rubin:

"If this delegation arrives, I'll have to give an audience. I can't fire the actresses, though. That would not be fair."

Rubin said he would try to work out a compromise by writing in parts for one or two girls from the strippers' union.

"My problem is do I want stripping or acting?" Rubin added. "As I need the acting, I had hoped to get acting and stripping."

well to consider reducing Mr. Peterson's very heavy workload by some juggling of portfolios. Either education or labor is task enough for one minister to handle; and each is a key department.

Could Speaker William Murray but divest himself of gown and billycock hat, here, at the cost of an excellent referee, would be a first-class reinforcement to a cabinet which needs one.

Back to the House, out of labor and busy in surprisingly placid fashion with Highways Minister Phil Gaglardi's estimates.

Up stands Mr. Strachan with a great wad of letters and newspaper clippings to display. These, he announces, date back to 1957, when Mr. Gaglardi gave him the first of many assurances that the Cowichan Lake road in the opposition chief's riding would get a needed working over.

Until the minister puts the road right, Mr. Strachan promises, he will treat legislators to a total reading of the mass once each session.

He then proceeded with the first long, dreary reading.

INTERNATIONAL PORTS FOR PANHANDLE URGED

VANCOUVER (CP)—Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing Thursday suggested creation of international ports on the Alaska Panhandle to serve the northern British Columbia area.

In a speech to the Vancouver branch of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy and, in a later interview, he said sooner or later Canada must arrange talks with the United States for tidewater access to northwest B.C. through the panhandle.

He said on a recent visit to the country behind the panhandle he found there was an "awful lot of development going on there, not only in mining but in forest operations."

He did not envisage alteration of the panhandle boundary but believed international ports could be established that would be as much an advantage to the U.S. as Canada.

Pete Gas Field Claimed Biggest

VANCOUVER (CP)—The president of Peace River Petroleum Ltd. says he believes the company has drilled a bigger gas field than any in Alberta.

George Richardson, company president, said drilling on the company's second well in Monkman Pass area was completed Thursday at the 8,556-foot level.

He said the second well has tapped the same natural gas zone as Peace River Pete's first well—which has a rated open flow of 9,300,000 cubic feet a day.

"I think it has the makings of the biggest thing in British Columbia," Mr. Richardson said in an interview.

'CAN'T MATCH THAT'

He said there are probably 15 drill sites in the area, each with 70,000,000,000 cubic feet of gas, "and there's nothing that big in Alberta."

Drilling on the third well is to start immediately, he said.

Mr. Richardson said the wells have tapped the first gas zone, which he says is 2,500 feet thick. He said it is believed there are two other gas zones beneath the first that may ultimately be drilled.

A well drilled in 1957 tapped the middle zone, he said.

"This area is 35 miles long and 10 to 12 miles wide," he said. "Turner Valley, site of the strike that started the Alberta petroleum boom, is 30 miles long and only a mile wide."

AT TORONTO in the main list, B.C. Forest Products, Burns and Canada Cement each rose ½ and C.I.L., Dofasco and Stelco ¼ each.

Algoma Steel and B.C. Telephone added a point each to 79¼ and 70½. Aluminium, Bank of Nova Scotia and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce advanced ⅜ apiece.

AT NEW YORK volume for the day was estimated at 6,400,000 shares compared with 5,790,000 Thursday.

Steels strengthened on news of progress in labor negotiations, U.S. Steel and Jones and Laughlin rising well over a point each.

Auto shares resumed their rise of Thursday on reports of booming sales. Up a point or better were General Motors and Chrysler.

AT MONTREAL industrial volume to 2 p.m. was 174,100 and mines and oils 1,582,700.

Papers were up with Abitibi adding ⅛.

Utilities were off slightly, Bell Telephone dropped ⅛.

Banks and industrials were steady.

In senior oil issues, BA added ⅜ and Texaco was down ¼.

Among speculative mines, Equity Explorations added two cents to $1.82 and Kodiak Pete dropped 20 cents to $1.50.

AT LONDON stock markets were dull today with barely enough business to establish a trend.

Gilt-edged securities were quietly firm.

Dollar stocks were mixed. Falls outnumbered gains among leading Canadian issues with Consolidated Paper being an especially dull spot.

Others to decline a fraction included Abitibi, Aluminium, Consolidated Mining, Hollinger, Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas, Imperial Oil and Trans-Canada Pipe. Slight improvements were seen in such issues as Algoma, Canadian Husky, International Nickel and Noranda.

AT VANCOUVER on the morning section Ace a new low of .22 decreasing .02 on 27,000 shares. Hurley, the morning's most active trade, sold 283,300 shares to gain .045 to .265.

Kamloops rose .03 to .51 on 172,000 shares. Utica put on .05 to $2.50. Torwest dropped three to .97.

WINDSOR, Ont. (UPI) — Some 7,000 auto workers were returning to work this week at Chrysler of Canada's Windsor plants after ending their 38-day strike.

The striking United Auto Workers voted 91 per cent in favor of accepting a new three-year contract Sunday, ending the work stoppage which kept the nation's third largest automaker idle since Jan. 28.

The contract will mean a 75 cent hourly increase in wages and fringe benefits over the next three years.

B.C. COLT REPLACES NORTHERN DANCER . . . . . . AS DARLING OF AMERICAN TURF FANS

George Royal . . . 'A Great One With a Big Heart'

By DOUG PEDEN
Times Sports Editor

ARCADIA, Calif.—The lean man with the deeply-lined face had been standing alone late Thursday afternoon in front of Barns 26 in the Santa Anita Park stable area. His neatly pressed suit was in sharp contrast to the attire of men working around other barns as he peered down the road leading from the receiving barn, where winning horses are held for tests before being walked back to their stalls.

Peden

"He should be along in a few minutes," said George Dunn. "Come along while I change my clothes.

"I'm a one-man stable down here," he explained while quickly switching to working clothes in a small room containing little more than a rupled cot and a collection of racing equipment.

"I'm both stable-hand and trainer." There was no suggestion of complaint and it was obvious there was fondness in his chores as he grabbed a pitchfork and moved fresh straw into an empty stall, spreading it deeply and evenly as if he was preparing for equine royalty.

Despite efforts to appear calm the excitement in Dunn's eyes, the rapid talk and trembling hands were dead giveaways that royalty was indeed expected and that this day had brought perhaps the greatest thrill of his long career in horse racing.

Trainer George Dunn had just returned from greeting B.C.-bred George Royal and Alberta-raised jockey Johnny Longden in the winners' circle after the 26th running of the $125,000 San Juan Capistrano Invitational Handicap at this lavish betting parlor.

"Too bad you weren't around this morning," said Dunn. "I could have told you how to make some money. I predicted a win over a Vancouver radio station this morning. I made no blues about it. I was certain George Royal was going to win.

"He never ran on turf until last Thursday, but he took to it right away. We galloped him Monday and Longden said 'I wish it was Thursday. This horse is the best he's been when I've been on him.'"

Sports columnist Hal Malone of The Daily Times had touted George Royal two weeks ago, following a fast-closing third in the rich Santa Anita Handicap, suggesting the San Juan might be a good spot to drop a bundle on the late - charging, four-year-old son of Dark Hawk-Polly Bashaw.

Handicappers in these parts could see little but Cedar Key and Hill Rise, while giving only a slight chance to the Canadian colt and the entry of Deul and Batteur. But the combination of George Royal, who has taken Northern Dancers' place as the Canadian darling of American turf fans, and the winningest jockey in turf history was too much for the glamor steeds over the mile and three-quarters distance of Santa Anita's grass course which twists down off a hillside and finishes with one circuit inside the regular track.

George Royal did it with his usual late rush to make screaming fanatics of his many Canadian supporters among the 38,000 patrons who braved a shower - sprinkled final day of a record-shattering meeting. Away to a better-than-usual start, George Royal had two of the other 13 horses behind him down the hill and he was running in that position past the grandstand.

He appeared to find some trouble on the first turn but straightened up and started to close ground on the backstretch, where Hill Rise stepped out with leaders and appeared a possible winner.

However, from the time Longden turned him loose going around the final turn and the announcer called, "and here comes George Royal," there was little doubt that the Hill Rise goose was cooked. The Canadian charger was in front coming into the home-stretch and was running so strongly at the wire it seemed he could have gone another six furlongs. Duel staged a late rush to overtake Hill Rise and beat the big handicap winner for the late spot, two lengths back of George Royal.

Polizonte, which had a head in front briefly around the final turn, held on for fourth. Cedar Key, the 2 to 1 favorite packing Willie Shoemaker and high weight of 127 pounds, never could find a path through the heavy traffic and finished well back.

George Royal, clocked in 2:46 4/5 (1 4/5 seconds off the track record), collected $75,000 for owners Ernie Hammond and Bob Hall and rewarded his backers with $13.60, $5.80 and $4.40 across the board. Duel paid $6.60 and $5, and Hill Rise returned $6.20.

"He's a powerhouse," Longden said to Dunn when he dismounted.

"He ran like a champion," grandfather Johnny said later.

"He did everything I asked him. I lost a little ground on the clubhouse turn but he handled the grass well and I knew I had it won on the backstretch.

"He wanted to run but I wouldn't let him. I didn't turn him loose until the three-eighths pole."

The happy association of the two Georges is due to end next week.

"We're taking him back to Vancouver Saturday," Dunn said while waiting for his champion, "And then I go back to starting."

Dunn has been a starter for 19 years, the last 16 with the Western Canadian Racing Association of Alberta and Saskatchewan tracks. Next month he'll be schooling two-year-olds at the starting gate.

"I think this is as kind and intelligent horse as I've ever known," he said as a groom finally brought George Royal back to the barn and started him on a cooling-out walk.

Wally Dunn, George's brother, who bred and raised George Royal near Vancouver, came along, took a proud look at the horse and departed. Hall, still excited over the biggest ever victory for a Canadian horse in California, was next to arrive. "When we get back to Vancouver we'll rest him for a couple of months," Hall said in his Irish accent.

"We'll probably bring him back to California in June and I think I'll train him myself. After that, I don't know where we'll run him."

George Dunn almost missed his big day when he considered declining an offer last fall to train last year's B.C. champion.

"They wanted to race him down here but didn't want to send him to a public stable," he explained. "I wasn't eager to take the job, but I liked him the first time I saw him and have taken care of him since November.

"I knew he was good, but when he won an allowance race in December, coming from dead last in mud and rain, I knew we had something special.

"He proved it today. He's been good to me, and I've been good to him.

"He's not a big horse, but he's a great one with a big heart."

Six Teams Planned In NHL Expansion Probably by 1966

MONTREAL (CP)—In the interest of progress, the rich, powerful National Hockey League has decided to expand by taking in six new teams, creating a two-division setup that would bring big-time hockey to the east-west cities of the United States and Canada.

The face-lifting won't take place right away, probably not until the 1966-67 season, if then. And nobody, not even the NHL, is sure it will pay off.

"But you can't stop progress," said league president Clarence Campbell.

Campbell says the idea of adding six teams to the present six-team NHL setup, and operating all 12 in two divisions playing an interlocking schedule, is a calculated gamble. The calibre of play is going to be lowered, he said, until enough players can be developed to balance both divisions.

"There is no shortage of hockey players but the question is whether or not the dilution of talent will be a disappointment to the public. We don't know."

Announcement Came As a Surprise

League governors announced the expansion proposal after a five-hour meeting in New York Thursday. It came as a surprise, although the league had announced last Feb. 2 that Thursday's meeting was for the purpose of discussing expansion.

First hint that the winds of expansion were blowing came last summer when the league appointed New York consultant Fred Corcoran to promote the NHL to the U.S. news media. Expansion to rich markets such as Los Angeles and San Francisco was considered essential if the NHL hoped to attract the attention of the big U.S. television networks.

The league now is made up of teams from Chicago, New York, Boston, Toronto, Montreal and Detroit.

In its announcement, the NHL said applications for the new division will be accepted from responsible groups representing major-league cities in Canada and the U.S. None has been received so far, Campbell said.

No deadline was set for the expansion.

McNab Says Vancouver Will Apply

Asked to speculate what cities could be in the running for a franchise, Campbell named seven. He said Los Angeles and St. Louis, both with big-league rinks, qualify now. Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Oakland, Calif., San Francisco and Vancouver could support NHL calibre teams, but need bigger rinks. He didn't mention Seattle, which, along with San Francisco and Los Angeles, can meet the 12,000-seat capacity required by the NHL.

He ruled out the possibility of two teams operating in the same city. There were no cities with separate facilities to handle dual entries, he said.

Campbell said to meet the NHL's basic requirements, a city would have to have the ability to draw enough fans to purchase not less than $1,000,000 in tickets annually, a rink controlled by ownership or a long-term lease to ensure continuity, and promoters with necessary resources to operate a team.

Already, Vancouver, on hearing the expansion news, announced it would make a franchise bid at the NHL annual meetings in Montreal in June.

Max McNab, general manager of Vancouver Canucks of the Western League, said the bid would come either from the Canucks or other parties not mentioned.

Campbell said the present NHL teams will sponsor new entries initially by providing them with players until some kind of balance is achieved. It would take time to set up farm systems, but the league would help by creating a player selection pool. This pool could even help the NHL's lower-placed teams like the Boston Bruins, if the situation warranted.

Fans Must Be Patient, Charitable

"Properly distributed on a competitive basis, not on a give-away basis, we feel it is possible in the long run to establish a competitive league which would span the length and breadth of this continent," he said.

But the fan would have to be patient as well as charitable while the shake-up league went through birth pangs.

"I'm quite satisfied that any time you dilute a product by increasing the number of teams, you are bound to weaken the product," Campbell said. "There is no question that the new division will lower the calibre of play.

"How else can we get another 120 players of the calibre we now have in the NHL, except by expanding and development?"

Campbell said the NHL's player draft procedures will be studied and revised, if necessary, to avoid the possibility of exploitation of talent through bonus payments in a money war among teams.

Seattle's Allen Expresses Interest

He said schedule and playoff arrangements in a two-division league haven't yet been considered, and won't be until all the franchises have been determined.

"Anything I say on that phase of it would be pure speculation," he said.

Immediate expressions of interest in the expansion plans came from three United States cities. Keith Allen, general manager and coach of Seattle Totems of the WHL and Emory Jones, vice-president and general manager of St. Louis Braves of the Central League, said they will apply for franchises.

Zanvyl Kreiger, board chairman and one of the two principal owners of Baltimore Clippers of the AHL, said the club is prepared to invest "several million dollars" in expansion of the Baltimore Civic Centre, which now seats 11,000.

Gerald Martineau, general manager of Quebec Aces of the AHL, said his club is interested but that it would be difficult for Quebec to play in a new circuit if all the other teams were located in western cities. The Quebec Coliseum seats 10,000 and can accommodate 4,000 standees.

Russ, Czechs Are Laughing

TAMPERE, Finland (CP) — Russia and Czechoslovakia are the undefeated giants of the world hockey championships here as the tournament heads into the last three days of action.

Both won their fifth straight games easily Thursday and will take it easy today while the action in the eight-country championship pool is confined to the bottom four teams.

Czechoslovakia extended its string by trouncing Canada 8-0, ending the Canadians' unbeaten record in their fifth game.

The Russians, reigning Olympic and world champions, beat the winless United States 9-2 and are preparing to face Czechoslovakia Saturday in what may be the decisive game of the tournament.

WORST EVER

The drubbing Canada absorbed from the Czechs was the worst it has ever taken in international championship play and virtually ended any hope that this will be the year the world title returns to Canada for the first time since 1961.

The immediate reaction in the Canadian camp was one of quiet gloom. The only comment came from Rev. David Bauer, 1964 Olympic coach and a special consultant to this year's national team, who said the Czechs have quite a good team.

'THEY ARE BETTER'

They won, in fact, because "they are better than we are", he told reporters at the usual post-game press conference.

Although the Czechs were in command of the game, they did not turn it into a rout until the third period, when they rapped home five goals. They scored once in the first period, twice in the second.

Sweden, definitely out of contention, whipped Norway 10-0 in Thursday's only other action in the championship pool.

Frantisek Sevcik was the top Czech scorer against Canada, scoring his team's last two goals in the closing minutes of the game on passing plays with Jaroslav Jirik.

Jirik opened the scoring with the only goal of the first period.

Other Czech marksmen were Jiri Holik, Vaclav Nedomnasky, Frantisek Tika, Josef Capla and Josef Golonka.

HAD BEST RECORD

Before the Canadian debacle, goalie Ken Broderick of the University of British Columbia had the best record in the tournament. He has two shutouts, over Norway and Finland, and he had allowed only three goals in four games.

Broderick had to handle 39 shots, while Czech goalie Vladimir Dzurila blocked 22 in gaining his first shutout.

Previously, Canada's worst defeat had been a 7-2 loss to Russia in the 1954 tournament. The Russians, making their debut in world play, won the title that year. Canada's representatives were Toronto East York.

Canada's remaining games are against Sweden Saturday and Russia Sunday.

The Czech - Canadian game concluded a day of lopsided, lacklustre hockey here.

The Russians fired no fewer then 50 shots at American goalie Tom Haught in the first two periods, then simmered down to nine shots in the third period. The Russians led 2-0 at the end of the first period, 7-0 at the end of the second.

BOWLER OF WEEK

Second-year bowler Evelyn Donaldson made first big impression on alleys by rolling 167-232-211—610 series to top women's tenpin division in the Daily Times' "Bowler-of - the - Week" competition. Series at Mayfair Lanes qualifies Ev for year-end rolloffs May 9.

APARICIO, KATT SIGN

Majors' Holdouts Reduced to Four

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The list of unsatisfied major league baseball players has dwindled to four with the signing of veteran shortstop Luis Aparicio by Baltimore Orioles and southpaw Jim Kaat by Minnesota Twins.

Katt signed for an estimated $26,000 Thursday and Aparicio, 30, agreed to a salary of about $40,000.

Still trying to get together with their bosses are Richie Allen, Philadelphia Phillies' sensational third - base rookie last season, veteran outfielder Wes Covington of Philadelphia and Felix Torres, Los Angeles Angels' third baseman. Pittsburgh Pirates' Roberto Clemente is at his Puerto Rico home convalescing from malaria.

Kaat received a raise of some $8,500 over last season, when he posted a 17-11 record and a 3.22 earned run average.

STANDS ON RECORD

Aparicio based his demand for more money on a 1964 record of a career high of 10 homers, a batting average of .266 and finishing No. 1 in the American League in stolen bases for the ninth straight season. He stole 57 last year.

New York whipped Washington Senators 4-3 at Pompano Beach, Fla., Thursday with Mickey Mantle, and Elston Howard cracking Yankee home runs.

Meanwhile Charlie Dressen, 66, manager of Detroit Tigers, was reported in satisfactory condition and improving in a Santa Monica, Calif., hospital.

Dressen is recovering from a slight heart attack suffered last weekend. He is expected to return to the club in an advisory capacity after a few months rest if his condition continues to improve.

DESERVANT CHINOOKS RECOGNIZED

Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee will be asked to consider presenting a suitable memento to Victoria Chinooks, Canadian junior basketball champions.

Ald. A. W. Toone called for recognition Thursday.

"When a group of young men such as this go forth in order to bring benefits to their city there should be some way they could be helped," he said.

Toone made his comments Thursday when city council officially honored the junior champions.

Mexican Driver Enters Big One

TORONTO (CP)—Pedro Rodriguez of Mexico, one of the top racing drivers in the world, will compete in the 1965 Trans-Canada 4,000-mile car rally beginning in Montreal April 24.

He will be teamed with Montreal navigator Bill Leathem in a factory Studebaker.

This year's rally has already attracted 66 cars, 37 owned and driven privately.

All But Two WHL Centres Have a Chance

SEATTLE (AP)—Portland, Seattle, Los Angeles and San Francisco are the likely candidates for berths in the expanding National Hockey League, Al Leader of the Western Hockey League said Thursday.

"Portland has the best minor league franchise in America and Seattle isn't far behind with its new building (Arena)," the WHL president said.

His remarks came on the heels of a NHL announcement of a second six-team division now in the planning stage.

He noted that all four cities mentioned qualified for major status in terms of permanent seating capacities and ice surfaces.

★ ★ ★

Los Angeles can seat 14,300 fans in its luxurious new arena, Seattle handles 12,300 in another new building. San Francisco uses the Cow Palace, which seats 12,000, but a new arena is planned in nearly Oakland. Portland has a sparklingly-modern arena with a seating capacity of about 10,000 but Leader said that possibly it could add some seats.

Leader discounted the other two cities in the WHL, Vancouver and Victoria, which have arenas which seat about 5,000 fans.

He said that Victoria also did not have the population to support major league hockey and that Vancouver, which has, would probably have to be left out because of lack of a suitable arena.

"Even if Vancouver made its move now it's doubtful if a new arena could be constructed in time for Vancouver to join the new division," Leader said.

★ ★ ★

Max McNab, manager-coach of the Vancouver WHL entry, saw more than a ray of hope for Vancouver.

"It all depends on the time element, "he said. "If six new teams are accepted next year, Vancouver is dead, and probably for many years to come as far as major league hockey is concerned. But if they wait two or three years, we are in the best position of anyone in the WHL."

McNab also noted that none of the other WHL clubs own their own buildings or have long-term leases, two of the stipulations made by the NHL for acceptance of new franchise-holders.

He said that Vancouver had been reluctant to proceed with a new building until such time as NHL expansion came about.

★ ★ ★

"Now that it's here," he said, "I'm sure they won't waste any time. We could proceed with the best building in Canada."

It was reported last night that a Vancouver group is preparing a bid for an NHL franchise, to be made at the annual NHL meeting in June provided the time limit is enough for construction of the required arena.

In San Francisco, Seals' owner Mel Swig said his team would be in a major league "within two years."

Swig says San Francisco can meet all requirements demanded by the NHL for prospective new teams.

AT 42, WILLIE'S STILL FULL OF PEP

MIAMI (AP)—Former world featherweight champion Willie Pep, who retired from the ring six years ago, won his first comeback attempt Thursday night.

The 42 - year - old former champ ducked, jabbed and foxed his way to a unanimous eight-round decision over Hal McKeever. Pep weighed 137, McKeever 135.

Pep, of Hartford, Conn., was a clear leader until McKeever opened up his left cheekbone in the fifth.

Referee Eddie Eckert had Pep out front 80-74, and two judges made Pep the winner by 78-77 and 78-75.

A member of the boxing Hall of Fame, Pep has won 220 fights, 61 of them by knockouts. He held the featherweight title 15 years ago.

RESCUERS TRUNDLE their smiling patients into blankets as operation "Dr. Red" gets underway.

Hospital Actors Cool Under Fire

By TERRY IZZARD

Dr. Red to 1A . . . Dr. Red to 1A . . .

Whoops, sorry, Dr. Red to 2A. Enter Dr. Red complete with gumboots and fire helmet.

Enter a gaggle of student nurses.

"What's the verdict doctor?"

Second's silence—"Evacuate."

The word is out: "Evacuate wing 2A of St. Joseph's Hospital."

The time is 10:57 a.m.

Already sick patients are laid out in the hospital corridor.

Wrapped in blankets they are dragged the length of the wing. Then a fireman's lift down two flights of stairs into the sunlight.

COMPLETE

Eight-and-a-half minutes later evacuation is complete.

Thirteen patients litter the sidewalk of Humboldt Street. Two more have been rushed to emergency for treatment to burns.

It happened this morning.

Not that anyone really got burned.

In fact the patients in wards off wing 2A didn't know a fire was raging.

'IN THE MIND'

As a psychiatrist would say: "It was all in the mind."

It was in the minds of firemen and safety officers who know what could happen if a fire did break out.

To see what would happen they staged a mock fire.

Only people in the know as the alarm sounded were a handful of student nurses—the patients—hospital administrators, and Victoria firemen.

Within a minute off-duty student nurses trooped into the building from their nearby living quarters.

Already the hospital intercom was blaring out the fire call signal—Dr. Red to 1A.

MIXED UP

Somebody got floors mixed up in the heat of the moment. But a few hasty instructions soon put everyone on the right track.

There were giggles as student-nurse rescuers hauled away student-nurse patients.

Firemen, who arrived within two minutes of the alarm, watched on as their job was done for them.

"Excellent," said Lieutenant Percy Graves in charge of the operation. "They did a tremendous job."

FIRST ONE

The mock rescue was the first of its kind ever held in a Victoria hospital.

It was designed to test training all hospital staff receive in fire safety.

After its completion both rescuers and rescued were given a run down on their mistakes.

Ask The Times

Q. Are plans or blueprints available of the specifications of the riverboat Mount Royal? E.T.K.

A. An Ask the Times check has found only the ship's dimensions — 130 feet long, 25 foot beam and and 18-inch draught. Further information about the ship—but no builders' dimensions is available from the Maritime Museum and provincial archives.

Mount Royal was built in Victoria in 1902.

Q. What is the average yearly precipitation in Victoria, Vancouver and the Okanagan Valley? H.K.B.

A. Victoria, 27.35 inches; Vancouver, 60.24 (airport 40.91), and Okanagan Valley centres—Penticton, 11.74; Vernon, 15.41, and Kelowna, 12.41.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

HMCS Ste. Therese, Jonquiere returned today from 12-day local exercise. Submarine HMCS Grilse returns 8:30 p.m.

HMC Ships Yukon, Sussexvale, New Glasgow arrive Mazatan, Mexico; due back April 2.

HMC Ships Mackenzie, Beacon Hill, Saskatchewan arrived today at Midway Island on Orient cruise, returning May 13.

In port are HMC Ships Oriole, Qu'Appelle, Stettler, St. Croix, Fraser.

THEY COULDN'T WAIT

Swallows Wing in Ahead of Schedule

The swallows returned to Elk Lake today—almost a week ahead of schedule—and wild flowers bloomed everywhere as Greater Victoria entered the 13th day of its Little Summer.

Up to midnight, the sun had shone for 97.8 hours since March 1, beating the previous high of 85.7 hours in 1943.

No break is in sight and the record-breaking sunshine is expected to continue over the weekend.

Today's temperatures are expected to equal Thursday's high of 63.8 degrees—a record for March 11. And the early morning reading of 49.8 was actually the highest "low" for March 12 in Victoria's history.

HIGH OF 70

The sheltered thermometer on the roof of the Victoria Times registered a high of 70 degrees Thursday with an overnight low of 48.

"This is certainly the sunniest March on a record," a spokesman for the Gonzales weather station said. "The previous high for March 11 was 63 degrees in 1934."

The Gonzales thermometer registered 60 degrees at noon—three degrees up on Thursday's noon reading.

Naturalists were delighted by the early appearance of spring flowers in Thetis Park Nature Sanctuary, Thomas Francis Park and other beauty spots. Noted among them were Easter lillies, shooting stars, spring gold, buttercups, blue-eyed mary, bearberry, saxifrage, satinflower and the little monkey flower.

"It's amazing they should be so advanced in view of the unfavorable winter conditions," a local naturalist said.

STORMS ELSEWHERE

The weather office noted that, while southern Vancouver Island is bathed in sunshine, there are storms over the Kootenays and the prairies and disturbances in the Pacific.

In Nanaimo it was 61 at noon and temperatures were rising towards Thursday's high of 66 on the coast and 73 in more sheltered spots.

There were light northerly winds along the Victoria waterfront but these did not discourage sun-bathers on the beach or housewives who wore bathing suits in their back gardens.

While ice cream vendors reported booming sales, beer parlors, cocktail lounges and movie theatres said the sunshine had reduced customers.

You can't please everybody.

'Big Five's Bilking' Must Stop Says Labor

More Profits Asked For B.C.'s Coffers

By JOHN MIKA

A complete transformation of government policy towards the forest industry was advocated today by the B.C. Federation of Labor.

The proposal is aimed at siphoning off more of the profits of the "Big Five" logging companies into provincial coffers.

The legislature's forestry committee members showed obvious interest in the federation's strongly-worded brief that the B.C. taxpayers will continue to be "bilked" unless:

- A permanent, independent three-man commission—similar to the Public Utilities Commission—is set up to regulate the industry;
- Royalty payments by logging companies are doubled across-the-board immediately;
- A crown corporation is set up to compete directly with the giant private firms operating in B.C. woods;
- An immediate halt to issuing tree farm licences is ordered and those already held by "monopolistic corporations" revoked.

Committee chairman Cyril Shelford (SC—Omineca) said most of the points in the brief were outside of the committee's terms of reference but he allowed full discussion because it could point up areas that should be investigated in future hearings.

BEST-EVER

Logging millionaire Gordon Gibson (L—North Vancouver) said the brief was just about the best ever presented to the committee and should have been made years ago.

But Forest Minister Ray Williston dismissed some of its points as just so much "hypothetical piling on of words" and argued more of it should be disregarded as outside of the committee's jurisdiction.

The brief, presented by federation president E. T. Staley and secretary-treasurer E. P. O'Neal, opened with the blunt charge that "the people of British Columbia are being systematically bilked."

It said it was an incredible fact that the province received as much revenue from selling liquor as it did from taxation and timber sales to the vast forest industry which accounts for half of the entire B.C. economy.

WONDERING WHY

"Across the length and breadth of the province people are talking, wondering why, when B.C. forest companies made sales amounting to $1.5 billion the province received only about $36.6 million in direct revenue," it said.

The brief aims its fire chiefly at the "Big Five" which hold most of the tree farm licences—MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River; Canadian Forest Products; B.C. Forest Products; Crown Zellerbach; and Rayonier.

It said they had gross incomes far exceeding the province's budget and MBPR alone last year had revenues within $20 million of the B.C. government's $390 million budget.

"The jobs of thousands and thousands of citizens can be lost, the provincial economy disrupted, through the whim or caprice of these companies," the brief said.

"The province and its citizens are at the mercy of these companies. They are now, and have been for some years past, in a position to wield enormous political as well as economic influence," it added in leading up to its first recommendation—establishment of a Crown-owned forest company.

The final recommendation—there were 10 including both general and technical matters—urged the establishment of a three-man regulatory commission made up of a professional forester, an economist and a Supreme Court judge.

"We share with the government the view that this most important natural resource should not be subject to political controversy and partisan opportunism," the brief said. "But an aura of controvery persists around the administration of our forest resources."

It said the three-man board "would ensure the proper scientific administration of our forest resources, with special consideration to conservation, utilization and equitable return to the province from development of the forest resources."

JONES LOOKS AT THE LAW

The "Law and Mr. Jones" will be the subject of a political science forum at the University of Victoria Paul Building at 12:30 p.m. Monday.

Suspended B.C. purchasing commission chairman George E. P. Jones will be the speaker.

Stoppage Continues

A safety work stoppage at Ogden Point is likely to continue for another week.

A spokesman for Western Lumber Carriers said this morning two lumber carriers will be fitted with chain guards by Saturday and the other eight will be equipped in the next week to 10 days.

The International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, Local 504, said its members will only drive those carriers fitted with chain guards.

The stoppage, which means the men are not getting paid, started Tuesday in protest against the exposed chains which drive the carriers.

Mooney Wants Full Budget For Recreation

Victoria Alderman M. H. Mooney said today he would press for the full $34,000 1965 budget for four major park-recreation areas in Saanich, and maybe more.

"We could spend $1,000,000 and every dollar would be well spent. There are so many projects that could be undertaken," he said during a tour of parks today by Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee.

A proposed budget of $34,000 is before the committee now, an increase of $8,000 over 1964 and the previous year.

Ald. Mooney, who is chairman of the committee, said he would advocate that the increase and perhaps more be approved by councils.

A dozen committee members and parksmen from Victoria and Saanich visited Gorge Park, Mount Douglas Park, Hamsterley Beach, Eagle Park and Beaver-Elk Lake parks.

TWO UNIVERSITY OF VICTORIA students have been awarded $1,800 Woodrow Wilson scholarships and third has received an honorable mention. The awards were officially announced by university president, Dr. Malcolm Taylor, at noon today. Left to right is Richard A. Gough, the physics student who received an honorable mention; Dr. Taylor, and the award winners, Ross E. Lamberton, political science, and Richard E. Waller, modern languages. IF CHALLENGE ISN'T MET . . . IT'S DOWN THE DRAIN FOR ALL

'Education Must be Geared to Excellence'

By BOB DONAHUE
Times Education Reporter

An over-attachment to labels, certificates and paper degrees has led to an error in judgment in education, Dr. Malcolm Taylor, president of the University of Victoria, said today.

"The over-emphasis on the white-collar job has reflected itself in a misplaced demand for the academic curriculum and for the university route in high school," he told about 1,000 Greater Victoria teachers in a convention at S. J. Willis Junior High School.

"By this over-emphasis too many young men and women have been led away from pursuits for which they are much better qualified by both ability and temperament.

"Because they have turned to the academic route in such numbers we have tended to adjust our standards downwards to accommodate them.

"As a result," said Dr. Taylor, "our academic route has failed to challenge those students for whom it was primarily intended."

He said today there are nearly 2,400 occupations requiring secondary and advanced training.

"Obviously, there is more than one route to such a variety of occupations."

RESULTS

Dr. Taylor said some of the results of those errors in judgment and false set of values are:

- A Canadian labor force that is not adequately trained for a technological society.
- Too large a group seeking admission to universities without adequate academic preparation.
- Too many students sent to university by parents who are interested only in the presumed prestige of the degree and not in the career best suited to their children's talents.
- Too many students failing their academic program who would have been highly successful in non-academic careers.

"At the same time the paradox is that too many secondary school students with honors ability drop out and never reach university at all.

"Democracy will not survive the challenge ahead unless its educational system is geared to excellence rather than mediocrity.

"Unless we challenge and stretch to the utmost the ablest of our young people, preparing them as leaders to meet the crises of democracy in the modern world, then all of us — the gifted and the less gifted, the brilliant and less brilliant, the educated and uneducated, the white-collar worker and the skilled laborer, the scientist and the technician—will go down the drain together."

Second Magistrate For City Due Soon

A second full-time magistrate will be appointed soon for Greater Victoria.

An official in the Attorney-General's Department today confirmed hints made at a city council meeting that a second appointment would be made.

He said the question was under active study and an announcement could come earlier than the fall opening of the city's new two-court magistrates' building now going up in the Victoria Square.

HEAVIEST LOAD?

The official said the rapid population growth in this area had thrown an excessive load of court cases on Magistrate Wililam Ostler, probably the heaviest load on a single magistrate anywhere in the province.

There was no indication from the official who was under consideration for the new appointment nor any confirmation to other rumors that both magistrates would operate in a central court for the whole area located in the city's courthouse.

City council touched off the speculation when it approved money Thursday for furnishing and equipping a second magistrate's office in the new courthouse.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Here's the Answer For a Quick Lunch

By Penny Saver

Are you ever in a quandary over what to serve the youngsters when they come home for lunch from school? Something quick and easy to make is the best answer, and Penny has discovered the ideal quick lunch—nourishing and full of flavor.

Serve delicious, hot chicken broth with a sandwich. The soup I found comes in cube form. Add one square to the appropriate amount of water and simmer. Presto! You have a chicken bouillon, a perfect partner to a chicken sandwich.

These bouillon cubes, selling for two packages for 37 cents (a package contains two cubes), have the condensed essences of rich fowl flavor, cooked with spices and herbs. When boiled with water, the taste is released.

If you wish, add chicken chunks and vegetables to the broth and make your own thick soup, full of home-cooked nourishment. It's a meal in itself.

You can buy these soups in beef flavor, too.

Wandering about this same store, Penny noticed an ideal accent to a menu of soup and sandwiches. It is a crisp toasted bread, not unlike Melba toast, with a sweet, European taste. Served warm, dripping with butter, the bread is a pleasing highlight to a lunch menu or with tea. Price is two packages for 45 cents.

Another quick and easy lunch item for the children is hot Italian pizza. Teen-agers especially love this and it takes such a little time to prepare.

One package, priced at 51 cents, contains all the ingredients necessary for good Italian pizza. The dough puffs up to a crisp pastry and the tangy spiced sauce brings to mind warm sun and exotic places. Um-m-m! Real Parmesan cheese is used to top the concoction and when it melts through the sauce, imported from Italy, the taste is indescribable.

Sound appealing? Give Penny a call at 382-3131 and find out where to shop.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Lowman

Q. My hair will not grow any longer. I want so much to have long hair. Is there anything I can do to make it longer? I used a rinse for a while. I stopped teasing my hair about six months ago. Could either of these things have anything to do with my hair not growing?

A. No I do not think that either had anything to do with it. The length to which your hair will grow is an inherited characteristic just like the shape of your nose. Physical condition can affect the health of the hair. Women sometimes have falling and thinning hair following an illness. Systematic conditions can also cause this. For instance low thyroid can be the culprit.

Q. I hear so many different opinions about teasing the hair. Some hairdressers say it doesn't hurt the hair and others say it does. Which is true and which is false?

A. Both are right, in a way. There seems to be no doubt that habitual, heavy teasing may cause the hair to break off, thereby causing it to seem thinner. If your hair is very fine it is more apt to break than coarse hair. On the other hand light teasing is not thought to be harmful especially if you have coarse or normal hair.

Q. The other day someone wrote you about removing hair on the face and you suggested electrolysis. I am in my 70s and feel sure that that would be too expensive. Would it be possible to pull the hair out on the upper lip? I have pulled the hair out between the eyebrows for years and now there doesn't seem to be very much there. If I cut the hair on my lip it would be so stiff. I suppose depilatories would leave it the same way.

A. You can pull the hairs out from the upper lip. However this is a rather sensitive area. Electrolysis would be best. I think that most operators and doctors will work out a budget payment plan for treatment when this is needed. You might try one of the depilatories. These do not leave the hair so stiff as shaving because a depilatory "melts" the hair instead of cutting it. Be sure to get one which is especially for facial hair.

If you would like to have the names of some of these send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Q. I am a girl, 15, who loves the new beige lipsticks. I have bought several well-known makes hoping to find one that wouldn't turn dark pink or even red. What causes this? Is there anything I can do about it?

A. All of those I have tried do have more pink or red in them than one thinks when looking at the lipstick before application. Buy one which is light in color and more on the yellow side.

DEAR ABBY

Talk to Him

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I've been happily married for 18 years and now I find myself hurt and disappointed.

A girl where my husband works gave him a shirt for Valentine's Day because she thought he was a "nice guy." He said he was surprised. Since then she told him that her husband had left her. Also that all men were rats and in time he would cheat on his wife, too.

Now my husband bought HER a present for her birthday because she's a "nice girl" and he feels sorry for her. I told him he was a married man and had no business buying her a present and if he loved me he wouldn't give it to her. Well, he gave it to her anyway.

Should I get the girl's phone number and call her up and tell her she's making trouble? Sign me,

"HURT."

DEAR HURT: Don't call her. She'd only go crying to your husband. His "protective" instincts would be aroused and it would be them against you. What you need is a better line of communication with your husband.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter just married a man with two children. He supposedly got his divorce in New York State. He claims that he does not have to support his children. We think that is very unusual, don't you. We have reason to believe that this man is not divorced. We consulted the sheriff in our county and he wasn't able to tell us how we could go about finding out if this man was divorced or not. Can you give us a clue as to how we can get this information? It's very important.

CONCERNED PARENTS.

DEAR PARENTS: Consult a lawyer. If a divorce exists, it will not be difficult to prove.

DEAR ABBY: I invited my friends over for potluck lunch and what I hoped would be an enjoyable afternoon as I had planned games and entertainment for them.

To my surprise, after the lunch, one woman took out her knitting, and another woman had her needlework. (I didn't ask anyone to bring their work as I had other plans). I was just sick, and didn't know what to do, so I just kept still. It spoiled everything for the rest of the guests. Do you think I should have told them at the beginning that I didn't think they would sit and do their work at a party? Or was I right in letting them do as they pleased?

DISAPPOINTED IN PEOPLE.

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: You should have gone ahead with the games and entertainment. My guess is that the knitting and needlework would have gone back in the bags.

DEAR ABBY: I am 21, in nurses' training, and have just become engaged to a fine young man who is a senior in college. We've gone together for three years. We plan to get married as soon as Stuart graduates in June. My problem is my mother. She wants me to have a big church wedding with a white gown and veil, bridesmaids and ushers and the whole bit. Stu and I don't want any big splashes. All we want is a simple ceremony, performed by our pastor in the small chapel of our church. I am the only girl in my family (I have four brothers), and Mother says I "owe" it to her and Dad to have a big church wedding. I think it is a foolish waste of money and, besides, my father doesn't have that much. I hate to disappoint my mother, Abby, but do you think I should be made to have a big church wedding just because she wants to put on a big show for the relatives?

NO BIG SPLASH.

DEAR NO: No.

Problems? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send one dollar to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., for Abby's booklet, "How To Write Letters For All Occasions."

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD JACOBY

When your first look at dummy indicates that you have no real play for your contract, there is no reason to use defeatist tactics and give up. Look around and maybe you will find a way to get rid of an apparent loser.

Opening lead—♥J

It is hard to assess the blame for reaching six spades to either North or South. South certainly was entitled to jump to four spades after his partner doubled West's three-heart opening. North felt that he had a really good hand in support of spades and noted that if his partner held either the ace and king of spades or the king of spades and ace of diamonds the spade slam should make. Hence, his five spade bid. As for South, there was no way for him to know that his king of clubs and singleton queen of hearts were so much excess baggage so he went merrily on to six.

West opened the jack of hearts and South saw that he had to lose to both the ace and king of trumps unless he could crash them together. Obviously, they weren't both in the same hand because in that event he would have been playing the slam contract doubled.

Deceptive play was indicated and South found a play to make one of those losers vanish into thin air.

He won the heart lead with the queen, led a club to dummy's ace, led the ace of hearts and discarded a diamond, and continued with the king. East ruffed with the deuce of spades and it was curtains for the defence.

Appeal By Kanester Adjourned to April

VANCOUVER (CP) — Larry Kanester's appeal Wednesday against two rape convictions for which he was sentenced to 20 years has been adjourned until some time in April, because his counsel D. E. Greenfield is ill. Kanester is due to appear in assize court after his appeal is heard. The crown is applying to have him declared a dangerous sexual offender.

Court Sets Bail at $5,000 For Teen Robbery Suspect

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Bail of $5,000 was set in magistrate's court Thursday for David Dawson, 17, one of three youths charged with armed robbery in adult court at Vanderhoof, 60 miles west of here.

The three were arrested by police last Saturday following a series of incidents in which several police cars were shot up, police officers were disarmed, a house was robbed, and a civilian was held hostage.

Dawson, formerly of Kincome Inlet, B.C., was attending school in Surrey near Vancouver. The two other youths, one 16 and one 17, are from Surrey. Their names were withheld by police.

The trio is scheduled to appear in Vanderhoof court again Monday. They were remanded without plea.

Top University Debaters To Match Wits at Uvic

Canada's top university debaters will match wits Saturday at the University of Victoria.

Drawn from three university debating leagues across Canada, four teams will compete for the title in the national debating finals of the Canadian Union of Students.

The topic: "Resolved: that nationalism is a necessity," is expected to arouse some lively controversy.

BAZIN
. . . chair debates

Jean Bazin, Quebec lawyer and president of the Canadian Union of Students, will attend the event and chair the two debates.

Judges will include Attorney-General Robert Bonner and Mr. Justice G. F. Gregory.

The first debate will take place at noon Saturday in the Student Union Building at Gordon Head. Winners will take part in the second debate to be broadcast over a local radio station at 8 p.m. that evening from the Young Building auditorium on the Lansdowne campus.

Both events are open to the public.

Participating students will combine the speech contest with a varied schedule of social activities.

The debaters will attend a dinner tonight sponsored by the Canadian Union of Students and will be guests at the University's annual Awards Dance at the Crystal Gardens.

Saturday the debaters will be treated to a tour of Victoria and the civic centre. They will also attend a dinner hosted by the provincial government and a private reception.

Byelections To Test Labor Strength

LONDON (CP)—Nominations closed today for the first of two byelections that may provide a clue in Britain's biggest guessing game—the timing of the next general election.

Few political observers seriously expect Prime Minister Wilson to call a general election soon. Nevertheless a certain tenseness is in the air because of the heavy economic difficulties facing Wilson's Labor government and his minute margin in the House of Commons.

The three main political parties are mounting a tremendous battle in the two byelections. The first will be held March 23 in Saffron Walden, an Essex constituency north of London, and the second in Roxburgh, Selkirk and Peebles, a Scottish border riding, the following day.

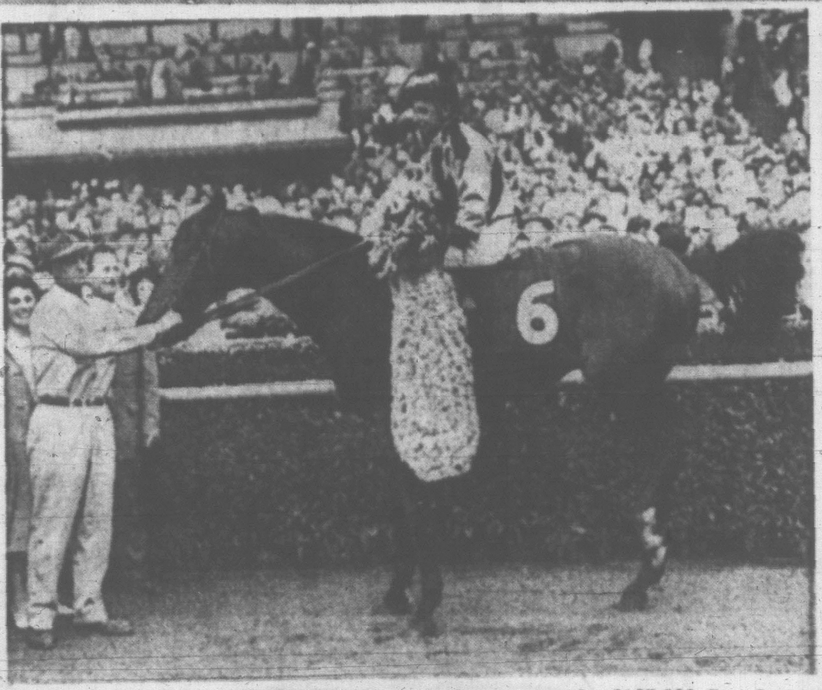
HUGE PROTEST GRIPS U.S. ON NEGRO RIGHTS



TWO CHAMPION CANADIANS were honored in winner's circle at Santa Anita, Calif., racetrack Thursday afternoon. B.C.'s George Royal had just won the $125,000 San Juan Capistrano Handicap with jockey Johnny Longden (native of Alberta) aboard. It was Longden's 5,935th winner. (AP Wirephoto.)

B.C.'S 'BEST-EVER' MANTLE FOR SPEEDY GEORGE ROYAL

By HAL MALONE

On parental lineage, George Royal should have had to buy a ticket to watch the San Juan Capistrano, let alone run in it.

There was Hill Rise, a son of Hilary, conqueror a week ago in the $100,000 added Santa Anita Handicap of Gun Bow and Candy Spots.

There was Niarkos, the Argentine aristocrat.

And Batteur, a daughter of Bold Ruler, the dominant sire in North America. And a host of others in the San Juan, members of the equine set's Who's Who.

And there was George Royal. He was nine months old when Bobby Hall and Ernie Hammond first saw him, a son of Dark Hawk, now dead, and Polly Bashaw. The family tree was considered solid but not spectacular.

Hall remembers him as a "rather unimpressive looking yearing, quite a bit smaller than horses of his age."

Wilson Dunn offered them another horse, Nyet Nyet.

★ ★ ★

George Royal, a four-year-old B.C.-bred, stunned the North American racing world Thursday by capturing the $125,000 San Juan Capistrano Handicap at Santa Anita. (See story of the race on page 12.)

(Times racing editor Hal Malone describes the success story of the $2,000 colt whose earnings total $155,000; the impact on B.C. breeding, George's stature as the best horse ever bred in Western Canada, and how he caught the fancy of B.C. fans.)

"We paid $3,000 for both of them," Hall recalls. "We figured George was worth $2,000 and the filly a thousand."

Nyet Nyet was a twin, a thoroughbred rarity. She was not expected to amount to much. She lived up to expectations.

But George grew like Topsy. at slightly over 16 hands he is average size but his conformation is eye-catching.

Why did Hall and Hammond buy him?

"I've always liked Dark Hawk offspring," Hall says. "And the dam, Polly Bashaw had thrown a filly named Polly Royal. She was quick — very quick — but couldn't carry her speed far.

"I reasoned that George might be better and if there was a chance, I wanted a piece of him.

CAMPER, CAR DESTROYED IN BARN FIRE

A camper, an old car and several tons of hay were destroyed this afternoon in a barn fire in Central Saanich.

The fire, still burning at press time, was at the home of H. E. Baade, 1401 Stelly's Cross Road.

Central Saanich volunteer firemen rushed to the blaze from an earlier brush fire in grazing land on the west side of West Saanich Road near Benvenuto, two miles away.

The barn fire on Stelly's is believed to have occurred when a brush fire got out of control.

The volunteer brigade called for assistance from Sidney fire department.

WCB Pensions Bill In House

A bill authorizing the provincial cabinet to raise workmen's Compensation Board pensions was introduced in the legislature today by Labor Minister Leslie Peterson, making good on his promise Thursday to consider such a move in order to allow the government to act quickly when the Tysoe Commission Report on the pensions is delivered later this spring.

Purse Graded

Vancouver Island members of the B.C. division, Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association, today ratified by a 2-1 majority a graded purse schedule for the 1965 horse racing season.

Mainland members of the HBPA will vote on the issue in Vancouver Tuesday.

Regional Boards

Regional boards to be set up at the discretion of the minister of municipal affairs —with provisions for a prior study—are provided in a series of amendments to the Municipal Act introduced to the legislature this afternoon.

A bill to create regional parks boards, dovetailing with the "semi-metro" proposals in the Municipal Act amendments also was filed.

Traffic Snarled In Washington

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Civil rights demonstrators threw their bodies across Pennsylvania Avenue in front of the White House today to block rush hour traffic. About two dozen were hauled away by police after a rough tussle.

Fifty-four girls and boys linked arms and sat down on the street on the avenue. Police had to drag them into their wagon. Thirty-nine demonstrators were arrested as police used night sticks to get them into the wagons to make them move.

The demonstrators fought back against the police attempts to pick them up. Some carried signs reading: "We will be moved only by troops—not flowers."

NEW YORK (AP)—A swelling chorus rang out across the U.S. today in support of the Negro voter registration campaign in Alabama.

Students, civil rights leaders, clergymen and government officials joined in demonstrations Thursday over the racial strife that has gripped Alabama in the past week. Most of the demonstrations took the form of sympathy marches for the cause of the Negroes.

Many memorial prayer services are being planned for the weekend for Rev. James J. Reeb, 38, a white minister from Boston who died Thursday night after being clubbed three days ago in Selma, Ala.

Bitter words were directed against Alabama Governor George Wallace Thursday by two other Democratic governors.

North Dakota's Governor William Guy sent a telegram to Wallace saying he was "appalled at the treatment that Alabama law allows one Ameri-

Go To Selma Churchmen Tell Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four thousand churchmen from across the United States heard an appeal today for a visit by President Johnson to strife-torn Selma, Ala., and a call for a "strong" bill to guarantee Negroes voting rights in the U.S. south.

Clergymen jammed the Lutheran Church of the Reformation in an inter-faith rally called by the commission on religion and race of the National Council of Churches.

The meeting was preparatory to sending a delegation to the White House and visits to members of Congress, seeking guarantees against a repetition of the beating of voting rights marchers and the slaying in Selma of Rev. James Reeb of Boston.

Methodist Bishop John Wesley Lord of Washington told them many whites and Negroes in the south are "disenchanted and in great despair" over the turn of events and that the president's presence would do much.

LAUNCH FUND DRIVE

Simultaneously, three religious groups announced the launching of a joint campaign to raise funds to lessen the hardships of families of civil rights marchers, including the family of Reeb, a white minister of the Unitarian Universalist Church.

REEB DIES AFTER CLUBBING

Minister 'Martyred Hero' In Race Struggle — King

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A white Boston minister who came to Alabama to join the drive for Negro civil rights died Thursday night, 48 hours after he was beaten by a group of white men.

The death of Rev. James J. Reeb, 38, brought telephone calls of sympathy from the president and the vice-president of the United States and messages from well wishers across the continent.

Selma has been the centre of a Negro voter registration drive for more than a month, a drive led by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

King said Reeb "now joins the ranks of those martyred heroes who have died in the struggle for freedom and human dignity."

The Unitarian minister and father of four children died at University Hospital where he had been in a coma since brain surgery Tuesday night. Mrs. Reeb was by the bedside.

The body of Rev. Reeb was cremated and the ashes flown to his home town at Casper, Wyo., today for burial.

Reeb and two other Unitarian clergymen were beaten when they were attacked by a group of white men on a Selma street. The other ministers were not hurt seriously. Reeb was driven 90 miles to Birmingham, where he underwent emergency surgery.

Wilson Baker, Selma's public safety director, said four Selma men had been arrested and charged with murder. They were released later on $25,000 bail each. Baker said Alabama law permits bail on a murder charge if there is any indication a jury will not return the death penalty.

Reeb was working for the American Friends Service Committee at the time he died.

RACE VIGIL CONTINUES IN TORONTO

TORONTO (CP)—About 100 demonstrators sat on the sidewalk in front of the United States consulate here today, watched by a dozen policemen, as their protest against anti-Negro violence in Alabama continued.

About 60 demonstrators maintained an overnight vigil in front of the building. It was their third day of demonstrating.

About half of the demonstrators were students from Toronto and Hamilton. The others were from Toronto's Bohemian community.

In Our HOUSE

By Arthur Mayse

Among members of what the premier likes to describe as the most exciting club in British Columbia, pink and sturdy Leo Thomas Nimsick often hears himself referred to as "Leo the Lion."

This title the sometimes verbose MLA for Cranbrook shrugs off with an amiable smile; but on Wednesday evening and Thursday afternoon, Leo Nimsick fully justified his nickname in the House.

Since 1961, a royal commission has been snailing its ponderous way through the entanglements of barbed wire and red tape which, according to opposition members, have kept industrial accident victims from a fair shake.

On Wednesday, Mr. Nimsick took it into his sparsely-thatched head that workmen's widows ($90 a month pension) and orphans ($35 each) have Letter Hints Rivard in B.C.

MONTREAL (CP)—Mrs. Lucien Rivard said today she has received a letter from her husband dated March 6 and sent from Vancouver.

Mrs. Rivard said the four-page letter told her not to worry.

She also quoted it as saying: "I love you. Forgive me."

The letter said another such communication will follow in two weeks, Mrs. Rivard said.

Interviewed at her home in north-end Montreal, she said Rivard "told me he'd be in another place when next I heard from him."

Mrs. Rivard said the envelope containing the letter was "glued together" when she received it.

She said a representative of the weekly newspaper Dimanche-Matin had obtained the letter but she declined to say under what conditions. She added, however, that it would be returned to her Sunday.

Earlier, Jacques Francoeur, publisher of Dimanche-Matin, said his paper had received a copy of a letter.

In Quebec City, Attorney-General Claude Wagner told reporters he knew nothing of the letter and that their questions about it were the first time it had been brought to his attention.

Mrs. Rivard, dressed in a turquoise two-piece suit, looked a little tired during the interview but said she was fine.

Asked if life was continuing the same as before her husband escaped, she said: "It's not quite the same."

The hurried interview was conducted in the front hall of her modest looking brick two-storey home, with only a glass door between the visiting reporter and a large dog she keeps for protection.

After five minutes she excused herself to tend to lunch for a guest.

Cowlishaw Questioned On Rivard

"Blood Bomber" David Cowlishaw was picked up by RCMP officers in Vancouver today for questioning about the whereabout of Lucien Rivard.

Questioned after his police interview, Cowlishaw told the Times he is aware of Rivard's hiding place but said he refused to make it known to the police.

Asked why he was not arrested for aiding and abetting a fugitive, Cowlishaw said he did not think it was so much a case that police didn't believe him as that they knew he would not tell.

"What could they gain by holding me if I wouldn't tell them where he was?" said Cowlishaw.

Cowlishaw best known in recent years for his organization "Underdog" which claims to assist persons wrongfully accused or punished, last year gained notoriety by throwing a carton of blood onto the floor of the House of Commons at Ottawa.

Pearson, 'The Unhappy Warrior' Featured in New Times Series

Two important series of articles will begin in Saturday's Times.

They are "MUST" reading for Canadians at the present juncture in the nation's affairs.

On the front page will be launched a ten-part series by the brilliant Ottawa writer Peter Newman on Prime Minister Lester Pearson. They will appear daily.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Newman has entitled his articles "The Unhappy Warrior," in which he deals particularly with the period since Mr. Pearson took charge at the head of a minority government.

Mr. Newman, whose biting biography of John Diefenbaker, "Renegade in Power," became the country's best selling book, has been researching the Pearson series directly for the past two months and indirectly throughout his years as an inside observer of the Ottawa scene.

Hugh MacLennan, distinguished Canadian novelist, called Renegade in Power "certainly the most remarkable biography I have ever read of any Canadian. The clarity, the completeness and cohesion of the portrait give 'Renegade' the great internal authority of a work of art."

This authority is carried through into Newman's examination of Pearson's performance as Canada's fourteenth Prime Minister—the performance in which he appears as an unhappy warrior.

★ ★ ★

In the same issue Gerald Clark, associate editor of The Montreal Star, begins in Weekend Magazine a penetrating series on Canada's problem in Quebec—the quiet revolution, the separatists and the difficulties allied with them.

Mr. Clark's articles will appear each Saturday for four weeks.

Margaret and the Beetles

THIS WORLD OF OURS

People and Things

(Times News Services)

LONDON—Princess Margaret went out Thursday in a pair of black mesh stockings with dozens of artificial beetles—not beatles—crawling up them. A fashion writer accused her of being out of style.

"The Royal Family in kinky stockings at last," writes Jean Rook in The Sun. "But it's a bit late. Frankly, those stockings are old hat now. Are Margaret's new, or were they hidden away in her bottom drawer?"

In London slang, kinky roughly means deviating from the normal.

Miss Rook adds: "The princess' stockings cost six shillings 11 pence (94 cents). Selfridge's, a big department store, stopped selling them a year ago."

Margaret, 34, wore her fancy stockings to a rehearsal for the royal ballet school's production of Prince Igor.

TORONTO — Somebody stole a car belonging to Leonard (Red) Kelly from a parking lot outside Maple Leaf Gardens Thursday. The Liberal member of Parliament for York West and centre for Toronto Maple Leafs promptly reported the theft to police.

Late Thursday night, Kelly was still carless.

A reporter telephoned police headquarters to ask how the search was progressing.

"Who's Red Kelly?" he was asked by the constable on duty.

TORONTO—Wayne Marshall, 15, had his hair cut and then he went to school resembling an old English sheep dog.

The haircut had been cooked up between Wayne's mother and principal Eric Runacres of St. Andrew's Junior High School in suburban North York.

Mr. Runacres had two staff members hold Wayne while he cropped the hair that dangled over the Grade 8 student's eyes.

Mrs. Marshall later thanked Mr. Runacres.

Mr. Runacres said he cut the boy's hair because of his "flagrant and insolent refusal" to have it cut himself.

Mr. Runacres said he allows boys to wear their hair any way they like, but not in a way that covers "ears, collars or eyes."

Saul Cowan, chairman of the school board, said he will investigate.

BAY CITY, Mich. — Last spring, John McKay and Lewis Seward, both 8, were playing at school during a recess.

They accidentally bumped heads and John lost most of a front tooth. He couldn't put it under his pillow for the good fairy, however, because it was lost.

Last week, Lewis bumped his head again on a corner of his desk at school and it began to swell.

He was taken to the doctor and x-rays showed that John's tooth was imbedded under Lewis' scalp.

The tooth was removed after a 25-minute operation.

. . . COWLISHAW

At that time he was protesting an alleged injustice perpetrated against a man who said he had been an RCMP undercover man but had been disowned by the force.

Cowlishaw, a former Times reporter, says his current interest is in investigation of claims by Rivard, object of an international manhunt, that he is innocent of drug-smuggling charges.

Cowlishaw would not discuss Rivard's location, but related this story in the course of Times questioning:

"Last Sunday Underdog had a visit from a man who knew Rivard in prison. The man was from Montreal and he had been helped by Underdog a couple of years ago.

"He said he was representing Rivard and he told me where he was."

Cowlishaw said Rivard wanted Underdog to ask Ottawa officials "to ease up on the manhunt" now underway so that Rivard could have time to contact people who could clear his name.

Cowlishaw sent a wire March 7 to his lawyer in Toronto, John Weingust, asking him to approach Ottawa on Rivard's behalf. He used the false name Vardri in the wire but the lawyer understood, said Cowlishaw.

Cowlishaw also wired a private detective on Long Island, N.Y. asking him to assist by investigating persons in that area, who could possibly clear Rivard's name.

The lawyer wired that he would help. At the same time Cowishaw wired Arnold Peters (NDP — Temiskaming) asking him to negotiate with the federal government also. Later Weingust wrote that he doubted Ottawa could ease the manhunt and suggested Rivard give himself up. The lawyer suggested Underdog should contact the people who could possibly clear Rivard's name.

There the matter stood up to the time Cowlishaw was apprehended by Sgt. Steve Bunyk and Cpl. Frank Kilner of the RCMP in downtown Vancouver today.

Cowlishaw refused to reply when asked whether he would get in touch with Rivard urging his surrender or whether he would reveal the wanted man's whereabouts at a later time.

Cowlishaw recently attended sittings of the B.C. legislature here and it was reported he was under surveillance by police at that time.

REEB FUND SET UP HERE

A Victoria collection point has been set up to accept donations to a fund for the family of a U.S. minister killed by racial segregationists in Alabama.

Rev. Marvin Evans, Unitarian Church, said he will accept contributions at Box 43, Victoria.

He told the Times the fund was established today by his church in conjunction with the American Friends Service Community (Quakers) and Southern Christian Leadership Conference, Dr. Martin Luther King's organization.

Cheques or money orders should be made out to Unitarian Universalist Association, James Reeb Fund.

. . . GEORGE

"He looked . . . you could see something there."

Since then Hall and Hammond have been seeing winner's circles and dollar signs.

FINE RECORD

George won $8,000 as a two-year-old, $48,000 as a sophomore, almost $24,000 in California up to the San Juan. Thursday the payday was $75,000.

Students of arithmetic will agree that $155,000 for a $2,000 risk speaks well for prudent investing. He has won 11 of 16 starts in the last 12 months.

B.G. (Before George) there was little unanimity on the best horse weaned on B.C. grass.

Cum Laude was the first to poke his nose significantly into classy California company.

Others won pockets of admiration for feats at home and abroad. . . Oshodry, Eddie's Boy, Quality Quest, Galindo, Major Turley.

The Major was Don Carley's baby a grey ghost by Grey Skies and sold for a reported $22,000 to a prairie sportsman.

They say you never know what it's like to experience the joy of winning a major stake until it happens to you.

HE KNOWS FEELING

But out at 8325 Patricia Bay Highway there is a man who knows what it is like to stand in the sun at Santa Anita.

Precisely seven days and 12 years ago when racetracks weren't throwing out money as if it was going out of style, John D. "Speed" Kermode wore the broadest smile at Santa Anita.

His Eddie's Bo, bred in Cloverdale, was a galloping five-length winner of the $25,000 added Christopher Fitzgerald Stake.

Kermode still has the winner's circle picture on his mantel.

"Rogelio Trejos rode him that was his first major stakes win. Merv Peters (the president, steward of the B.C. Jockey Club, then a reporter) was there.

"We received a gold plate from Alan G. Potter, chairman of the Australian Jockey Club. And a cheque for $15,200."

"Yes," Speed Kermode said late Thursday, "I know how Bobby Hall and Ernie Hammond felt."

George Royal's fan club came into existence last summer. He reeled off six stakes successes, treating three-year-olds and older horses with equal disdain.

In the McLennan Plate, the form read: "George Royal appeared to be hopelessly beaten in first three-quarters but came with tremendous burst of speed around top turn and through the stretch to get to front in final few yards . . ."

QUIRK OF FATE

Toronto wanted a look at B.C.'s wonder horse. A quirk of fate intervened. The night before George Royal was to be shipped to E. P. Taylor's plush Woodbine for rich autumn stakes, his groom died of a heart attack. Owners Hall and Hammond decided on the spot to ship to California where reliable, knowledgeable George Dunn would be in charge.

B.C. racing fans expressed their feelings in writing. Six hundred sent him a telegram before the Santa Anita 'Cap. There were also "good luck" wires from Vancouver Mayor Bill Rathie and Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

Premier Bennett set history of sorts Wednesday night in the Legislature.

A few hours after George crossed the finish line, the Premier opened the night sitting of the House by announcing the colt's victory.

"A B.C. horse, George Royal," said the premier, "has won a major victory over some of the finest thoroughbreds in North America." MLAs cheered, echoing the pleasure of thousands of British Columbians who had listened to announcer Jack Short's telephone broadcast from the grandstand.

What will George Royal's success mean to B.C. breeding and racing? What does a winning sweep ticket mean to a pedlar?

Polly Bashaw, George's mother, has been sold or leased for a reported contract of $5,000 per live foal produced.

UNKNOWN PLATEAU

And George's brother has been sold for $15,000, the highest sum ever paid for an unraced two-year-old bred in B.C.

George Royal raised the stature of B.C.-breds to a hitherto unknown plateau Thursday. He knocked the best in California for a loop.

But California may get even.

Both Polly Bashaw and George Royal's brother were snapped up even before Gorgeous George left his imprint in the San Juan.

By whom?

By Californians.

Naturally.

RHODA ROGERS
. . . sees through impersonation

SEE REAL THING, STRIPPERS URGE

By EDDIE GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — "Any girl can take her clothes off. It's how she does it that counts."

The speaker, Sheila Sands, 25, a member of the striptease dancers' union, demanded Thursday that a movie studio fire three actresses hired to impersonate strippers.

The blonde stripper and red-haired Rhoda Rogers, 23, said they plan to take their case to American film producer Stanley Rubin. He hired the actresses for the movie, Promise Her Anything.

"These actresses may be able to act," Sheila continued. "But striptease requires great skill and a definite art."

Actresses asked to portray strippers are Vivienne Ventura, 19, Asa Maynor, 25, and Margaret Nolan, 21.

Speaking for them, Vivienne said:

"We are not playing professional strippers in the film. We are playing girls who are just getting started in the business. The scenes we're in also require acting ability. That's why we were chosen."

The strippers are members of the British Association of Strip Tease Artists.

"We shall be calling on the producer," said Rhoda.

Said producer Rubin:

"If this delegation arrives, I'll have to give an audience. I can't fire the actresses, though. That would not be fair."

Rubin said he would try to work out a compromise by writing in parts for one or two girls from the strippers' union.

"My problem is—do I want stripping or acting?" Rubin added. "As I need the acting, I had hoped to get acting and stripping."

Alaska's Governor William A. Egan said in a telegram from Washington:

"From the depths of my heart, George Wallace, I consider you to be even more guilty than those who wielded the actual weapons that murdered James J. Reeb.

"When your judgment day comes, I hope that God, in his infinite grace, can find some way to lend mercy for your soul."

Republican Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York said Thursday night that civil rights demonstrators in Selma have been treated with "inhuman brutality."

He said at Albany that "it is hard to believe that this is taking place in our country."

Protest demonstrations Thursday were in Los Angeles, Philadelphia, Newark, N.J.; Iowa City, Springfield, Ill., St. Paul, Greensboro, N.C.; Syracuse, N.Y.; Gary, Ind., and Toronto. Many also were planned for today.

. . . MAYSE

waited long enough for redress.

Batting aside government arguments that a matter in the hands of a commission shouldn't be tampered with, Leo the Lion roared to the attack.

Thursday afternoon found the House still in labor, and with ire unquenched by a night and a morning, Mr. Nimsick struck out for the widows and orphans again.

Backing him, he now had a veritable dragon's brood of tough fighters. Also, he had roused sympathy on the government side which independent minded Socreds Ernie LeCours for Delta and backbencher Don Robinson for Lillooet demonstrated by hearty slaps on their desks.

Booming boss-logger Gordon Gibson, North Vancouver Liberal, threatened to withdraw earlier kind works about Premier Bennett if Labor Minister Peterson failed to guarantee speedy action.

Opposition Leader Strachan declared himself tired of waiting in hope and optimism for the Workmen's Compensation Board to catch up with the cost of living index and raise the pensions of industrial casualties.

"Now," he told the House, "we've waited long enough!"

Then stubborn Socred LeCours added his say:

"A temporary increase would be in order. I suggest that anyone trying to exist on $90 a month is in dire need right now."

Final lick was delivered by Macdonald, who urged that pensions be increased by the minister through order-in-council until the commission reports, which will likely be in May.

Mr. Peterson: "I'd be pleased to give that consideration."

So the battle was won—or half won—for B.C.'s widows and orphans who have lost a breadwinner to industrial mishap.

The epilogue was delivered by John Squire, NDP for Alberni, who has fought for the underprivileged times aplenty in this same legislative chamber.

"My friend from Cranbrook," said Johnny Squire of Leo the Lion, "has carried the ball. . . I sat back and watched him . . . and, by golly, he's done a real good job."

* * *

Amen to that! But let no one jump to the conclusion that Minister Peterson is the villain of this piece. These industrial pensions are essentially industry's pigeon through the WCB.

I think government would do well to consider reducing Mr. Peterson's very heavy workload by some juggling of portfolios. Either education or labor is task enough for one minister to handle; and each is a key department.

Could Speaker William Murray but divest himself of gown and billycock hat, here, at the cost of an excellent referee, would be a first-class reinforcement to a cabinet which needs one.
